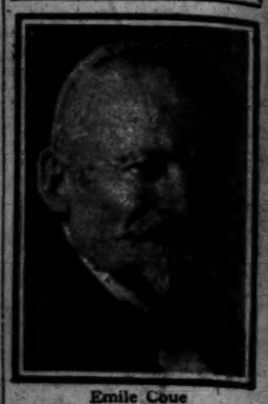
WILL LECTURE ON HIS "DAY BY DAY"



Emile Coue

Emile Coue, leader in the modern cult of healing by autosuggestion, will present and explain his famous method Monday and Tuesday afternoons, at the Gamut Theater, under management of L. B. Behymer. Mr. Coue is known by the phrase, "Day by day in every way I am getting better and better."

In the course of negotiations for the lectures, Mr. Behymer received the following letter from this exponent of self-mastery setting forth some of his ideas which have startled the world into acceptance. Mr. Coue's letter reads in part:

"You ask why I adopted the particular self-healing slogan? After many experiments I found it the most effective. The principle of it is evident to the thoughtful person. I evolved it, because there had to be something that would keep the right idea before those who were suffering, and the little jingle does the work.

"The reason for using it is because you cannot talk to your unconscious mind as clearly as you would talk to another person. When you do that it is one active mind addressing another. You must reach your unconscious mind, which is the unfettered control agent of your being, by talking to it when you are really in the twilight of consciousness, such as when you are dropping off to sleep. At that moment, the active mind is going out, while the unconscious mind is coming into power. If you can slip one word across the border of consciousness into the other realm, you will soon control your unconscious mind and make it work wonders for you."

RAILROAD MAN STOPS HICCOUGHS ATTACK

TAKES THREE MINUTES AFTER DOCTORS STRIVED FOR 108 HOURS

A case of hiccoughs endured for 108 hours was brought under control by a glass of water accompanied by a gentle massage behind the ears, administered by L. A. Roberts, a railroad man from Minneapolis, yesterday.

Mr. Roberts called at the home of Walter Meng, 4558 Hester street, after he had read in newspapers that Mr. Meng had so serious an attack of hiccoughs that doctors could not stop it. His simple treatment proved effective immediately and three minutes after his arrival the hiccoughs had subsided.

DOHENY BARES DEALINGS WITH HIGH DEMOCRATS

McAdoo, Gregory, Garrison and Lane Hired by Oil Interests After Leaving Cabinet

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—William G. McAdoo, candidate for the Democratic nomination for President, and Thomas W. Gregory, the Democrat selected by President Coolidge to assist in the prosecution of the oil-lease cases, have had employment as counsel for oil interests, Edward L. Doheny, California oil magnate, testified today before the Senate investigating committee.

Mr. Doheny said he personally had retained McAdoo after his retirement as Secretary of the Treasury; that he thought his company had paid him "all told" about $250,000 in fees, and that he now pays him a retainer of $50,000 a year.

His company and a half dozen other oil companies employed Mr. Gregory after he quit as Attorney-General, Mr. Doheny stated, for the purpose of appearing before President Wilson or the State Department in connection with Mexican oil matters. His company's share of the fee paid was $2000, he said.

TWO OTHERS EMPLOYED

Testimony was also given that companies in which Mr. Doheny and his interest had given employment to two other members of the cabinet in the Wilson administration after they quit office, Franklin K. Lane, former Secretary of the Interior, and Lindley M. Garrison, former Secretary of War. Mr. Lane was assistant to the president of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company, Mr. Doheny said, while Mr. Garrison was associated with the New York banking firm of Blair and Company.

The committee also was told by Mr. Doheny that he had advanced $100 to Leo J. Stack of Colorado, who told him he wanted the money for George Creel, chairman of the Committee on Public Information during the war, when Stack was employed. Mr. Stack said, in connection with efforts to prevent the closing of the naval reserves to Californians after the change of administration. This was in 1920, he added, when he and Mr. Stack were seeking to get a lease on the Elk Hills reserve from the then Secretary Daniels.

DANIELS ATTACKED

A sharp attack on Mr. Daniels was made by Dr. Doheny in discussing the policy of the former Navy Secretary in refusing to lease the reserves. He asserted that Mr. Daniels knew "there were big companies on the outside taking this oil out and that to lease the reserves would prevent them taking it out." The Standard Oil Company was mentioned by Mr. Doheny as one which he charged Mr. Daniels was "trying to protect."

Evidence relating to the employment of former Democratic officials by oil interest was brought out in response to inquiries by Chairman Lenroot as a result of a demand made in the Senate yes-

DOHENY JOB EXPLAINED BY McADOO

Connection With Oil Man Had Nothing to Do With Leases, He Says

Soon after E. L. Doheny made his further revelations at Washington yesterday, William Gibbs McAdoo at his law offices here issued a statement explaining his connection with the Doheny oil interests.

He told of his retention as attorney for the California oil man in about the same way that Mr. Doheny had explained it before the Senate investigating committee.

Mr. McAdoo also dispatched a telegram to Senator Walsh of the Senate oil inquiry committee in which the one-time Secretary of the Treasury expressed a desire to testify before the committee. Mr. McAdoo with his wife, Woodrow Wilson's daughter, already had planned to go to Washington to be at the bedside of the former President. They will leave today over the Santa Fe at 11:30 a.m.

Mr. McAdoo's statement follows:

"The dragging of my name into the investigation of oil leases at Washington is wholly without justification of any sort. In 1919, a year after leaving President Wilson's Cabinet, my former law firm in New York, McAdoo, Cotton & Franklin, was retained as counsel by Mr. Doheny's companies and, upon my removal to California in 1922, I was retained as special counsel here, such employment being entirely in connection with the Mexican affairs of Mr. Doheny's enterprises. I have never at any time been employed or consulted regarding any oil leases anywhere in the United States. When Mr. Doheny sought the services of McAdoo, Cotton & Franklin in New York in 1919, it was represented to us that under Article 27 of the new Mexican Constitution (against which our government had filed a protest on its adoption some years before) an attempt was being made to confiscate the valuable properties of Mr. Doheny's companies in Mexico. The members of my firm, after consideration of the matter, concluded that the case was meritorious. We accepted it and did all

TRIO MAKE DASH FROM DEATH CELL

Force Arkansas Warden to Pilot Prison Car and Lock Up Other Officials

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

LITTLE ROCK, Feb. 1.—Posses combed the countryside about Little Rock tonight with the hunt centering about "Echo Valley," a rough and heavily wooded section fifteen miles east of this city, in pursuit of Emory Connell and Joe and Eulos Sullivan, who after a spectacular escape from death cells in the Arkansas penitentiary today, forced Hamp Martin, prison warden, to drive them through the penitentiary gates to liberty.

The abandoned prison car later was found on the edge of the "Valley."

The three men all under death sentences, escaped after they had held up the warden and three other men, locked all except the prison official in cells, and forced the warden to lead the way to his automobile, parked in the prison yard and drive them beyond the penitentiary walls.

Martin was put out of the automobile in which the men fled about a mile from the prison. He immediately gave the alarm and a search began.

REBELS QUITTING MORELIA

War Secretary Reports Evacuation Being Made With Insurgents Refusing to Give Battle

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 1.—War Secretary Serrano has arrived in Mexico City and Celaya reporting that the revolutionists have begun the evacuation of Morelia and that following their customary tactics are refusing to give battle to the loyal troops.

Before Morelia was evacuated, Gen. Serrano said, the rebels executed Gen. Manuel M. Lopez, defender of Morelia, who was taken prisoner when the city fell as well as Gen. Cecilio Garcia. Gen. Serrano was accompanied by Gen. Eugenio Martinez.

Special despatches say the rebel forces have retired to Puruandiro, apparently determined to return to Jalisco.

Gen. Marcelo Caraveo who was ordered from Toluca to co-operate in the attack against Morelia has occupied Zitacuaro, defeating the rebel leaders Herrejon and Renteria Luavinao. President Obregon has instructed Gen. Caraveo to pursue Herrejon's forces as his aid at Morelia is not needed.

Private sources report the occupation of Cordova by Gen. Urbalejo's cavalry, which yesterday was four miles distant at Fortin.

Jalapa, capital of Vera Cruz, also is expected to fall into the government's hands, according to special despatches from Orizaba, which say that the rebels are reported to want to negotiate for surrender.

The war correspondent of El Democrata quotes Gen. Urbalejo as saying that the intelligence service has reported the revolutionists are evacuating Vera Cruz, considering it impossible to oppose Gen. Martinez who is advancing against the port. The rebels apparently are marching into Oaxaca.

The Vera Cruz government will be established temporarily at Orizaba, the governor, Adalbarto Tejada, already having started from Mexico City for Orizaba.

SENATE RATIFICATION

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 1. — The Senate approved the general claims convention between the United States and Mexico at 3:30 p.m. today by a vote of 28 to 14. This is the convention drawn up during the conference in Mexico City last summer between the United States representatives, John Barton Payne of Chicago, and Charles B. Warren of Detroit and the Mexican government representatives. It provides a fair settlement of the various claims by American citizens for damage to these properties in Mexico in the various wars and revolutions.

Doors of Third Shrine Removed Giving Better View of Sarcophagus

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LUXOR (Egypt) Feb. 1.—Howard Carter and members of his staff have buckled down to work in earnest in dismantling everything in the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen in order to hasten the impressive moment when the great pink sarcophagus shall give up its secret.

This morning, without any difficulty, the doors and the front and rear cornices of the third shrine were removed, giving a better view than has hitharto been possible, of the splendid fourth casket, shining brilliantly beneath its sheath of plastered gold.

On either side of the batten doors is a large figure of the king in relief, surmounted by protective hawk's wings and covered with inks of hieroglyphics praising the name of Tut-Ankh-Amen and calling blessings down on him.

BANDIT SHOT BY POLICE

Cafeteria Robber Fleeing From Crime When Wounded; Condition Critical

Robert K. Garland, 30 years of age, of Watts, was shot and probably fatally wounded late last night at Seventh and Broadway by Police Officer O. L. Elliott. The wounded man had just held up John A. Clay, cashier of Leighton's Cafeteria, and had fled into the dense crowds carrying a handful of silver coins, taken in the hold-up. Clay gave the alarm following the robbery, attracting the attention of the officer.

Garland confessed the hold-up, police said.

The wounded man was taken to the Emergency Hospital where he was given treatment. Surgeons said he had slight chance for recovery. He was shot through the back. Officer Elliott was less than a dozen feet from the bandit when he fired, it was said. He fired but once.

Shortly after this episode was reported to the police, two bandits, armed, walked into the Bloom Drug Store, Fourth and Cummings streets, held up two clerks and escaped with $75, the contents of the cash register.

DOCTORS GIVE UP ALL HOPE AS WILSON NEARS DEATH'S DOOR

Former President Makes Brave Fight but Realizes End Is Near; Physicians Handicapped by Patient's Weakened Condition

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—At 2 a.m. no change in the condition of former President Wilson was indicated. All was quiet at the S-street home.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—At 12:15 a.m. ex-President Wilson was still alive. All of the physicians, except Dr. Grayson, had left the sick room. The former President has been unconscious for most of the evening and his life is slowly ebbing away. He is kept alive by oxygen and morphine, which are being administered to ease his pain. Uremic poisoning is slowly but surely deadening the vital functions.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Woodrow Wilson is fighting against death at close quarters.

With a tenacity born of the old indomitable spirit that carried him through so many desperate battles in the momentous days of his service in the White House, he clung to life tonight after those about him had all but abandoned hope of his recovery.

By nightfall he had snatched back a little of the strength that had ebbed away in the earlier hours, but his condition remained grave and the watchers at his bedside realized how insignificant a turn for the worse it would take to snuff out the flickering flame of his earthly being.

As the evening hours passed the broken remnant of his vitality reached the stage in which both friends and physicians were powerless to do more than hope for the best. No one knew at what moment the supreme crisis might come, or whether he again would emerge victorious.

A conviction lay on all those closest about him, however, that even should he live to see the day, the end would be only a question of hours.

CAPITAL IS SORROWFUL

Wilson's Death Awaited

Police Surround Home of Former President as Crowd Gathers

Taft and Weeks Among Those to Call and Express Sympathy

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Up and down the steep, narrow street to Woodrow Wilson's home since he laid aside the Presidency for the peace of private life, there flowed today a curious traffic marked by the hush of an impending sorrow.

It was not very great as numbers go, for S street, where the Wilson home stands shoulder to shoulder with a half-dozen other mansions, is a byway of city traffic. But as word spread that the former President lay close to the end of his life's journey, a police cordon was necessary to free the street of motor cars that turned that way forward for the sickroom.

NO ENCOURAGEMENT

Admiral Grayson was the spokesman from the house of sorrowful waiting. Once, early in the day, he came out weary with his long vigil and his own emotion, while the reporters clustered close about him on the sidewalk. He could give them no word of encouragement.

The end was only a matter of hour, it seemed, and Mr. Wilson himself knew that it was near. The other doctors who had counseled with Dr. Grayson in the morning hours would not talk of the condition of the patient when they came out. But they were grave when they said the former President was sleeping and in no pain. It was plain they entertained no hope.

Opposite the Wilson home where a high bank stands fronting a stretch of vacant, brush-grown land, a line of passers-by grew and thinned and grew again. For the most part they were people of the neighborhood. Among them were little groups of children caught in the midst of their play by the sight of the silent watchers. Most of them have seen other crowds before that house, crowds of cheering, laughing folks who came to wait patiently until the bent figure of Woodrow Wilson should emerge at the doorway and send back a smiling answer to the cheers and applause that greeted him.

NO CAUTION NECESSARY

There were bands to play and orators to speak those other times and the children who came today seemed at first to expect such another moment of excitement and pleasure. But they caught the sorrowful expectancy of the gathering very quickly and drifted silently away. It was not necessary that anyone should caution them to be quiet.

In the afternoon there began to arrive friends who stopped only to leave cards at the door. There were many of those, and many times messenger boys came speeding up or down the hilly street to leave messages of sympathy and hope for Mr. Wilson. Among those who came afoot to leave a card was Ambassador Alencar of Brazil and shortly afterward a small group of Filipinos from the Philippine independence delegation now in Washington.

The room where Mr. Wilson lay is high in the back part of the house, his windows looking out toward the south over the brick walled garden that rambles down to the street below. There was no fear that the coming and going at the "S" street entrance of the house would disturb him, even the noises of the streets about could rise but softly to that quiet room and none sought through the day

CONDITION OF WILSON STIRS PARIS

Reports from Bedside Are Awaited With Anxiety; War Days Recalled

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

(Copyright, 1924, by the Chicago Tribune.)

PARIS, Feb. 1.—Former President Woodrow Wilson, who a month ago was intensely unpopular in France on account of his armistice speech, has become the object of universal attention by France during the last few hours.

Bulletins on his condition are posted [illegible] Matin and other newspapers with offices on the boulevards, the main streets and in the center of Paris, while the government wireless stations during the last two broadcasting periods (9 and 10:45 p.m.) sent out all the material available on the former President's condition.

The emotionalism of the French people, which is easily aroused, already has moved back to 1919 when every cafe owner and truck driver turned out for the triumphal entry of the man who was then credited with "saving France from the boche."

This attitude is apparent in the groups of extremely ordinary citizens who are standing outside newspaper offices tonight as bulletins from press associations are going up on the boards. These crowds look like people who in ordinary circumstances would not even know the names of political figures in foreign countries.

ST. SAYS HE IS READY

He himself understood that the battle through which he was passing probably would be his last.

"I'm ready," he said to his friend and physician, Dr. Grayson. "You've done all you could. I am a broken machine. It's better that I should go than remain a helpless invalid."

Mrs. Wilson, who has been his constant companion since his long illness began, remained silent at his bedside as the battle went on. Miss Margaret Wilson of New York, the former President's daughter, and Joseph Wilson of Baltimore, his brother, joined her late in the day. Other members of the family also have been summoned by telegraph.

The digestive trouble that led to the present grave condition resulted from some injudicious choice of food taken Monday. Dr. Grayson was in North Carolina on a hunting trip, but Mrs. Wilson sent for him because, out of her long experience with the delicate constitution of the former Presi-

BRITAIN RECOGNIZES SOVIET

Diplomatic Relations to Be Resumed With Russia After Suspension of Six Years

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The government of soviet Russia has been accorded recognition by Great Britain and according to the text of a note given out at the Foreign Office tonight, embodying the government's communication to the soviets, diplomatic relations after a six-year suspension are to be resumed.

The recognition is unconditional and leaves all questions of treaties, debts, claims and other obligations to be settled later by agreement between the two governments. Russia is invited to send representatives to England to negotiate a treaty settling all outstanding questions.

CALLED HASTY

By a large body of opinion opposed to unconditional recognition of Russia, Premier Macdonald is accused of precipitancy.

These observers point out that, although in office only a little over a week, he is trying to settle the thorniest foreign problems without even waiting for the reassembling of Parliament.

But, it is added, he is sure of parliamentary approval in these matters because the Liberal party itself has advocated recognition of Russia.

SOVIET READY

It is understood that the soviet government has already indicated to the British government its readiness to appoint a mixed commission to arrange the treaty suggested in the recognition communication.

The motive pointed to for Mr. Macdonald's prompt action in his belief that British recognition, especially under the present uncertain conditions arising from the death of Lenin, might have the effect of hastening the time when some form of parliamentary institutions might be developed in Russia. The Premier's main object, however, is said to be the development of trade between the two countries as a means of remedying unemployment.

dent, she saw there might be real danger ahead. Meantime, Dr. Sterling Ruffin, who had helped care for Mr. Wilson in the White House, made an examination and prescribed a course of treatment.

When he reached Washington yesterday, Dr. Grayson found the patient up and around the house, although he had canceled his daily automobile rides about the city.

ORDERED TO BED

The physician ordered him to bed, but there were further stomach upsets, accompanied by a violent bleeding at the nose.

So rapidly had the new complication developed that Dr. Grayson spent last night at the Wilson home, and toward morning he found symptoms that told him an alarming situation was likely. Soon afterward Mr. Wilson suffered a sudden collapse and at 9 o'clock this morning the doctor summoned other medical aid and announced that the former President's condition was "very serious."

Dr. H. A. Fowler, a kidney specialist, who also had treated Mr. Wilson previously, made an examination and acquiesced in Dr. Grayson's verdict that little could be done. They tried to make him comfortable, but they decided the situation did not warrant a resort to heroic remedies because they could not be endured by the wasted constitution of the patient. But they remained within call, and in addition two nurses and an orderly were on duty in the sick room.

All of the former President's medical attendants were in agreement tonight that his death might come momentarily, or that he might linger for hours. They said no professional predictions would be made. Dr. Grayson left the house for a few moments shortly after 7 o'clock, but he arranged to be within instant call, and he again called for a general consultation of physicians two hours later.

PARTLY CONSCIOUS

During the evening Mr. Wilson remained conscious a part of the time, but there were frequent lapses into sleep. He was able to talk with those near him only in a whisper, and then with greatest difficulty. Some of the old symptoms that had yielded to the careful treatment of months came back on him, but for the most part he was free from complications, and had to fight only with the languor of a growing exhaustion.

The news of the serious turn in his condition, spreading quickly over Washington, aroused many echoes throughout the machinery of the government over which for eight years he had presided. President and Mrs. Coolidge were among the first to send a message of sympathy and express a hope of recovery to Mrs. Wilson. Chief Justice Taft called alone and on foot at the S street home, and left his card. In the House, at the motion of Republican Leader Longworth, an impending partisan debate over Teapot Dome disclosures was adjourned.

Another of those who called in the constant flood of humanity that transformed the quiet residential street and kept it crowded throughout the day, was John W. Weeks, Secretary of War. There were several of the former President's old friends admitted to the house, but none of them were permitted to enter the sick-room.

MANY DEATH RUMORS

The sudden collapse of the former President meantime had started many rumors of his death, and at one time late in the afternoon the flags on the great State, War and Navy Building across from the White House, were lowered to half-mast. The order was recalled a few minutes later.

Throughout the day and into the night Mrs. Wilson at her long accustomed post beside the sufferer, bore herself with the same fortitude that has made her devotion a subject of tender admiration throughout the national capital.

It was she who first nursed him when the hand of affliction was laid on him more than four years ago during his historic speaking trip for the League of Nations. In the flying trip across a continent to Washington she shared with Dr. Grayson the constant watch beside him, and it was only after he had been taken more gravely ill at the White House and had begun to win back his strength again that she consented to leave him even for the shortest intervals.

Not only in the highest places of the government, but among the rank and file of the citizens of Washington was further news from the sick bed awaited anxiously. In the days of his residence here, and particularly during the time he has resided almost in seclusion at the house to which he went from the inaugural ceremonies of Warren Harding, Mr. Wilson has been a figure always of greatest interest to thousands who live in the capital. He has been greeted with many a wave of the hand by his fellow-Washingtonians as he took his daily automobile ride through the city, and crowds always have gathered to watch him enter and leave his favorite theater during his weekly visits there.

SEEM IMPROVED

To most of these observers he has appeared during recent weeks to have been somewhat improved in health. He took on flesh after he left the White House, and the filled-out appearance of his face often was mistaken as a sign of returning health. Those who believed his condition materially improved have been further deceived by his recent activities in public affairs; by his voluminous correspondence with his old political friends on subjects of current interest to his party; by his recent visits with the distinguished men of Europe on tour here, and by the fighting speech he delivered by radio on Armistice Eve.

But to his physicians and a little circle of his friends, the enfeebled condition of the man has been fully apparent, and they have understood but too well that his delicate hold on life might at any time be lost forever.

After a consultation of more than an hour, the three physicians attending Mr. Wilson issued a bulletin at 10:30 o'clock tonight saying that the former President had "gradually lost ground."

At that hour he was conscious, and was in no pain, but there was nothing either in the announcement or the demeanor of the physicians to raise hope that the end would long be delayed.

Drs. Ruffin and Fowler left the Wilson residence shortly after the bulletin was issued, but Dr. Grayson remained on watch during the night. He said he would make an announcement if there were any changes for the worse.

McAdoos Leave Today for Home of Sick Leader

Mr. and Mrs. William Gibbs McAdoo will leave today for Washington to join other relations of Woodrow Wilson assembled because of the former President's critical illness. The one-time Secretary of the Treasury and his wife, who was Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, began preparations for the trip as soon as they got word of the sudden turn in Mr. Wilson's condition. They have made reservations on the 11:30 a.m. train over the Santa Fe.

QUAKER CITY'S LIQUOR HIGH

Butler Makes Buying More Difficult and Price is Boosted

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1. "Gee, buying a quart of whisky in Philadelphia these days is like safe-robbing—only easy to do if you know the combination.

A visitor to our city departed yesterday with a wholesome respect for Gen. Butler's raids and the ingenuity of the few remaining bootleggers.

"You buy whisky in Philadelphia today by diagram. First, you must pass the scrutiny of an advance guard. If he likes your looks he tells you that, while personally he has gone out of the business, he can give you an address where you might buy a quart.

"If you persist in your search, the man at the given address greets you cordially, but tells you the same story about having no liquor. However, he picks up his phone, places the order for you, takes your money and tells you to go to a certain corner, where you will meet a man in a gray overcoat.

GIRL IS MODEST HEROINE

Rescues Two Men From Death in River Then Asks "What's the Idea of the Racket"

NORRISTOWN (Pa.) Feb. 1.—"Why all the excitement? It wasn't anything." Miss Violet Swartley, 18 years of age, thus brushed aside praise which her friends today heaped upon her for her rescue of two men from the Schuylkill River amid a swirl of ice cakes.

Pushing a small rowboat into the stream the girl risked her life to bring the men to shore. They were marooned on a small ferryboat and would have been dashed to death over a dam.

"What's the idea of all the racket?" were Miss Swartley's first words as she stepped on shore and was surrounded by several hundred men who had lined the banks, breathlessly watching.

SOMEBODY'S JOB

"It wasn't anything to boast about," said Miss Swartley today. "Somebody had to save them or they would have gone over the dam and drowned. I couldn't stand by without lending a hand."

William Higgins, Philadelphia, field auditor of the U.G.I., and Charles M. Strawn, Norristown, superintendent of production of the Counties Gas and Electric Company, were the men rescued.

The two men, with Charles Krout, engineer of the ferry, left the foot of Franklin avenue for Barbados Island shortly after 9 a.m. In midstream a huge cake of ice struck the craft. It swayed unsteadily and came to a stop.

Krout, realizing the danger, leaped from the ferry to the ice cake and motioned for Higgins and Strawn to follow, but they remained behind.

Leaping from one cake of ice to another, Krout made his way to within a few feet of the shore, when he was hurled into the water. He swam to the bank.

Workmen came running from the U.G.I. plant on the island as Higgins and Strawn called for help.

LEAP INTO BOAT

Attracted by the cries, Miss Swartley and her father ran from their home. Brushing her father aside, the girl seized an ice hook, leaped into a boat and started the dangerous trip to midstream. First one cable and then another of three holds the ferryboat were snapped by the pressure of the ice. Two hundred yards below could be heard the roar of the torrent rushing over the dam.

Following the directions which her father, an experienced river-man, shouted from the shore, the girl guided the little boat between the rushing ice cakes. Spectators lining the shore watched in silence as the ice several times almost overturned the rowboat.

Seeing the girl set out on the hazardous journey, the two men on the marooned boat sank to their knees and prayed.

Finally, Miss Swartley got the craft near enough to the ferryboat to get hold of the rope of a life preserver which the men tossed to her. The rowboat was pulled up and the men stepped into it.

In the next moment the third cable broke and the ferryboat, which the men had occupied a moment before, was carried down with the current and tumbled over the dam.

MORE GEM PLUNDER IS RECOVERED

Jewels Valued at $75,000 Are Found in New York by Detectives

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Detectives recovered today from a gem shop on the upper West Side an additional $75,000 worth of the jewels stolen from Mrs. C. P. Hugo Schoellkopf of Buffalo on New Year's Eve a year ago. This makes a total of $161,000 worth of the jewelry recovered within the last fortnight in Denver and New York.

The detectives were led to the shop by John W. Mahan, former jeweler, under indictment for criminally receiving the stolen gems. The proprietor of the shop, whose name police refused to divulge, turned over the property after a conference with Mahan and the officers.

Mahan, who had confessed to his part in the disposition of the jewels, recently led officers to Denver, Colo., where $86,000 worth of the jewels were found sealed in a fruit jar. He has refused to accompany the detectives to Scranton, Pa., where the remainder are believed hidden.

DEATH CLAIMS GEN. CHIPMAN

Lincoln's Military Aide Was 88 Years of Age

California Judge Called at San Francisco

Jurist Had Varied Career During Civil War

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—Brig.-Gen. Norton P. Chipman, retired, military aide to President Lincoln at Gettysburg, writer of the order under which Memorial Day was created, and former presiding justice of the Third District Court of Appeal in California, died at his home here this morning.

Justice Chipman was 88 years of age. He retired as a member of the District Court of Appeal about three years ago when his health began to decline. His illness began soon after the death of his wife in Sacramento five years ago.

Tentative arrangements for the funeral are that it will be held from Grace Cathedral, San Francisco, at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning.

TRIED FAMOUS CASE

Justice Norton P. Chipman probably was best known to the nation as Judge Advocate of the military commission which tried and sentenced to death Capt. Henry Wirtz, Andersonville (Ga.) prison jailer, who was hanged in Old Capital Prison for alleged atrocious cruelties to prisoners of war captured by the Confederacy in the Civil War, and for eleven murders of which he was found guilty. The testimony of this trial which required sixty-three days, beginning August 25, 1865, formed a theme of a book, "The Tragedy of Andersonville," written by Justice Chipman.

Veteran of the Civil War, bearer of dispatches for President Lincoln, author of the order creating Memorial Day and the only representative in Congress of the territory of the District of Columbia, Justice Chipman had a varied career from the time he enlisted in Company H, Second Iowa Infantry in April, 1861, two years after he had been admitted to the bar, until 1876 when he went to Red Bluff, Cal., to reside.

Justice Chipman was born at Milford, O. March 7, 1836. His parents were natives of Vermont. In his early life he resided variously at Keosauqua, Mt. Pleasant and Washington, Iowa. His principal education was received at an academy at Mt. Pleasant and at Washington College. He was a graduate of the Cincinnati Law School.

On his enlistment in the Second Iowa Infantry Justice Chapman was appointed lieutenant of Company H, and was elected by the officers as major. He was wounded in the charge of his regiment on the Confederate works at Fort Donelson, but recovered and resumed his post and after the battle of Shiloh, in which he participated, was promoted to the rank of colonel and adjutant and aide-de-camp on the staff of Maj.-Gen. Halleck.

SERVED AS JUDGE

In the winter of 1863-64, Justice Chipman was transferred to Washington where he served in the War Department under Secretary Stanton until the close of the war.

During this time he performed a special service as bearer of dispatches to commanders in the field by personal detail of President Lincoln. He was with Lincoln when the Gettysburg address was delivered. As Judge Advocate Justice Chipman tried a number of military cases in addition to that of Capt. Wirtz. At the close of the war he was brevetted brigadier-general of volunteers and resigned to practice law at Washington, D. C.

He was appointed Secretary of the District of Columbia by President Grant, when the district was given a territorial form of government. He served two terms as Representative in Congress for the district from 1871-1875.

It was while serving as adjutant-general of the Grand Army of the Republica on the staff of Gen. John A. Logan, Commander-in-Chief, in 1868 that he wrote the order creating Memorial Day. He also took an active part in the reorganization of the G.A.R. which was effected at that time.

For a number of years after he moved to California Justice Chipman was president of the California State Board of Trade. Since 1897 he had been a member of California courts. In 1906 he was elected to the California Appellate Court bench.

ESTATE IS WILLED TO HOMETOWN

Arizonan Leaves Fortune to Village of Beppora in Macedonia

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NOGALES (Ariz.) Feb. 1.—The bulk of a $300,000 estate in Southern Arizona and Northern Sonora has been willed to the village of Beppora, in Macedonia, by Anton Proto, a former Mayor of Nogales and four times elected to the City Council, who died here about a month ago.

Beppora was his birthplace. He and his brother Louis left there in 1878. From San Francisco, they came to Tucson in 1881 and a year later established themselves in Nogales. In 1884 they started a small bakery, which grew into one of the most important business enterprises of this section, with inclusion of the 250,000-acre Cocospera Ranch in Sonora, near Imures station on the Southern Pacific, and a large jobbing business in this city.

Louis Proto died in 1909, leaving a family, to which his share of the property was distributed. In the will of Anton Proto, Nogales, Son., and Nogales, Ariz., each is given $5000 for hospitals, $1000 for schools and $1000 for fire departments. Relatives are left $26,000.

FOREST REPORT REVEALS NEEDS

Senate Committee Presents Conservation Plea

Only Sixth of Virgin Timber Left in Country

Fire, Tax and Reproduction Problems Faced

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—For many years it has been pointed out persistently that one of the crying needs of this nation is an adequate forest program. After exhaustive study the Senate Committee on Agriculture has prepared a report containing statistics and conclusions which should convince every American of the immediate need of spending millions for forest conservation.

Heretofore this has not been easy to do. Always the suggestion of a large and expensive forest policy has been regarded with suspicion. But after years of patient effort on the part of conservation enthusiasts, Americans are beginning to realize that the depletion of the American woodpile is a serious matter. It not only involves a third of all the land, but it affects the cost of homes, offices, school buildings and churches; the cost of travel, clothing, food, furniture and reading matter.

There is left only a sixth of the virgin timber that nature supplied, and as a nation we are not, yet as old as the trees that are being cut. In places of some of the original forests there is a vast area of barren waste in need of reforestation that is more extensive than the combined forests of Germany, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, France, Switzerland, Spain and Portugal. This waste land is three-quarters the acreage of our remaining virgin timber.

PINE BELT GONE

There are still Americans living who can remember when white pine forest covered the entire country in an almost continuous belt from Maine to Minnesota. This belt has vanished, and in the lumber markets of the large cities one can buy mahogany from Madagascar or Central America cheaper than first-grade white pine lumber. The white pine lumber and other American varieties used in the East and Middle West must now come by freight from the far South or from the Pacific Coast.

This means an enormous freight bill. It is estimated that in 1920 Chicago alone paid more than $24,000,000 freight on lumber and other wood products. Statistics of this sort are quoted by the yard in the report of the Senate committee. It states that in the six years prior to 1920 the average rail haul of lumber increased more than 30 per cent; the freight bill advanced $100,000,000, and the freight bill on the average thousand feet very nearly doubled.

We pay more than twice as much for construction lumber as we did twelve years ago, while the freight bill alone is now in excess of the total delivery price thirty years ago. As Senator McNary of Oregon, chairman of the Senate Committee, pointed out, these figures better reveal the extent of the country's timber depletion than an actual census of the remaining stumps.

IMPORTS INCREASE

While this ever-rising freight bill is very sad, it is not as sad as the prospect of a country ultimately so devoid of timber that it will have to depend almost entirely upon a precarious European supply. Already the paper industry has had to resort to importation, while the furniture industry is using more and more foreign wood. As for the building trades, they are turning to the use of materials other than wood, which are proving cheaper. A great deal of building, moreover, is being postponed indefinitely in the slight hope that lumber prices will come down. Even wooden railroad ties are becoming much scarcer and costlier.

From this it may be seen that swift remedies are needed. The Senate Committee on Agriculture reports that the first and most important step in protecting, preserving and increasing forests is to stop forest fires. Fire is the chief menace. In 1922 alone fire destroyed 8,000,000 acres of forest land, with a resulting damage of $17,000,000. Yet experience has clearly indicated that with sufficient equipment this menace can be controlled. The problem of injurious insects and fungus pests is also one that needs attention, though it is much less urgent than the problem of fire.

TAX CHANGES PROPOSED

Another urgent necessity is a change in present methods of taxing forests and forest lands. Our forests have been so badly taxed through the years, it is said, that more wood has been wasted through this source than has been used by the entire furniture industry. Most of the States collect an annual tax on growing timber, which may not be ready for the market for five or ten years, or which is likely at any time to be destroyed by fire. Rather than pay this tax many farmers cut the immature timber on their land. If the States would place a low general tax on timber land, as there is on agricultural land, and then when the forest is cut place a tax on the yield of wood, it is believed that much of the present waste would be prevented.

The next most important step in increasing the American woodpile is to begin at once reforestation upon lands which have been so denuded that they are no longer capable of producing timber unaided. It is estimated that there are more than 80,000,000 acres of such land that must be artificially replanted if it is again to support forests.

ASK $2,700,000

All of these remedies are proposed in the report of the Senate committee drafting the new forest bill. It recommends a current appropriation of a total of $2,700,000, of which amount $2,500,000 is to be distributed upon a co-operative basis among the States for the protection of forest lands from fire. An additional $100,000 is provided for government co-operation with the States in the procurement and distribution of forest planting material; and another $100,000 for State educational work to promote timber growth.

COMES TO PRAY

A woman came to the door with the wish in her heart to pray for the sick man. The police officer on watch questioned her gently. She crossed the street and stood silently with head bowed for a few moments, then passed on down the street.

A very few came to seek admittance. Bernard M. Baruch was among those and he spent most of the day in the house seeking some way to be helpful. Joseph R. Tumulty, Mr. Wilson's secretary in the long stirring years of his political life, came and went at the house both day and night. His great personal grief was apparent.

Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, Episcopal bishop of Washington, came during the day to console and pray with Mrs. Wilson.

During the afternoon Joseph Wilson, brother of the former President, came from the house, hastening to meet Miss Margaret Wilson, hurrying to her father's bedside from New York.

WEEKS LEAVES CARD

Toward evening Secretary Weeks's car stopped at the bottom of the hill and he walked up to leave his card at the door. A little later Chief Justice Taft walked down the hill with his message of sympathy, and later, A. Mitchel Palmer, Attorney-General in Mr. Wilson's last administration, was admitted to the house for a few minutes.

As night fell, a cold wind rustled through the street, chilling the watchers. The group slowly broke up except for a knot of enlisted men from the noncommissioned officers' staff school, whose uniforms made a spot of color under the dim street lights. They were staunch admirers of the former President, and came to pay what tribute they could to him.

For those who stood long in the street, there was little to watch, just the comings and goings at a house of sickness, yet some of them remained long after dark before they surrendered to the cold and drifted away to leave the vigil to newspaper reporters.

WAR OF LETTERS IN TRIAL

Little Direct Evidence Entered in Candler Hearing Woman Proposed Secret Marriage

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

ATLANTA (Ga.) Feb. 1.—Trial of the $500,000 breach of promise suit brought by Mrs. Oneima De Bouchel against Asa G. Candler, jr., today developed into a battle of letters in the United States District Court here.

Attorneys for the Atlanta millionaire closed presentation of direct testimony this morning without offering a witness and relying upon the evidence adduced through the introduction of thirty-two letters written by Mrs. De Bouchel to Mr. Candler. In one of them she proposed a secret marriage to be announced after the divorce from her former husband was assured of a firm legal status. The plaintiff's counsel immediately opened with rebuttal evidence and forty-one letters which she received from Mr. Candler had been read when court adjourned at 3 o'clock for the day.

DIVORCE ATTACKED

The validity of the divorce decree obtained at Reno, Nev., by Mrs. De Bouchel from Adolph Rocquet as it affected the legal merit of her engagement to marry Mr. Candler, will be argued tomorrow.

Mrs. De Bouchel's divorce has been attacked by attorneys for Mr. Candler on the ground that she was not legally domiciled in Nevada at the time the decree was granted. The jury has been excused until 10 o'clock Monday morning when the plaintiff's attorneys will resume the presentation of rebuttal testimony.

The Democratic National Committee issued a report today showing that 6,641,265 persons would be benefitted under the Garner plan for tax relief against that under the Mellon plan. The statement also said it was estimated that either plan will raise an adequate amount of revenue for the government.

Frear Says Insurgents Will Fight Mellon Measure Loss by Democratic Plan Shown

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Rumblings of dissatisfaction among House Republicans over the action of the majority members of the House Ways and Means Committee in deciding to report a tax bill carrying the income rates proposed by Secretary Mellon crystallized today in an announcement by Representative Frear, Wisconsin, leader of the Republican insurgents, that his faction would not support the measure.

In announcing the stand of the insurgents, Mr. Frear revealed that a compromise on the Mellon rates had been virtually agreed upon yesterday by some Republican members of the committee, including Chairman Green and the insurgent groups. The proposed compromise rates, which were upset by the decision of the committee majority, included, it is understood, a 50 per cent reduction in the normal tax instead of a 25 per cent cut as suggested by Mr. Mellon and a maximum surtax of about 40 per cent instead of 25 per cent. Eleven members of the committee insisted upon the Mellon rates, which were adopted.

LOSS IS SHOWN

While the Republicans of the Ways and Means Committee worked on further details of the rate sections, preparatory to taking the bill up again next week in full committee, Secretary Mellon issued statements showing the rate reductions proposed by Representative Garner of Texas for the Democrats would cost the government $347,981,491 in revenue against a

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—[illegible] Nadle, 40 years of age, a paint manufacturer, shot and killed himself in his home this morning when his wife telephoned him that Circuit Judge Lynch had ordered his immediate appearance in court or refusing to pay her $2000 alimony under penalty of being sent to jail. Nadle shot himself after shouting through the telephone, "All they'll get is my dead body."

Mrs. Nadle, in a coin-operating telephone booth, heard the shot and hurried into the court room, informing Judge Lynch of what had happened. The judge postponed the proceedings and instructed Mrs. Nadle to go home and see what had actually occurred. When she arrived she found her husband unconscious on the floor beside the telephone. A bullet wound was in his right temple and a revolver lay near his right hand. She called a physician but Nadle died before the doctor arrived.

plaintiff's counsel intimated that their purpose was to offset the contention of attorneys for Mr. Candler that Mrs. De Bouchel was the aggressor in cultivating the acquaintanceship which led to the engagement to marry. The millionaire's lawyers, in reading the letters from the New Orleans society leader, had termed them "pursuit letters."

WAS NOT "SWEETUM"

A point arose during the morning's session over the salutation on the letters written by Mr. Candler and read to the jury by Albert Howell, Jr., leading counsel for Mrs. De Bouchel, as "My Dear Sweetum."

After a conference between Judge Sibley and Howell, it was agreed that the salutation should read "My Dear Sweet One." That a mistake had been made due to the indistinct character of the handwriting.

The attack on the divorce was outlined in an amendment which Mr. Candler's lawyers filed to his original answer the day the trial began. The contention was made that she did not establish a legal residence in Reno in obtaining a divorce from Rocquet.

The letters read by the defense counsel today from Mrs. De Bouchel to Mr. Candler were addressed to "My Darling" and signed "Sweet One."

Ex-Cabinet Democrats Named in Inquiry

EMPLOYMENT BY DOHENY TOLD

McAdoo, Garrison, Lane and Gregory Hired, He Says

today by Senator Reed of Missouri, who is a candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination. Mr. Reed insisted that the committee give Mr. Doheny a searching examination as to whether he had paid any money to men while serving as public officials or afterwards.

Mr. Doheny declared that he had not advanced any sums to any public official, while in office, other than the $100,000 which he has testified he lent Albert B. Fall, then Secretary of the Interior on November 30, 1921, nearly a year before his firm obtained the lease to California Naval Reserve No. 1 which the government now seeks to annul along with that to the Teapot Dome reserve granted to the Sinclair interest by Mr. Fall.

GREGORY OUT

As a result of the testimony of Mr. Doheny that Mr. Gregory was employed by a number of oil companies and that he has been counsel for the Island Oil Company, President Coolidge has definitely made up his mind not to retain him as counsel in the oil cases. The executive talked over the matter tonight with Chairman Lenroot and Senator Curtis of Kansas, the assistant Republican leader in the senate. He will see Mr. Gregory upon his arrivel here tomorrow from Texas.

Before resuming its inquiry today the oil committee decided to compel the attendance of Mr. Fall tomorrow morning for questioning. This decision was made after the committee's medical commission had reported in writing that the former Secretary is in condition to appear; that while he is in an "anxiety state," there is no evidence of any organic nervous disease and no psychoic symptoms.

After Mr. Fall testifies with reference to the Doheny loan and the loan of $25,000 made to him by Harry F. Sinclair, Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Montana, will broaden the scope of the inquiry in an effort to determine whether any public officials had transactions in stock of the Mammoth Oil Company, which was organized by Mr. Sinclair to take over the Teapot Dome lease. To that end he has had representatives of a number of Washington brokerage firms subpoenaed.

FALL NOTE SUBMITTED

Aside from hearing evidence as to employment of former public officials by oil interests, the committee received today from Mr. Doheny a mutilated note which he presented as evidence of his loan to Mr. Fall. The signature had been torn off and he explained that he had given it to his wife, they having decided to divide the note so that in case of accident to both of them the note would not be pressed for collecion by executors of their estates. He had been unable to find the scrap bearing the signature, he said, but promised to make another search at his home in Los Angeles.

Final Congressional action was taken today on the Walsh resolution authorizing the President to initiate court action for annulment of the oil leases and punishment of any persons guilty of any crime in connection with their negotiation. The House adopted the resolution on a rising vote, 120 to 4 more than a quorum—without any debate. Republican Leader Longworth said he thought debate should be dispensed with owing to the condition of former President Wilson.

DENBY VOTE DELAYED

In the Senate the Robinson resolution demanding the resignation of Secretary Denby for his part in the oil leases was laid aside until Monday, after Senator Robinson had offered a substitute which would limit it wholly to the naval secretary.

The oil leases got into Senate debate, however, Senator Heflin, Democrat, of Alabama, speaking again on them and making a general attack on the Republican party. He suggested a new title in place of Grand Old Party—Great Oil Party.

Senator Dill, Democrat, of Washington, assailed Mr. Gregory for not informing President Coolidge that he had been counsel for oil companies and suggested that Mr. Coolidge appoint in his place Justice Brandeis of the United States Supreme Court. He declared that Mr. Brandeis is an "able and fearless" prosecutor and that he should be given a furlough from the court to prosecute the oil cases.

DAUGHERTY PROTESTS

A denial that he was consulted by anyone as to wisdom, merits or legality of the California or Teapot Dome leases was sent to the Senate committee today by Atty.-Gen. Daugherty in a telegram from Miami, Fla. The message said:

"I beg to advise you and your committee that I was never consulted by anyone as to the wisdom, merits or legality of the California or Teapot Dome oil leases now under consideration by your committee, nor was the Department of Justice ever asked for an opinion or consulted in regard thereto. The Attorney-General is permitted to render his opinions only when requested to do so by the President and heads of governmental departments. I give you this information in justice to your committee, the Department of Justice, and all concerned.

DENIES CONTRIBUTIONS

After Mr. Doheny had been examined at length regarding the mutilated note which he asserted was evidence of his loan of $100,000 to Mr. Fall, Chairman Lenroot opened up the line of questioning which had been suggested by Senator Reed.

"Have you at any time contributed any money to any person who at the time was holding office?" asked the chairman.

"I do not think I have."

"Have you made a gift to any person in official office through an agent?"

"I have contributed toward the campaign of an individual who held office at the time."

"Have you contributed to officials in office through any corporation?"

"No, sir."

"Have you made a loan to any such person except to Secretary Fall?"

"No, sir."

LANE EMPLOYED

"You have testified that you would be willing to retain Mr. Fall as you had retained Mr. Lane immediately upon his resignation as Secretary of the Interior."

"I made arrangements with him (Mr. Lane) before he left office."

"With anyone else?"

"I think it was a short time after he left the Cabinet that we made arrangements with Judge Gregory to act as our attorney. I think he was employed by our company and other companies to represent us before the President in regard to a lot of permits we were trying to get in Mexico, when the government was refusing to grant permits to drill our own territory."

"How long was that after Mr. Gregory resigned?"

"I only recalled it yesterday."

"Through whom?"

"Through our books."

"Your company employed Mr. Gregory?"

SEVERAL COMPANIES JOIN

"Our company and a half-dozen other companies. The employment was through the Island Oil Company of which he was attorney. The Island Oil Company billed us for $2000 in funds paid Judge Gregory for this work."

"Who was President of the United States?"

"President Wilson, I think."

"Mr. Gregory, who has been Attorney General, was employed to do what?"

"To represent these companies in filing their petitions before the State Department and the President, I do not know which, asking their intervention in our demands that the Mexican government give us the right to drill our own lands."

"Mr. Gregory's employment was to secure action by the administration in these matters?"

"To get the administration to act."

INFLUENCE FAVORABLE

"You thought his connection would be favorable to your interests?"

"Yes."

"Anybody else?"

"When our properties were menaced by Mexico, we employed ex-Secretary McAdoo. I employed Mr. McAdoo."

"When?"

"I am not certain. It may have been a year after he left the Cabinet. I employed his firm to represent us in Washington in Mexican matters. About a year after he resigned from the Cabinet, I think."

"How long did he represent you?"

"Until the Mexican situation was practically cleared, or at least until the administration changed. He represented us in Washington as long as Mr. Wilson's administration remained. After that he did not represent us in Washington any longer. He then represented us in Mexico, and he still represents us."

PAID QUARTER MILLION

"Were his services during the last administration compensated for?"

"Yes. All told I think we paid him about $250,000."

"Have you employed any other members of the Cabinet or men in public life?"

"Mr. Cotter (who was with Secretary Lane in the Interior Department) was employed by us. He was an employee of the Interior Department before."

"Any other public officer?"

"Perhaps there may have been one or two others. I think probably Mr. Garrison (Lindley M. Garrison, Secretary of War in the Wilson Cabinet) was in our employment as an attorney. I think we employed his firm."

"When did you employ his firm?"

"They were employed by Blair & Co. (New York bankers) for many years. I am a member of that firm."

"You say Mr. McAdoo was serving your company before the departments and before the President as long as we had a Democratic administration?"

FOUGHT FOR SHIPS

"I would not say that. I think he did. I think his firm represented us before the Shipping Board. He had a great many claims before the Shipping Board for money due for ships taken out of our service, and he had a great deal of difficulty in recovering those ships. I think that Mr. Cotter of Mr. McAdoo's firm looked after these matters for us. I do not think that Mr. McAdoo ever appeared personally."

"Is the McAdoo firm your general counsel?"

"They were retained at that time for any purposes for which we needed them, but especially for Mexican matters, and Mr. McAdoo is now generally retained by us. He is of our general counsel and on annual retainer."

Replying to Senator Bursum, Republican, New Mexico, Mr. Doheny said his company paid Mr. McAdoo $50,000 annually.

Senator Bursum sought to draw from the witness whether there was any similarity in purpose of the loan to Mr. Fall and the retainer to Mr. McAdoo. The witness declared Mr. McAdoo had had no part in the negotiation of the oil leases; that he was employed in Mexican maters.

LAUDS SENATORS

In this connection the witness declared the Senate Foreign Relations Sub-Committee which investigated Mexican affairs under the chairmanship of Mr. Fall had done more good than all the lawyers in regard to that matter. Explaining that he probably had larger holdings in Mexico than any other American, he declared the country owed a debt of gratitude to Mr. Fall, and to Senator Brandegee, Republican, Connecticut, and former Senator Mark Smith, Democrat, Arizona, who served on the subcommittee with Mr. Fall.

Describing efforts he had made to obtain a lease of the Teapot Dome reserve in 1920 in conjunction with Leo J. Stack, of Colorado, Mr. Doheny recalled that he also had employed George Creel, who was head of the Committee on Public Information during the war. He described Mr. Creel as "the man who made the head of the last administration famous in Europe."

CREEL'S PLAN TOLD

Mr. Doheny said Mr. Creel had not talked to him about his employment, but added Mr. Stack had told him that Mr. Creel was "going to head off the granting of oil leases to Republicans after the change of administrations."

Mr. Creel's connection with the matter, so far as he knew, Doheny said, was only what Stack told him it would be. He said he had given Stack $5000 at Stack's request, and upon Stack's statement that he wanted it for Mr. Creel. That $5000 was a part, he added, of $8250 he had advanced to Mr. Stack in connection with efforts to get the Teapot Dome lease and did not bid for it against the Sinclair interests, but denied that this was the result of any understanding with Harry F. Sinclair.

Mr. Doheny discussing the policy of Josephus Daniels in refusing to lease the reserves, declared: "Mr. Daniels knew there were big companies on the outside taking oil out, and that to lease the land would prevent them taking it out."

PROTECTION CHARGED

"Do you think he was protecting the big companies?" asked Senator Walsh.

"That's what I said; take it or leave it just as you please," returned Doheny.

"Just what company do you believe Secretary Daniels was trying to protect?"

"The Standard Oil Company. He never interfered with them in taking oil out just as fast as it would come."

Mr. Doheny said George Creel had told Stack that Dr. Daniels would lease Teapot Dome.

"Who is George Creel?" asked Senator Stanfield, Republican, Oregon.

"He was the publicity agent for the Democratic administration during the war."

Creel was employed later by Stack, the witness said, to "head off the granting of leases to Republicans after the coming in of the new administration."

He added that he gave Stack $5000 to pay Creel and that this was part of the $8250 he expended in trying to get the lease to Teapot Dome.

"Who is Stack?" asked Chairman Lenroot.

"Adams can tell you; he's from his State," said Mr. Doheny, referring to Senator Adams.

WITHDREW OFFER

When he found the negotiations were going to be protracted and expensive, he withdrew when "someone" was found to reimburse him, he said. He could not recall who the "someone" was.

When the reserve was thrown open to leasing in 1922, Mr. Doheny said he was asked to bid on it and did not do so because it was too remote from his field of work in California.

The witness denied that his failure to bid and his withdrawal from the original negotiations in partnership with Mr. Stack was due to any agreement with Harry F. Sinclair, who obtained the Teapot Dome lease.

Examined by Senator Bursum, Republican, New Mexico, Mr. Doheny said he felt he was "under obligations" to Mr. Fall for "services rendered" by him in regard to Mexican affairs when Mr. Fall was chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee.

"Did you make the loan in connection with any oil leases?" asked Senator Bursum.

LEASES NOT IN MIND

"I didn't have in mind any leases then," Mr. Doheny replied. "A letter has been read here today that was a surprise to me." He was referring to a letter to Mr. Fall regarding storage tanks at Pearl Harbor.

Pressed as to how "strong" his friendship for Mr. Fall is, Mr. Doheny said "if the former Senator were out of a job tomorrow and in good health he could get employment with me."

"Would you loan him $100,000 again?" asked Senator Bursum.

"Under the present circumstances, I don't think I would," the witness replied amid laughter.

At the reopening of its hearing the committee had read into the record a letter from Mr. Doheny to Secretary Fall dated November 23, 1921, relating to the cost of constructing storage tankage at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. This was two days before Mr. Doheny, according to his voluntary statement, loaned Mr. Fall $100,000.

LETTER FOUND

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, pointed out that although the committee had called upon the Department of the Interior for all papers relating to the leasing of the naval oil reserves, the letter had not been transmitted to the committee until search for it had been made at the insistence of John Holland, private secretary to Senator Walsh. The letter was found in the possession of H. Foster Bain, director of the Bureau of Mines.

In this letter Mr. Doheny estimated that the tankage would cost $3,360,420, which if paid for in crude oil taken from the naval oil reserves, would call for 2,972,823 barrels of crude oil at the price then prevailing.

As a result of the inquiry the committee ordered that Holland be permitted to examine the files of the Navy and Interior departments for any documents that might relate to the oil leases.

Director Bain told the committee that he thought that the file containing the letter was a duplicate of the files which had been sent to the committee.

SIGNATURE MISSING

A note from which the signature had been torn was presented to the committee by Mr. Doheny as evidence of the loan to Mr. Fall. It was dated at Washington November 30, 1921, and made payable on demand. Mr. Doheny said he believed it to be in the handwriting of the former interior secretary.

Explaining the absence of signature, Mr. Doheny said he and Mrs. Doheny had come across the note some time ago and had agreed to "tear it in half" each to retain a part, so that collection would not be forced by an executor in case of the death of himself and Mrs. Doheny. He said the loan was an "accommodation one" and it was not desired that its collection be forced.

The witness said Mrs. Doheny had retained the signature and he had retained the other part. He added that a search had been made for the part bearing the signature but without success.

Mr. Doheny was asked why he had not given the committee the information about the tearing of the note.

FEARED IMPRESSION

"I thought it best," he replied, "to present the entire note and not only a part of the note because the proceedings in the public mind is regarded as a crooked transaction."

The witness testified that he and Mrs. Doheny had carried the two pieces of the note around with them.

"If we were killed in a railroad wreck," he said, "the note would be on our bodies. Our son would have known what it was, but the executors would not. Our idea was that Mr. Fall should not be pressed for payment until he was able to pay."

Questioned about the check for $100,000 which was cashed in New York and the money which was carried to Fall in Washington by Mr. Doheny's son, the witness said he had sent for the check and that a man was now bringing it from Los Angeles.

"I think he will arrive tomorrow," he said.

Relating again, at the insistence of Chairman Lenroot, the circumstances surrounding the loan, Mr. Doheny testified that he had indicated he would loan Mr. Fall the money needed to enlarge the New Mexico ranch holdings and that Mr. Fall had called him on the telephone in New York on November 29, 1921, and said he was ready to accept the offer of a loan.

Chairman Lenroot developed that the $100,000 in cash was received in a check of his son and not his

DANIELS DENIES DOHENY CHARGE

Declares He Did Not Favor Standard Oil Company

Tells His Policy on Leasing Naval Reserve Lands

Wished to Protect Property from Near-by Wells

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

RALEIGH (N. C.) Feb. 1.—Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, tonight declared that statements made by E. L. Doheny today, testifying before the Senate committee investigating the Teapot Dome leases, to the effect that he had during his administration favored the Standard Oil Company and other prospective lessees of oil reserves were "without foundation."

Mr. Daniels added that "Mr. Doheny would have a hard time convincing the Standard Oil Company that I favored them." He said that the only kind of leasing he had favored was to prevent the loss of naval oil by wells adjacent to naval reserves.

He asserted that he had declined to consider a proposition for leasing the oil reserves to two oil men who George Creel had told him wished to lease them.

NO LEASES MADE

He said also that the records showed "that though there were applications to lease oil reserves, not one was made to anybody in my administration."

Following is the statement made by Mr. Daniels:

"The statement that I favored the Standard Oil Company, in any way at any time, is without foundation. Mr. Doheny would have a hard time convincing the Standard Oil Company that I favored them.

"The only sort of leasing I favored was to prevent the loss of naval oil by wells adjacent to naval reserves. I wished to protect the naval reserve from any and all owners of adjacent oil sections. And in such cases, I recommended the maximum expenditure of $500,000 for storage of small quantities. This would have prevented any large leases or large operations on any naval reserves.

TURNED DOWN BID

"Not long before my term of office expired, Mr. George Creel said two oil men, perhaps Mr. Stack and another, wished to talk to me about leasing Teapot Dome. I told him I would not approve the leasing of any oil reserve, and moreover, there was no authority of law to lease these reserves. These gentlemen said they would pay as much as anybody. They added that they were sure Teapot Dome would be leased and that as they were Democrats and would pay as much as anybody else, they thought the lease should go to Democrats, rather than to let the incoming Republican administration lease this reserve to their favorites.

"I declined even to consider a proposition—told them I had given part of my time for seven years to protecting and securing naval oil reserves and would never consent to any policy except one of preserving the naval oil underground. I told them that in my judgment, no Republican administration would dare to let the naval oil reserves be exploited and that I would not consider a man's politics with reference to any business transaction with the Navy.

"The records show that, though there were applications to lease oil reserves, not one was made to anybody in my administration."

CREEL ISSUES STATEMENT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—George Creel, head of the Bureau of Public Information at Washington in President Wilson's administration, whose name was mentioned by E. L. Doheny in the Senate oil investigation today, issued a statement tonight in which he said:

"In late November, 1920, I was visited by Mr. Leo J. Stack, an old-time Denver friend of mine. He said that he was in the oil business—an independent — and had a plan in connection with the Wyoming naval reserve. As he made it clear, the incoming Republican administration with Senator Fall as Secretary of the Interior, meant to turn over most of the Wyoming and California reserves to private interests.

"Since this was bound to be the case, why not have them go to a company that would give the Navy a fair bargain and the best possible royalty terms? He offered me an advance of $5000 to associate myself with him and I accepted.

"I gave considerable time to the plan and we went to Washington and made repeated calls upon both Secretary Daniels and his adviser. Secretary Daniels's position remained the same throughout.

"Some weeks later, while in Washington I met Mr. Doheny in a hotel lobby and he made haste to inform me that the $5000 advanced by Stack had been Doheny money. I withdrew at once from all connection with the affair."

that we properly could for our client over a period of about two years and the firm received a fee of $100,000 for the services, a sum commensurate with the very large interests involved.

"When I moved to California, in March, 1922, Mr. Doheny said that his companies would be glad to retain me as special counsel to act in an advisory capacity here. I regarded the Doheny companies as the outstanding independent oil companies of the country and felt perfectly free to act as counsel for them. My counsel and advice have been confined to the Mexican problems with which these companies are constantly faced. For the period I have acted as special counsel here I have received an annual retainer of $25,000 payable semiannually. The employment of my former firm and myself by these companies has extended over the pase four years."

personal check as he previously had testified. He saiu he gave his son two checks in payment.

Replying to Senator Adams, Democrat, Colorado, Mr. Doheny said he had had the piece of the note handed to the committee today in his possession when he testified January 23, but had not produced it because it was not a complete document without the signature.

Mr. Doheny said that in the event of the death of himself and Mrs. Doheny the loan was to be a "legacy to Mr. Fall."

There were sharp exchanges between Mr. Doheny and Senator Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, as the Senator sought to have the witness concede that he had not told "the whole truth" about the note when he testified before.

WON'T ADMIT PERJURY

"Are you trying to get me to admit that I told a lie?" asked Mr. Doheny.

"The evidence here speaks for itself."

"I knew that you would be disappointed when I produced the note without the signature," said Mr. Doheny amid laughter from the spectators.

"To show you how disappointed I am, I shall read some of your previous testimony," said Senator Pittman.

The Senator then pressed his question as to whether the witness thought he had "told the truth."

"My dear sir," replied Mr. Doheny, "I am not here to answer questions as to whether I told the truth or not. You cannot get me by your cross questions to admit that I perjured myself."

BROKER APPEARS

William B. Hibbs of the Washington brokerage firm of Hibbs & Co., appeared before the committee in response to a subpoena requiring the production of the books of his firm from which the committee will determine whether there was speculation in oil stocks through his office before the lease of the Teapot Dome naval reserve to Harry F. Sinclair was executed by former Secretary Fall.

Mr. Hibbs conferred with Chairman Lenroot and other committee members in an effort to ascertain just what books the committee desired to examine.

He explained that it would require a truck to take all the books bearing entries of stock transactions.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Ocean travel is a hobby with Phillip Peabody and the pleasure seems to be hereditary.

Phillip Peabody, the father, recently started on his eighty-eighth trip across the Atlantic and was accompanied by his son, Charles Peabody, who was embarking for his twenty-eighth time.

The father and son are shown in the accompanying picture as they were about to depart aboard the S.S. Aquitania on January 26.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—The storm of excitement and horror that swept New Haven when John Dodge Hough, senior in Sheffield scientific school of Yale University, announced that his invitation for "junior prom," the year's highest-powered social function, had gone to Hollywood and Gloria Swanson, was not felt at all in local atmosphere.

"I didn't know a thing about it until I read the newspapers," announced Clarence Hough of the Virginia Hotel, the father of the youth. "Nor did I know that my son knew the actress. But it's entirely his affair. Certainly there will be no parental opposition."

Neither he nor Mrs. Hough, who is president of the Drama League of Chicago, knew the film celebrity, the father said.

Yale men, it would appear, hardy enough among their competitors on the athletic field, are extremely nervous when women are admitted to the party. Last year Miss Ina Whalley, a Follies beauty, caused a similar furor. She really came to the "prom" with her escort. The dispatch does not say whether Gloria accepted the "bid."

McADOO CHEERED BY HIS CAMPAIGN CHIEF

ROCKWELL CONGRATULATES CANDIDATE ON HIS STATEMENT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—David Ladd Rockwell, national manager of the McAdoo-for-President campaign, tonight sent a telegram to William G. McAdoo declaring that Mr. McAdoo's critics "have not a leg left to stand on." The message congratulated Mr. McAdoo on his statement explaining his connection with the E. L. Doheny oil interests.

"The American people," the message said, "will not be diverted from their determination to nominate and elect you their President by silly rumors spread by influences inimical to our country who are seeking to encompass your defeat."

The telegram congratulated Mr. McAdoo on his request to appear in person before the Senate investigating committee and "there dispose of effectively and completely the inferences against your record."

STATE TO LOSE ON OIL LEASE CANCELLATION

CALIFORNIA GETS SHARE OF REVENUE FROM WELLS IN ELK HILLS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 1.—Cancellation of the lease of the Elk Hills district to the E. L. Doheny interests in California will reduce the State's gas and oil revenue from the Federal government approximately $160,000 a year, it was estimated today by State Controller Ray L. Riley, based on a minimum of 12½ per cent return to the government from the gross production of the property.

The government, Riley explained, allots to the State 37½ per cent of its revenues on all mineral lands leased in California. The money derived from the oil and gas leases is credited to the support of the junior colleges.

SINCLAIR TO RETURN FROM ABROAD SOON

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Mason Day, representative of Harry F. Sinclair, said today that Mr. Sinclair would remain in Europe two or three weeks longer, and then leave for home.

Mr. Sinclair, who arrived here from Paris yesterday, expects to return to Paris this week-end and then will go to Belgium on a business trip, perhaps visiting Germany before sailing for the United States.

Mr. Day characterized as "bunk" a report that Mr. Sinclair would remain abroad for two months.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. — California no longer possesses any Presidential candidates, according to some political wiseacres here. Disclosures made today before the Senate committee by Edward L. Doheny that he had retained William G. McAdoo for $250,000 in connection with his Mexican oil property over a five-year period has eliminated McAdoo as a candidate for the Democratic nomination, they declare, adding that Hiram Johnson long ago ceased to be a candidate in the Republican party. It was learned today that he declined to save the naval reserve from drilling when called upon to aid California friends to hold the reserves intact as a part of the conservation policy on which Johnson ran for Vice-President in 1912.

Harry Slattery shortly after Hiram Johnson came to Washington as Senator from California, called at Senator Johnson's office and presented a letter from former Congressman William E. Kent asking the Senator to aid the National Conservation Association in preserving the naval oil leases from exploitation. Senator Johnson is reported to have read the letter and then declined to take any action whatever in the fight to preserve the reserves against development. He returned the letter and thereafter took no action to aid those who believed in the conservation of the great fuel resources of the oil reserve fields of California.

GREGORY OUT

It was said here in circles that fought for oil conservation that Hiram Johnson, before coming to Washington after his election, made a public statement that he was opposed to the United States government further withholding the oil reserves from development but this could not be verified here.

The testimony of Mr. Doheny also eliminated former Atty.-Gen. Gregory as an investigator of the oil leases, as Mr. Doheny had also retained him. This testimony was immediately followed by an authorized intimation from the White House that it would be embarrassing to Mr. Gregory to serve under the circumstances.

INVOLVES MANY

The testimony referred to George Creel, former publicity director for the Wilson war administration and to former Secretary Daniels of the Navy and altogether involved many of the Democratic leaders of the Wilson administration. This exposure, together with the probable fatal termination of the illness of Woodrow Wilson, brought a grave change in the attitude of the Senate and its committees in the oil-lease discussion.

The House with only four dissenting votes passed the Walsh Senate resolution demanding judicial investigation of all the oil reserve leases and it now goes to President Coolidge for signature. Further discussion of the resolution calling for the removal of Secretary Denby may be suspended by the death of former President Wilson for upon its announcement both Houses of Congress will adjourn immediately.

DELEGATE OF POPE ON VISIT HERE

Rome Representative to Washington to Celebrate Mass at St. Vibiana's

Coming as a respresentative of the Pope at Rome, Monsignor Peter Fumasoni-Biondi, papal delegate to Washington, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday, accompanied by his secretary, Rev. George L. Leetch. It is the first time in twenty-one years that a papal delegate has visited Los Angeles.

Monsignor Fumasoni-Biondi will celebrate pontifical high mass at St. Vibiana's tomorrow, commemorating the reopening of the cathedral. The structure has been renovated and reconstructed in a large measure. The mass will be celebrated at 11 o'clock in the morning. Many bishops and high churchmen from all over the West will be in attendance, it was announced.

In the evening solemn vespers will be celebrated. While here it is expected that the high church dignitary will visit a number of the local Catholic institutions.

Among the high prelates who are expected to arrive in the city today to participate in the ceremonies are: Bishop P. J. Keane of Sacramento; Bishop O'Gorman of Boise, Idaho; Archbishop Hanna of San Francisco; Bishop Gerke of Tucson, Ariz., and Bishop Glass of Sacramento.

VOICE OF SIREN NOT SWEET FOR CROOKS

Having established the reputation of being the haunt of the sheik, Hollywood yesterday became the habitat of the siren. Only it isn't the classical siren of irresistible song.

This one out in Hollywood is up on the roof of the Hollywood Police Station and has a terribly raucous voice. Any time there's any devilitry afoot in Hollywood and the police know about it this siren just opens up and "hollers her head off," as they phrase it out that way.

The Hollywood siren is the first of an entire siren system that Chief of Police Vollmer plans to scatter about the city so that every square mile will have one. When the officer on the beat hears it he will call his station. By this general alarm the Police Chief hopes to get immediate action on hold-up and bandit chases.

JOHNNY DUNDEE WHIPS PAL MORAN IN FIFTEEN-ROUND NEW YORK BOUT

CHAMPION WINS VERDICT IN FURIOUS RING MELEE

Challenger's Spectacular Closing Rally Fails to Overcome Early Lead of Title-Holder

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Johnny Dundee damaged the lightweight championship hopes of Pal Moran of New Orleans, tonight when he gained the judges' decision in a furious fifteen-round battle at Madison Square Garden.

Dundee's early margin gave him victory despite a spectacular closing rally by Moran. Dundee's welterweight and junior lightweight titles were not at stake.

For ten rounds Dundee was Moran's master, piling up a big lead with a relentless attack that the Southerner bewildered. The last five rounds were fiercely fought with Moran carrying the fight to his opponent for the first time, but the veteran Italian-American managed to weather a terrific storm, especially in the fourteenth and finished strong.

MORAN FAVORITE

Neither fighter scored a knockout, but both bled profusely from cuts about the eyes, mouth and nose. At one stage of the fourteenth round, Dundee seemed on the verge of going down, but his gameness saved him.

The result was a surprise to ringsiders, most of whom had established Moran a favorite on the strength of his recent knockout victories over Charley White and Vince Shugree.

KAPLAN WINNER

Kaplan (Kid) Kaplan, Meridian, Conn., junior lightweight, received the judge's decision over Eddie Wolf of Brooklyn, in a 12-round semifinal to the Dundee-Moran contest.

Armand Singer of New York, 120 pounds, received the judge's decision over Tommy Gaiston of Wilkes Barre, Pa., 118 3-4 in four rounds.

ROUND ONE

ROUND TWO

Dundee opened Moran with a hit swing to the jaw. Moran landed two lefts to the stomach and they started at long range. Moran missed two rights, but took a left to the jaw. Dundee smashed Moran with three successive lefts and caused an uproar as he bounced Moran and danced around his opponent in the fighting style. Dundee was raving the men to the bell rang.

ROUND THREE

ROUND FOUR

Dundee's left connected three times in a row to Moran's stomach. Neither was doing much damage and Dundee outfoxed the ex. to the head of the boxer. Moran bounced two rights to the body. Dundee took a world right to jaw. He missed a left to the ribs as the latter came in. Moran was also bleeding from a cut over the left mix-up at the end of the round.

ROUND FIVE

ROUND SIX

GAMES TONIGHT

Local U.C. at Whittier.
Pomona at Occ.
Redlands at Caltech.

Once in every three or four years the little town of Whittier puts out an athletic creation that makes the rest of the Southern California sports world sit up and take notice. Not so long ago it used to be the Poet footballers, led by such heroes of the grid as Bull Finch, Hod Chambers, Don Douglas and others, who pummeled the surrounding teams into submission. It was only a few years ago that the Quakers had one of the best baseball teams in this neck of the woods, and in 1921 the sleepy little hamlet had a gridiron outfit that smeared all the conference teams unmercifully and gave U.S.C. a great run for the Southern California championship.

The years have rolled by and now Enek Perry has put out a basketball team that meets the local University of California five this evening in a contest which will go a long way toward deciding the outcome of the 1924 Southern California intercollegiate Conference race. Coach Caddy Works and his cubs are going to the Quaker town with no little fear of the outcome, for the Poets have, shown that they have a formidable gang.

WON THREE STRAIGHT

Each team has won three straight games. The Cubs have been defeated once in competition outside of the conference, losing to the 145-pound quintet from Berkeley, while the Poets tasted defeat at the hands of the Golden Bears and the Arizona five. La Verne College also getting in an early-season win, which is thrown out because the Quakers had been practicing less than a week.

This defeat at the hands of the Arizona team would seem to indicate that the Poets are due for a trimming this evening also. The Wildcats have a powerful scoring machine, while Whittier concentrates on defensive work. The Cubs are admittedly stronger on the offense than their rivals, so the situation should be about the same this evening, except that Southern Branch will not be as strong as Arizona.

Whittier goes into the game in a crippled condition. Ray Johns, perhaps the best guard in the conference, has been in bed all week with the flu and can hardly play tonight. His loss is a big one, although Ferguson, who takes his place, is a good man. Capt. Eckles and Ransona are slated for the forward berths. The latter player has been in poor shape since the first game of the season, but is now reported as fully recovered. Williams will play center.

CUBS ARE CONFIDENT

The Cub figure they are going to win, but are a bit afraid of the Whittier floor. There have been times when the crafty Poet forwards have run wild in the little gymnasium, scoring basket after basket from seemingly impossible angles. In order that his men might be a bit more acquainted with the ins and outs of the court Coach Caddy Works took his charges to Whittier last night and had a short workout there. The Cub mentor is taking no chances on losing the game.

Bill Goertz and Horace Bresee are spot to be the stars of tonight's conflict. These boys can shoot with the best of them and the latter plays a great floor game. Wilbur Johns will play the other forward with Bresee, Goertz being at center and Pierce and Parker in the guard posts.

Pomona is favored to trim Occ in their tilt at the Franklin gymnasium. The Sagehens have shown much improvement of late, especially since Wendell Lorbeer, a capable forward from last year, has been back in the game. The Tigers are handicapped in that part of their squad is in the north playing on a barnstorming trip.

ASK OFFICIALS TO MANAGE TOURNEY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SEATTLE (Wash.) Feb. 1.—University of Washington athletic officials have been asked by Paul Johnson, president of the Washington State High School Athletic Association, to manage the State interscholastic basketball tournament to be staged in the Husky gymnasium March 7 and 8.

The State has been divided into sixteen districts by the association and teams in these districts have sent in their schedules and signified their intention of trying for State basketball honors. One team from each district will play in the meet, Johnson said.

Official report cards were sent out yesterday from the University of Washington by Student Manager Claude Voelker to the various prep-school quintets. A report of all basketball games played must be mailed to the university not later than twenty-four hours after the contest is played.

TRAPSHOOT EVENT AT VERNON TOMORROW

The initial registered trapshooting event of the season for the Vernon Gun Club is scheduled for tomorrow morning, when a club registered shoot is held.

Bill Pugh, club secretary, announces that the program calls for 100 targets at 16 yards in four events, with trophies up for the winning shooters. A large-sized crowd of shooters has planned to turn out for the tournament.

Some 1924 Basketball Captains

Now that the college basketball season is in full swing, it will not be amiss to look over some of the leaders of the cage squads in different parts of the country.

"Nip" McHose of Stanford University is little, but how that boy can shoot baskets! "Nip" also blushingly admits to contributing works of art to the campus comic magazine. When the little forward is out of the game the team usually slumps; when "Nip" returns to the fracas the change is phenomenal. Last year in the southern section of the Pacific Coast Conference, Stanford tied California mainly through the efforts of McHose.

"Hoxie" Haas, captain of the Yale five, hails from Marion, O., so is well qualified to be a leader of men. "Hoxie" was a star guard on last year's "miracle team," which rose up from the cellar to win the eastern intercollegiate championship. He scored seventeen field goals last year in 551 minutes of play.

Campbell Dickson of Chicago, was handicapped with a knee injury during the first part of this season. Dickson is a speedy forward, an artful dodger and a tricky dribbler. He is a scoring asset to his team, and scored forty-one field goals in twelve games last year. Dickson is also end on the football team and a star track man.

JOCKEY SETS NEW RECORD

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 1.—Jockey O'Donnell established a season's record at Tijuana today by riding four straight winners, starting with War Penny in the fourth and finishing with Virgo in the seventh.

Among his winning mounts was Osprey, the crack distance runner, which won handily from Little Chief in the feature race of the mile event. O'Donnell took Osprey into a two-length lead in the first turn and held this advantage throughout.

Canzel copped the fifth, coming from behind to overtake Tooters and Scottish Lad. In this race, strongly backed Little Hope, after keeping up with the leaders for part way, stopped to absolutely nothing.

Exterminator, world renowned race horse, will race next Sunday in a mile and seventy-yard event. This will constitute one of the workouts for the Coffroth handicap. Buster Keaton, named for the famous film comedian, will also start. The horse that won in his three starts will compete over the five-furlong course. The entry of these noted horses will materially bolster up the nine-race card on Sunday.

Summaries:

First race, three furlongs—Parbell (Mathes,) won; Lahontan (Castro,) second; My Destiny (O'Donnell,) third. Time, 0:36 1-5.

Second race, mile and seventy yards—Dutch (Barnes,) won; Plunger (Smith,) second; Theresa (Garcia,) third. Time, 1:47.

JOE JACKSON RESTS CASE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 1.—Close of the fifth day of the trial in Circuit Court here of the case of Joe Jackson, White Sox baseball player, suing the Chicago American League club for $16,500 as salary under an alleged breach of contract, brought about close of the plaintiff's direct testimony and he rested his case.

The defense will begin taking testimony tomorrow.

Fred Luderus, former first baseman for the Philadelphia Nationals, and now manager of the Oklahoma City team of the Western League, was the final witness for Jackson on direct examination, having been called as an expert to give his opinion of Jackson's work in the 1919 world series, which, it is alleged, was thrown by a number of White Sox players to the Cincinnati Reds. He testified the playing of Jackson was good and that the latter, by handy stick work, sent in six Sox runners to the home plate, or one-third of the runs scored by the White Sox during the series.

John Heydler, president of the National League, was the only witness during the afternoon. He was called out of turn by the defense, in order that he might catch a train for New York. He confirmed the testimony of Charles A. Comiskey given Thursday that the latter called him into conference concerning the rumored throwing of the series. This was having been called as an expert after Comiskey said he became aware that all was not right in the conduct of players in the series.

CUBS JAUNT WEST SOON

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—Fifteen more days—February 16—and thirteen pitchers of the Chicago Cubs, together with one or two other players and the coaches and manager, composing the first squad will start for Catalina Island to get in condition for the 1924 schedule. These twirlers, eight of whom are veterans in the sense that they have faced a major league club for at least one inning in a Cub uniform, will remain on the Wrigley island from February 19 to March 7, climbing hills, taking long hikes, running around the field and practicing. After March 8 they will be given a chance to show just what they are capable of doing against some strong opposition in the form of Pacific Coast teams and the Pittsburg Pirates.

TEN POLO TEAMS ENTERED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 1.—Polo, which has been more or less inactive since the World War, is being revived on the Pacific Coast on a larger scale than ever before attempted and the tournament which will be held at Coronado, across the bay from San Diego, will be the largest ever staged in the West.

Ten teams will compete in this meet, which will be held from March 12 to April 2. There will be approximately 250 ponies at the Coronado field. Games are scheduled for every day and many handsome trophies will go to the winning teams in the various events.

While the official polo season does not open until March 3, the first teams will arrive in Coronado on the 20th inst., and preliminary games will be played daily prior to the official opening of the tournament. There will also be post-tournament games from April 3 until April 15.

Capt. Irvin, who is secretary of the Pacific Coast Polo Association, is now in Coronado arranging preliminary details, assisted by Maj. H. D. Mannikhuysen, treasurer of the association.

HARRY K. THAW ANNEXES RACE

Gelding Outfoots Good Field at Culver City

Effie Randall Takes Kindly to Mile Journey

Dalwood Sorely Disappoints His New Owners

BY ED O'MALLEY

An increased attendance at the Culver City racetrack yesterday afternoon brought a plethora of joy to Southern California Jockey Club interests and incidentally to Secretary Bill Finn and Manager Ferris. It was ladies' day, and the ladies, heaven bless 'em, were out in fair numbers. The racing bug that sidestepped the course yesterday, surely passed up a thrilling day's sport. Of course the seagulls were on hand and of course they pulled off their daily stunt, this time swinging their allegiance to Harry K. Thaw, surprising winner of the fifth race.

In the good old halcyon days, Harry would have been about a 50-to-1 baby, where a ten spot, judicially spread across the magic slate, would have brought a young windfall to the courageous bettor. The race was the fifth on the card—a five-furlong spin. David, L. Mills showing a fund of celerity, pioneered the way to the final sixteenth where Thaw, with the moral support of the sea mews, grabbed him and in a dingdong finish flashed his classic head across the wire first by a slender margin. Mills copped the place easily from Tramontana.

LIKE MILE RACE

The feature race of the afternoon, the sixth, a dash of once around the oblong went to Effie Randall with Seal Star second and Rag Doll third. My—how the spectators like to see the horses started right in front of the grandstand! By this means they are easily able to pick out their horses and keep track of them around the course. Seal Star held the lead until the backing into the back stretch, where Effie Randall notched him. The two measured strides until the last seventy-five yards where Effie fussed her feathers a little and gradually drew away. Lena's Boy, giving an exhibition of perpetual motion, finished in the ruck near the seal rocks.

DRUGGIST DELIGHT

Culver City would have celebrated en fete last night had Dalwood annexed the second race, a five and a half furlongs dash. Dalwood was recently purchased by the Parlee & McCabe drug store people of Culver. To accelerate his natural speed he was given a generous potation of H. O-2 just before the saddle was tenderly strapped to his shiny back, but old marplot Canvasback disseminated the beans by outgaming him in the last sixteenth, winning rather handily. It looked very much as if the pharmacopolists would clutch second money in the closing strides, but along here an interested sea gull darted down and sunk his bill in Fayette Girl's flank, and she all but jumped over the moon, nosing out the Druggists' Delight. Well—well—if they can't win with a drug store on them, when can they win?

SOME CARD

The card for this afternoon's entertainment is a corker. The feature event—the "Hal Roach Studio" purse, a dash of six furlongs brings together ten of the fastest steeds at the speedway. Then there is a mile race with eight entries. The fields in all cases are large and there should be plenty of competition. Lena's Boy, the Joe Grim of the turf and a regular glutton for punishment, is entered in the first race. When it comes to a continual performance he makes all Sid Grauman's theaters look like a flea's tongue in a distempered cyclone. The sport begins at 2:15 o'clock, rain or shine.

The results of the races follow:

First race, four and one-half furlongs—Won by Dr. Hays; The Vamp, second; Bobby L. Mills, third. Time, 0:55.

Second race, five and one-half furlongs—Won by Carvalsadell; Firetto Girl, second; Dalwood, third. Time, 1:08.

Third race, four and one-half furlongs—Won by Black Tom; The Rue Forsyth, second; Old Red, third. Time, 0:54 3-5.

Fourth race, six furlongs—Won by Miss Edna Steve, second; Canuti, third. Time, 1:13.

Fifth race, five furlongs—Won by Harry K. Thaw; L. Mills, second; Dr. Montana, third. Time, 1:02.

NOVICES SHINE IN TRACK MEET

Pomona Cinder Path Artists Make Good Times

Coaches Nixon and Strehle Wearing Smiles

Mile Run is Negotiated in Speedy Fashion

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CLAREMONT, Feb. 1.—Results of the Sagehens novice track meet held at Pomona College this afternoon more than exceeded the hopes of Coaches Nixon and Strehle. Over fifty men turned out for the event and several dark horses were discovered that under proper training will materially increase the strength of the Sagehen varsity track team.

Although early in the season several fast times were made. Rentcler, a new man at Pomona, pulled a surprise when he won the mile run at 4m. 43.9s. Bill Snyder, star versity long distance man, was a close second. This time, according to Pomona records, is the fastest early season time made by any Pomona varsity or frosh miler in the last six years, and that's that. Then Crookshank, a sophomore, romped over the 60-yard high timbers in 7 9-10s., with Milliken, another sophomore, copping first in the 120-yard lows at 18.9s.

The biggest surprise of the afternoon was staged in the 660-yard run and the 880-yard run. In the longer event Phil Green, second-year man and until this a year a sprinter led plenty of fast competition winning his event in 1m. 39 3-5s. This was considered fast time for a new man and for an early season meet. Penis Scott, dark horse of dark horses, by a magnificent burst of speed acclaimed himself the find of the afternoon by placing a close second to Green. Phelps, a first-year man, pulled another surprise when he crossed the tape in the 220-yard dash in 24.3s. or about 48.6s. for a quarter mile. The discovery of these three men made Nixon and Strehle more than satisfied with the result of the meet.

Frankhouse, a young chap who has all the speed and power of a human locomotive behind him, easily won both the 75 and 150 yard dashes. He copped the shorter event at 8 1-5s. and the 150-yard sprint in 15 4-5s.

The field events failed to reveal much new material. Turner, frosh high jumper, won his event at 5 ft. 8 in. with Hamilton a close second. Blackwell Smith won first in the shot put, while his younger brother took third in the javelin throw. Crookshank, hurdler, surprised those at the pits by taking the broad jump at 21 ft. 5 in.

Summary of the events:

60-yard high hurdles—Crookshank, first; Milliken, second; Turner, third. Time, 7 9-10s.

75-yard run—Frankhouse, first; Finley, second; Bishop, third. Time, 8 1-5s.

120-yard low hurdles—Milliken, first; Crookshank, second; Hickman, third. Time, 18 9-10s.

Security Bank Quintet Grabs Red-Hot Game

It required two extra periods for the Security Bank basketball team to defeat the California bankers in a 23-to-21 game last night at the Hollywood High School courts. The Californians led at the end of the first half by a score of 12 to 3, but the Security five put up such a whale of a scrap that they tied up the score.

The line-ups follow:

Security		California
Smith (8)	F.	Brownson (10)
Johnson (1)	F.	Kruse (2)
Carlson (3)	C.	Braswell (3)
Lambert	G.	Crowther (2)
Cadron	G.	Lee

Substitutes: Security, Roberts for Johnson (3); California, Flow for Lee (2.) Referee, Dempsey.

CRYSTAL GRILL IN BOWLING VICTORY

The Crystal Grill bowling team cinched the championship of the first division of the Southern California League Thursday night at the Angelus Academy alley. The El Roi Tan team tied with the Coffe Cup of Venice, 2 and 2.

Entries for the Southern California doubles championship tourney close tomorrow night. A meeting of all teams entered is to be held at the Angelus at 8 o'clock. All teams must be present. The play starts on February 7, and will run for about six months. The winning team will be awarded the B. H. Dyas Company gold medals.

ITALIAN SCRAPPER AT BUENOS AIRES

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 1.—Erminio Spalla, Italian heavyweight, arrived here from Europe today. He appeared to be in good form for his coming match with the winner of the Firpo-Lodge fight. Spalla said he weighed 192 pounds. He has no doubts but that Firpo will beat Lodge, and that he will defeat the South American champion.

MILTON JOINS ASSOCIATION

Tommy Lines Up With Drivers' Governing Body; Waddell Appointed Commissioner

Los Angeles is now the automobile racing headquarters of the world. At the second meeting of the Speedway Drivers' Association held yesterday Tommy Milton, 1921 national champion of the speedways and two-time winner of the Indianapolis 500-mile international classic, was present and was elected a director of the association, which is chartered under the laws of the State of California.

Milton was not present at the first session held Thursday, but he was on hand yesterday and was one of the most enthusiastic of the pilots over the formation of the association.

A number of issues were discussed by the drivers and were taken under consideration for further action. Eddie Hearne, 1923 national champion, presided over the session.

BOYER TO JOIN

Jimmy Murphy, Bennett Hill, Ira Vail, Harry Hartz, Earl Cooper, Fred Comer, Harlan Fengler, Jerry Wonderlich and Cliff Durant were also present. Frank Elliott is still on his honeymoon, but was represented by proxy by Eddie Hearne. Ernie Ansterberg and Phil "Red" Shafer were not on hand, but the other members are sure they will join and will be present at the next meeting. Joe Boyer, millionaire speed king, is to become a member as soon as he arrives from Detroit.

A committee on by-laws was named and at the next meeting, which is to take place Monday, these will be presented for adoption.

Bennett Hill submitted a number of articles to be incorporated in the by-laws which were slightly amended and held over for adoption at the next session.

At yesterday's session Al G. Waddell, for many years identified with the speedway sport, was unanimously elected commissioner of racing by the association. Waddell's title has not yet been decided upon, though he may be called either the executive chairman of the Speedway Drivers' Association, or the commissioner of racing.

"LIAISON" OFFICER

His duties will be to represent the drivers to the speedway officials and likewise to represent the latter to the former. In other words, he will be practically a "liaison" officer.

Waddell is a popular man with the pilots and at one time was a representative of the contest board, A.A.A., later being appointed a member of the board. He had much to do with the old Phoenix road races as well as the Santa Monica and Corona classics.

Bay City Man Arrives With Three Boxers

Johnny Sampson, well-known San Francisco boxing manager, is in this city with three capable mitt slingers. He has brought Young Nationalista, one of the most promising flyweights in the business; Young Datto, a former local boy, and Felix Villamor, ex-bantamweight champion of the Pacific Coast. The Bay City man is making his headquarters at San Pedro, where his boys are working out daily.

Young Nationalista has been going like a house afire in the northern city, having boxed twenty-five times without being defeated, only six of these bouts being draws. Villamor was Coast champion in 1917 and 1918. Sampson is especially desirous of matching Nationalista with Frankie Grandetta, although he is perfectly willing to take on any of the local boys.

FISHING CONTEST FOR RAINBOW ANGLERS

Fishing has been very good all week at Rainbow, R. L. Slimmer and wife and a number of friends catching limits and holding a trout luncheon. In the party were L. C. Fritch, vice-president of the Rock Island Railroad; F. J. Ray, Mrs. M. Hiller and R. Cole.

It is regarded doubtful that Wood will send one of his fast [illegible] here because failing health has practically forced his personal retirement from the game, and the further fact that it's a long way from his home town to Los Angeles. He came here once and made a tremendous stir and boosted the sport as nothing else could, and hoped he may do so again. His chances are against it.

Should the world speed king pass up the challenge and thus forfeit the trophy to Fellows, a foregone conclusion that the latter will have to defend it against Frank A. Joe Fellows is Hot After Speed Boat Trophy

Feels He Can Lift Emblem With New Craft

Ready for Catalina Spin in About Thirty Days

Joe Fellows, with the Two Fellows, is hot on the trail of the Santa Catalina Perpetual Challenge Trophy captured a little more than a year ago by the world speed king, Gar Wood of Detroit. Yesterday Fellows called upon Wood to defend the coveted cup, sending a communication in which he says:

"As you are the present holder of the Santa Catalina Perpetual Challenge Trophy I should like to challenge you for another race, as I have a new boat and think she is pretty fast. My boat is 27 feet by 6 feet 3 inches, powered with one Liberty motor, 450 horsepower. We shall be ready to race not less than thirty days or more than forty days after date of this challenge. I hope this will meet with your approval."

IT'S LONG WAY

It is regarded doubtful that Mr. Wood will send one of his fast ones here because failing health has virtually forced his personal retirement from the game, and the further fact that it's a long way from his home town to Los Angeles. He came here once and made a tremendous stir and boosted the sport as nothing else could, and it is hoped he may do so again, but the chances are against it. His Miss Detroit VI., driven by C. F. Chapman, editor of Motor Boating capped the around-Catalina race.

Should the world speed king pass up the challenge and thus forfeit the trophy to Fellows it is a foregone conclusion that the latter will have to defend it against Frank A. Garbutt and the Mystery. Garbutt and his fast, stanch Mystery vessels held the trophy against all comers for years and Miss Detroit took it, and he still holds the record of 1h. 48m., made October 9, 1920.

COOLER LEAKED

This is almost 3 minutes better than Miss Detroit's time. The latest Mystery was put out of business twenty miles from the mainland and start by a leaking oil cooler just when the greatest of all battles was in sight, and Miss Detroit consequently had an easy time of it. Joe Fellows, with the Fellows IV., finished second. In the service it is understood the Holmes-Ratliffe-Culver spray-rider White Star will also participate.

An exceedingly strenuous and thrilling powerboat classic the Catalina race has no equal as a crucial grilling test of seamanship and worthiness, and the men and boats taking part face grave danger. Death on the sheer rock cliffs of the father side of the island would be the fate of the occupants of any craft disabled there especially in time of storm. CHAMPIONS AND CHANCE-

THE STORY OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST FIGHT PROMOTER

BY TEX RICKARD

(Copyright, 1924, in United States and Great Britain, Cuba, Japan and South America by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.)

Chapter XV

IN THE TRAINING CAMPS

It was in the Reno fight between Jeffries and Johnson that I began to learn the basic principles of promoting, of making a big affair like that successful.

An editor in the West has written to ask me if I ever knew of a real grudge fight. Frankly, I never did. Moreover, I don't believe there ever was one.

In the old days it used to be accepted as the proper form for one fighter to refuse to speak to his opponent while training. There were stories, probably encouraged by some booster, about the two fighters meeting accidentally while doing road work and almost coming to blows. This was supposed to convince the public that they were bitter enemies, and, consequently, would put up a harder fight.

That to me is a lot of bosh. I never believed in it, and the more I see of the fight game the less I believe in it. The public likes to look on a fight as a sporting event. No man ever showed poor sportsmanship by being friendly to his opponent before and after the fight. That was my theory, and I put it into practice with Jeffries and Johnson.

I used to make it a point of going fishing or hunting with Jeffries and of visiting him at his headquarters. On other occasions I would get in Jack Johnson's big racing car and ride with him. I never tried to keep anybody from seeing me do it, either.

You ought to have heard the busybodies warning me about this.

WHY THE FIGHTERS HOBNOB

"It's bad dope for you to be seen out with these fighters," they would tell me. "There'll be a lot of underground talk. Don't forget you are the promotor and referee."

"Maybe you are right," I told one adviser, "but I'm going out fishing with Jeffries tomorrow. I like to talk to him."

Often Jeffries would ask me about Johnson.

"What kind of shape is he in, Tex?"

"Fine," I told him. "He'll give you quite a fight."

Then Johnson would ask about Jeffries. I would tell him the same thing. I would never try to flatter one of them by telling him he had a cinch. That would be foolish.

In later years I have gone further in this line. I have made special arrangements for the two fighters to be seen together before the fight. The fans like that, and so do the fighters, for that matter.

I took particular pains, for instance, to see that Dempsey and Carpentier met each other in a friendly way before their fight. I even arranged for them to play golf together. To me that looks like sportsmanship.

While we were getting ready in Reno there was much whispered talk to the effect that the fight had been fixed. That is all foolishness. Often I am asked about it to this day.

Jeffries had no idea that Johnson would win that fight. If anything, it was Johnson who lacked the confidence. He wasn't so sure. A proof of this is that Jeffries felt so sure of winning he insisted on 60 per cent of the purse going to the winner. Johnson felt the same way about it. If there had been any thought of Johnson laying down they would have split the purse nearer even. You can go and bet that Jim Jeffries thought himself sure of winning.

$66,000 JEFF'S FILM PROFIT

In justie to Jeffries, by the way, it is a fact that the sudden change of climate from San Francisco to Reno affected him very seriously. He contracted stomach trouble and diarrhoea. That made him slow and lazy and he could not entirely eradicate it by training.

A big item in that fight, apparently overlooked by many at the start, was the moving-picture right. Johnson and Jeffries were to divide their share of this equally. Johnson made a bad mistake of selling out his entire picture interest for $50,000. Jeffries held on to his and it netted him $66,660.

At Reno the preliminary arrangements took on a different air. There was all sorts of fun. The newspaper men really had more to write about than if we had stayed in San Francisco. There was more of the romance of the Goldfield fight about it.

Johnson kept his admirers and others constantly amused with racing automobile and his big bull fiddle. Some have an idea that Jack was not serious about racing that car. Don't you believe it. He thought himself the greatest racing driver in the world and would take any sort of chances.

AND THAT BULL FIDDLE

Johnson also knew how to play that big bull fiddle. It was his delight to get a crowd of white folks at night or afternoon and make the old bull snort. He could actually do tricks with that big fiddle.

Another of his favorite pastimes was to have chicken dinners. Always he had a smile for everybody. It was a golden smile, too. It always looked to me as if Jack Johnson had more gold teeth than anybody in the world.

There were frequent reports that Jeffries was acting ugly and surly while Johnson was happy-go-lucky and friendly. As a matter of fact, Jeffries is a big, friendly fellow. He was suffering from that stomach trouble. Try as he would he could not entirely get over it. That made him worry. He was not surly or sullen.

I watched these fellows train because I wanted to learn as much as possible about my job of referee. As the Fourth of July approached that refereeing business made me sit up and think.

Bank Golfers in Mad Race for Laurels

Interest in the interbank golf tournament now in its third week is which teams from ten of leading banks of the city are contesting for the championship, is no longer confined to the financiers of the city. So close have been the scores in nearly all of the matches that it is not at all unusual for other players on the various links to give way to the bank teams and closely watch their play. California Bank and the First National Bank now lead in their respective divisions by a slight margin. So excellent has been the quality of golf put up by some of the teams that the relative standing may be changed in any one day's contest. The standing of the teams last night was as follows:

FIRST DIVISION

	Won.	Lost.
California Bank	7	0
Citizens' National Bank	6	1
Bank of Italy	5	2
Citizens Trust and Savings	3	4
Farmers and Merchants	2	5
	1	6
	0	7

SECOND DIVISION

	Won.	Lost.
First National Bank	6	1
Pacific Southwest	6	1
Federal Reserve Bank	4	3
Security Trust and Savings	3	4
Union Bank and Trust Co.	1	6
	0	7

California Bank won all four of their matches last Saturday and Sunday with the Farmers' and Merchants' National. The feature in last week's play was the contest between the Bank of Italy and the Citizens National Bank. F. H. Alvord (Citizens National) beat P. L. Leatherman (Bank of Italy) on the twentieth hole. E. Leimert (Bank of Italy) defeated John Burbaw (Citizens National) on the twenty-second hole, and P. R. Prior (Citizens National) was forced to go twenty-three holes before downing Grey (Bank of Italy.)

In this week's play, the Citizens National plays the Farmers' and Merchants'; the Citizens Trust plays the Bank of Italy, and the California Bank draws a bye. The Federal Reserve meets the Security Trust and the Pacific-Southwest plays the Union Bank and Trust Company. The First National draws a bye.

MUCH PRIZE MONEY UP FOR HORSE SHOW

More prize money will be distributed among the winners at the third annual Los Angeles Horse Show than has ever been awarded in connection with a similar equine event in Southern California, according to the completed official prize list which has just been forwarded by the Southern California Riding and Driving Club to prospective exhibitors throughout the United States. Approximately $14,000, or about $2000 in excess of the prize awards at the 1923 show, will be battled for at the fifth inst., to March 1, at the big covered show arena on the grounds of the Hotel Ambassador, a favorite rendezvous of society in Los Angeles.

TEE, FAIRWAY AND GREEN

BY CHARLES "CHICK" EVANS

PUNCHED OR SLOTTED FACES

The idea of roughing the faces of golf clubs originated in Scotland. England was quick to disapprove of such clubs. They were barred by the Royal and Ancient Golf Association before the English players and clubmakers had brought them to the condition of practical excellence which they reached at the hands of American manufacturers and players.

Americans are quick to adopt any new thing that promises practical value. Britons follow precedent as long as possible. Both of these material inclinations had their values and disadvantages. In the present instance the passing out of official existence of these clubs, without standardizing the ball, will prove epochal in American golf.

The history of the ribbed-faced club is interesting. Manufacturers long ago realized that the faces of golf clubs could not be smooth, and for that reason the present rule allows a certain depth, not exceeding one-sixteenth of an inch in width, or less than 3-32 of an inch apart. The idea of the new rule is that these lines, dots or other markings cannot be made with the obvious purpose of putting a cut on the ball.

From a financial point of view this change in clubs is rather a serious thing. If there are a million golfers in the United States and each has at least one of these clubs, one can easily calculate the money loss. These golfers can buy a new club and let the clubmaker reap his harvest, or they can fill up the slots and holes with solder. This has been done, but it seems that the economical way does not change the old club so much, the soft, dead filler acting somewhat like the slots and holes.

As far as playing is concerned I do not think that the new rule will work as great hardships to expert amateurs as it will to the so-called duffs. The less expert you are the more difficult it is to put cut spin on a ball; increasing the roughness of the club face only increased the difficulty of judging distance. Professionals who had plenty of time to practice punched their clubfaces obliquely and learned to judge distance. I once examined the approaching irons of a prominent professional and I found projections on them almost as sharp as needle points.

Some players have based their entire game around these clubs and they will suffer considerably. I predict that certain players will be far down the list owing to the new rule. The new rule takes away a very pretty shot from the game; for it is a pleasing sight to see a ball stop almost dead where it falls. Few players, however, mastered the dead stop chip. They demanded too much in judgment of distance and spin.

The new rule will not mean so much in Spring and Fall when courses are green, but look out for midsummer when courses are hard. There is a lively year before us. With manufacturers free to put everything they have into balls, and with the only clubs that can stop them barred, we have an interesting outlook.

Benny Diaz and Novey to Mix Tonight

One of the best bantamweight bouts seen here in many a day, is expected when Frankie Novey clashes with Benny Diaz in the main event at the Lyceum Club tonight. Novey has met all the good bantams around this vicinity, including among them, such sterling performers as Dick Griffin, Teddy Silva, Georgie Marks, Frankie Grandetta, Art Springer, Jockey Dillon, Benny Marks and many others. Diaz is classed as one of the best boys developed here since the days of Joe Rivera, and in the short time that he has been boxing, he has defeated some of the best bantams hereabouts.

In their last bout some time ago, Diaz defeated Novey in a great battle, but the decision was unpopular.

Joe Woods and Bobby Moran will meet in the semi-wind-up at 128 pounds. Woods made a great hit last week in his first appearance, but in meeting Moran, he is stacking up against a tough boy.

The rest of the bouts are: Sailor Shaefer vs. Pat Doran, 154 pounds; Jack Terry vs. Mike La Mar, 112 pounds; Bob Zbinden vs. Jack Lind, 150 pounds.

The curtain-raiser will start at 8:30 p.m., with Harry Lee as referee.

POMONA NET TEAM CRIPPLED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CLAREMONT, Feb. 1.—After starting out with brilliant prospects for a championship in tennis Pomona College net hopes have taken a sudden fall and pessimism is reeking through the Claremont atmosphere concerning the season's net hopes. Pomona has a long tale of woe to tell and from all appearances it will be nothing less than miraculous if the Claremonters climb out of the rut and do all that was first expected of them.

The Sagehens face their opening match with the Southern Branch varsity at the Los Angeles institution the 16th inst., with Hutton Miller, star player and first man on the varsity last year, out of the game, and Capt. George Peterson off form. Miller decided for some reason or other that tennis wasn't a gentleman's game any longer, or something to that effect, and decided to quit the Sagehen varsity, ruining their championship hopes to no small degree. Peterson, who until recently was playing a great game, has hit a slump and is playing like a washerwoman tuning an accordion. Whether Peterson will be back in form for the Southern Branch encounter is a question and much will depend upon it.

With Miller gone, Capt. Peterson has moved up to first man for the varsity, with Darwin David and Hand coming second and third, and Walker Gabbert, who hails from Ojai, working out as fourth man. This group will play their first matches the 9th inst. when they tackle the freshman racket-wielders in a return match. Last week the frosh were defeated 5-2, by the varsity and the yearling players are out for revenge.

ARIZONA RAIL CHIEFS MEET

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Feb. 1.—In Phoenix today there took place a conference thought to have bearing upon the proposed Tucson, Phoenix and Tidewater Railway construction from Tucson to Phoenix, as a connecting link between the Santa Fe and the El Paso and Southwestern railway systems. Participating were Walter Douglas, president of the Phelps-Dodge Corporation, which controls the Southwestern and Rock Island, and owns great mines at Bisbee, Morenci and Globe; his brother, James S. Douglas, a Jerome mine owner, who recently obtained a franchise through Phoenix for the Tidewater line; President T. H. Schumacher, Vice-President Arthur G. James, Chief Counsel William Church Osborne of the Southwestern, and Arthur G. Wells and General Manager W. K. Etter of the Santa Fe system.

The Southwestern officials came by automobile from Tucson, over the route of the proposed connection, and were met here by the Santa Fe officials, Mr. Schumacher said that the trip was one of inspection of the new road, which enters the Salt River Valley through Casa Grande and Sacaton.

"It is our desire to see this new railway completed and to get the advantage of a part of the tonnage of this valley," said Mr. Schumacher. He said nothing of definite nature could be made public at the present time, as "a premature statement might throw a monkey wrench into the machinery that is now running."

PROGRAM OF PAVING PLAN AT CLAREMONT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CLAREMONT, Feb. 1.—At an informal meeting last night of members of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce and the City Board of Trustees, a definite and extensive paving program was mapped out for the city of Claremont as a result of which a bond issue for the project will in all probability be placed upon the ballot at the municipal election to be held in April. The sewer question was also discussed at length and the chamber went on record as favoring the placing on the ballot at the spring election of a bond proposition for the financing of this project. Six streets are included in the paving program.

SNOWDEN'S TAX WOULD HELP POOR

Interest in England Lies in Budget Being Prepared by Socialist Chancellor

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Public interest in England is concentrated on the budget which Philip Snowden, Socialist Chancellor of the Exchequer, is now preparing in the recesses of the Treasury in Whitehall.

It is reported that he is working now on a plan to shift taxation from low to high income. Compared with American conditions, the poor man in England pays more than his share of taxation, and Mr. Snowden is determined to change this. He is credited with a plan to reduce income taxes on low incomes, while increasing the supertax as much as a shilling on the pound, and he also is said to have proposed either to reduce or wipe out tea, coffee and sugar duties, giving the poor man a duty-free breakfast table.

Prime Minister Macdonald, who returned from Scotland last night, still has several offices to fill. Among them is that of Lord Chamberlain who among other things acts as censor of plays and it is stated that he has offered the job to T. P. O'Connor, famous Irish nationalist. Mr. O'Connor's appointment would be popular and he is well equipped for the only real duty of the post. It would probably carry a peerage, which would be a graceful rounding out of Mr. O'Connor's political career. He is now the father of the House of Commons.

LARGER FORCE ASKED FOR FIRE PREVENTION

Fire Chief Scott and the Board of Fire Commissioners yesterday requested the City Council to add twenty-five inspectors to the present fire prevention force of twelve men, the increase being necessary, the chief said, on account of the growth of the city in population and area, resulting from annexations. The additional twenty-five inspectors, the chief said, would give special attention to the preventing of brush fires in the hill districts.

YOUNG OBREGON AIDE EXECUTED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EL PASO (Tex.) Feb. 1.—When Los Angeles detectives brought Clara Phillips through El Paso last summer, there was a good-looking young Mexican on the train for Los Angeles who made friends with the newspaper men covering the case and told them he was going to Los Angeles on a mission for the Mexican government.

His name was Jose Carpio, his position that of assistant director-general of the Mexican National Lineo and his native home in Magdalena, Son. Americans reaching this border recently brought details of the execution of young Carpio, his father and a General Federal troops at the garrison at San Angel, a suburb of Mexico City. This news of the execution was confirmed by the Mexican Consul-General here.

Carpio, his father, Firman Carpio, and the general whose name was not known, went to the garrison at San Angel, according to the American refugees, in an effort to induce the loyal troops to join De la Huerta. As Carpio was known to be friendly to the De la Huerta cause, he was shadowed by Obregon secret police when he rode out the Paseo de la Reforma wearing his picturesque charro riding suit of leather and the gold spurs Gen. Obregon had given him. He was accompanied by his father and the Obregon officer in uniform.

They were arrested as they entered the barracks, given a hasty courtmartial and stood before the adobe wall of the San Angel quartel.

Friends of the Carpios in Mexico City requested the bodies be turned over to them for burial but this was refused by the San Angel commander. Former friends of Carpio in the government service and from Sonora were appealed to but they declined to have anything to do with the affair. Finally the Masonic lodge to which the Carpios, father and son, belonged chartered a special train and went to San Angel where they found the bodies. A burial in the famous French cemetery where Madero and Carranza were buried was arranged for and was attended by the Masonic lodges of the Valley of Mexico.

Jose Carpio was one of the best-known members of Obregon's official family. He went from Sonora with his chief and, because of his knowledge of English and his ability to make friends, he was assigned to the entertainment of delegations from the United States. He assisted in the entertainment of the Los Angeles and San Francisco excursionists in Mexico City.

Because of his popularity, friends of Carpio among the De la Huerta revolutionists have sworn vengeance against the officials they hold responsible for young Carpio's death, claiming he was led into a trap by a friend from Sonora and that the commander of the firing squad was another friend from the same State.

PILGRIMS FETE FRANK KELLOGG

London Banquet Tendered American Envoy

Premier Stresses Present Good Relations

Says England Sorrows at News of Wilson

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The Pilgrims' Society tonight tendered a banquet in honor of Frank B. Kellogg, the new American Ambassador to the Court of St. James. Among the speakers were Mr. Kellogg, Ramsay Macdonald, the Prime Minister, and Sir Esme Howard, newly appointed British Ambassador to the United States.

Mr. Kellogg dwelt upon the friendly relations between Great Britain and the United States, the situation in Europe, the limitation of armaments and the settlement of justiciable disputes by arbitration or some judicial tribunal.

Sir Esme declared that he would endeavor, as Ambassador in Washington, to maintain and increase the friendship of the two English-speaking peoples.

Mr. Macdonald alluded to the "sad news about ex-President Wilson."

NATION SORROWS

"This is a moment," said the Premier, "when partisanship and party allegiance sink into insignificance. But I can assure His Excellency, the American Ambassador, that the whole English nation tonight is standing with held breath, waiting further news from the ex-President."

Then inviting the diners to drink to the health of the Ambassador, Mr. Macdonald continued:

"There are some ambassadors who are going to give me trouble. There are others whose visits to the Foreign Office always will fill my heart with joy, because they will have nothing whatever to say to me. My honorable friend, His Excellency, I am glad to say, and I am sure he is glad to say, belongs in the latter category.

"The relations between Great Britain and the United States were never better than they are tonight. I pray God they will long continue in that happy condition.

"America and ourselves — we want no alliance, we want no documents—America and ourselves are in the position of two peoples that in spirit, by reason of those great moral and spiritual forces that are demeaned and narrowed by being written down on paper—are prepared to stand side by side, not in political alliance, but in human fellowships to help each other.

"We have had our quarrels, as all happy families have had; but when any great human cause has come before us we have looked into our hearts and, hidden right away in their innermost recesses, we have discovered a very shy, but a very faithful, friendship one for the other."

Remarking that Great Britain always had been particularly fortunate in the personalities of the ambassadors the United States had sent to the Court of St. James, Mr. Macdonald predicted that Mr. Kellogg would worthily maintain that high standard and that both Mr. Kellogg and Sir Esme Howard would have easy tasks.

According to gossip in the village the ex-ruler's present indisposition is largely due to fatigue from entertaining during the recent fete in celebration of his birthday anniversary.

Finally, she said, her husband took her home to her mother and left her there. He did not contest the suit.

FILM TRIO INJURED IN EXPLOSION

Photographer and Aides Victims of Flashlight Powder Blast

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Feb. 1.—Elton E. Kunselman, a motion-picture photographer, and his assistants, Ralph Harp and Fred Murphy, are in the hospital this evening with six surgeons working over them, victims of an explosion of magnesium powder. Kunselman is believed to have lost the sight of both eyes. Harp is said to be even more seriously injured about the face and with an arm almost torn off. Murphy's injuries are less severe.

The trio were on the pavement of Cactus Way near East Washington street, about 4 o'clock mixing chemicals for a batch of flash light powder. It is assumed that fire from a cigarette ignited the material. The men were thrown violently against the wall of a near-by building, while the noise of the blast and a column of black smoke attracted several thousand people within a few minutes.

Every window on the narrow street was broken, and there was panic in Pythian Hall immediately above, where the Pythian Sisters were holding a social.

STERLING EXCHANGE TAKES SHARP JUMP

RUSSIAN RECOGNITION HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR RAPID GAINS

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—A sensational jump of 5 cents in sterling exchange, after a rise of 4 cents yesterday, occurred in today's foreign-exchange market on the announcement that Premier Macdonald of Great Britain had decided to recognize the soviet government in Russia. Demand bills were quoted as high as $4.35 ½.

Local foreign-exchange dealers reported that most of the buying orders had originated in London, with a large percentage also coming from Berlin.

One large dealer declared much of the recent buying undoubtedly was due to short covering by European speculators, who apparently expected all sorts of dire things to happen when the Labor government assumed control.

French and other European rates improved in sympathy, French francs selling above 4.70 cents for the first time in three weeks.

WOMAN DESCRIBED AS HUMAN SEISMOGRAPH

RESIDENT OF ENGLAND SUFFERS CURIOUS TENSION; REPORTS TREMORS

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, Feb. 1.—England has a human seismograph, a woman who registers earthquake shocks wherever they occur, says Prof. H. R. Turner in the Quarterly Review.

"A woman of peculiar sensitiveness," he writes, "has for many years past been able to report almost every earthquake in all parts of the world before any news comes in. She suffers from a curious nervous tension, as though under the influence of electricity. It almost incapacitates her while it lasts, but it ends suddenly."

The professor quotes a letter dated September 10, 1923, which asserts that the "Japanese earthquakes have affected her badly and she had a bad attack yesterday."

"Almost immediately," he continues, "the explanation of the 'bad attack yesterday' was realized. There were considerable shocks in India on September 9 at 11 p.m. of our summer time."

It was said the Dominion might send another expedition of special representatives into the north in the spring or summer to take formal possession of islands already claimed for Great Britain.

PEACE AWARD QUIZ IS UPHELD

Senate Determined to Get All Information

Aide to Bok Told She Must Answer Questions

Committee Refuses to Let Evasions Stand

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. — Action today by the Senate Propaganda Committee indicates that it is determined to compel officers of the Bok peace award to disclose all the circumstances attending the organization and conduct of the peace plan brought into being by Edward N. Bok.

The committee notified Miss Estelle E. Lape, executive director for Mr. Bok, that she would have until February 4 to decide whether she should answer questions propounded to her at the hearing last Tuesday. On that occasion Miss Lape declined to tell what methods had been followed in submitting the peace plans to the jury of award. She also declined to state what steps, if any, had been taken to have the successful plan adopted by the United States Senate. She objected to the questions on the grounds that they implied the jury of award had been "stacked" and that in the final analysis, "it considered only proposals in which the principle of the League of Nations was indorsed in one form or another."

QUESTIONS UPHELD

When Miss Lape appeared to resume her testimony today Senator Moses, Republican, New Hampshire, chairman, announced that by a vote of four to one the committee had decided that the line of interrogation directed to Miss Lape was "within the purview of the committee" and pertinent to the investigation.

He announced that no further hearings would be held until Monday. "In the meantime," he said, "Miss Lape may determine whether she will answer the questions put to her at the last hearing."

The committee action in the matter of the refusal of Miss Lape to answer questions applies also to the case of Mr. Bok. It will be recalled that Mr. Bok declined to give testimony relative to the finances of his peace organization on the ground that it was his "private business, in which neither the Senate nor the public was in the slightest degree concerned."

CLIMAX IN DOUBT

Just what action will be taken in the event that Miss Lape persists in her refusal to answer the questions in controversy is not known. It is within the power of the committee to cite recalcitrant witnesses to the courts for contempt. The punishment for such offenses is in the form of fine and imprisonment. So far as Mr. Bok is concerned he has partially purged himself of any offending. He did this in a letter to Chairman Moses in which he stated that if the committee still desired data concerning the financing of the peace plan that such information could be obtained either from the Girard Trust Company of Philadelphia, where the funds are on deposit, or from Treasurer C. N. Bliss of New York. Miss Lape has not indicated what course she will pursue when she reappears before the committee on Monday.

My Mother told me

Kept close at hand by three generations as a safe guard for health, Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has earned the confidence of thousands of people. "Tried and found true" is as true of this cough remedy as it is of the finest of old family physicians; its enormous patronage is largely due to the fact that it is recommended by friend to friend — and by generation to generation. These people know that it is pleasant to take and brings quick relief.

Pomona, California.

I am very well pleased with the wonderful result and relief that Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has brought me. I was bothered with coughing, and my mother told me about your medicine so I decided to give it a trial. I have tried many other medicines but none relieved and relieving as Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. I have told my friends and they refuse to nothing better.

Sincerely, (Signed) E. Boggess.

THE REAL
Theodore Roosevelt
AS TOLD IN THE PRIVATE LETTERS OF
Maj. Archie Butt,
Aide and Intimate of "T. R."

Copyright, 1924, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

CAPT. BUTT TO HIS MOTHER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25, 1908.

The letter at the beginning of this installment started yesterday. Capt. Butt told of Roosevelt's part in the Taft campaign and his efforts to clean out the bad actors in the Republican campaign forces.

The President still seems to be the idol of the nation, but whether he can continue his fight for Taft and retain his ascendency I do not know. He feels that he has made no mistake, but that is because it gives him the opportunity to continue his fight for political purity. I dined with him night before last and went with him and Mrs. Roosevelt and Postmaster-General Meyer to the theater to see "A Gentleman from Mississippi," a play founded on politics and showing up the corruption which is said to exist in the Senate . . .

During one of the entire acts he spoke of his enjoyment, but added, "It makes me very melancholy to think that such things can exist." . . .

INDICTS SENATORS

Then he began to call the roll of the Senate, and as each name would come up he dismissed him as either being capable of such grafting or as not being. His indictment of some of the Senators was simply terrific.

He was getting so confidential on the subject of the Senate that I was glad when the curtain went up. But on the way back to the White House he kept harping on the Senate.

"The Senate will never clean itself," he said. "It can only be cleaned by making any form of grafting so obnoxious that the nation will drive from politics anyone even suspected of dishonest motives."

He then referred to the investigation of the Senate when a number of Senators, especially Senator Quay, was shown to have speculated in sugar while the tariff bill was in the Senate under consideration, and that after a half-dozen Senators confessed to being interested in sugar they were allowed to continue in their seats.

REMARKS PROGRESS

"We have progressed so far," he said, "that such a state of affairs is unimaginable now. Those men would have been scourged from public life now."

He has not taken any exercise since he came to Washington this time. He is suffering from an old wound he received several years ago in a trolley accident when one of his detectives was killed and Mr. Cortelyou was injured also. At that time it was thought the bone of his leg was injured, but he apparently recovered. He told me yesterday that whenever he gets tired or gets a jar it pains him again.

We talked for an hour about his African trip, and I gave him my experience in the tropics with woolens and cotton goods, and I am to purchase his outfit largely for him.

TO STOP IN ENGLAND

He has decided to stop in England on his way home, as he has been invited to deliver some famous lecture at Oxford University. The university is going to bestow on him the same honors as they did on Gladstone and Emperor William. He says he does not care so much about the degree as he does for the opportunity to deliver the address. I told him what had been my impression while in England and how the English people seemed to admire him.

"Yes," he said, "I do seem to appeal to the imagination of the British, but just why I do not know. The Germans have apparently some enthusiasm for me, but it always strikes me as if it is worked up, while that in England seems to be sincere.

"I do not like the idea of touring the world. I thought it a mistake in Grant, and in the case of poor old Seward it was pitiful. For, after all, we are only private citizens and have no right to expect anything. I had intended to avoid all European countries, but this invitation offered makes it not only permissible for me to go into England but proper. Just how I can pay a visit to Edward and not to Nephew William I hardly see, but I shall not go into any country without an invitation which I can accept with dignity."

LOSES ON UNIFORM

And this leads to a very funny incident. At dinner the other night he said that while abroad he might be called upon to attend functions where it would not be proper to go in ordinary citizen clothes, and he seriously objected to wearing knickerbockers and black stockings, and that while he had never owned a dress military uniform, he thought he would get me to order him a uniform of a Colonel of cavalry, and asked my advice as to the justification he had to use it. I told him he had the legal right and it was so prescribed in orders, and that the uniform as it existed when he was a Colonel was brilliant with yellow plumes and gold lace, in fact, the handsomest and most showy uniform we have ever had in the service. He said he would order one of Hasas and wear it with patent leather boots.

WIFE NAMES WEAK SPOT

"Theodore, I would never wear a uniform that I had not worn in the service, and if you insist upon doing this I will have a vivandiere's costume made and follow you throughout Europe."

He took it good-naturedly, but she told me afterward that his weak spot was disliking to be laughed at in the family. "I will not have him wear a uniform in Europe, for they would ridicule him in this country."

She then told me not to encourage it and to keep postponing it if he should refer to it again. He did the next day, and he says he sees no reason why he should not wear the uniform he was entitled to wear as Colonel of the Rough Riders; and I must confess I do not either. He will certainly make a more imposing figure than in our abominably ugly frock coat. She usually has her way with him in such matters, and it remains to be seen what the outcome will be. I hope however, he does not get me to order it for him should he persist in this fancy.

Your devoted son,
ARCHIBALD.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Feb. 1.—At a meeting of the Kiwanis Club, Rev. Richard Day formerly of Riverside, but now paster of the First Baptist Church here declared that, within the next decade, California and Arizona will march arm and arm in building the new West. The greatest valleys of the world he believed those of the Santa Clara, San Gabriel and Salt River.

"Los Angeles county," the speaker said, "ranks sixth in the entire United States as a manufacturing center. Over there they realize that co-operation means something. They know that Arizona is the greatest outlet for California-manufactured products and they also realize that the bulk of raw material is going to come from this State."

In support of his assurance of Coast goodwill, Mr. Day read a telegram from Secretary Wiggins of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, offering co-operation and expressing the hope of the people of Los Angeles and Southern California "that the prosperity and growth of Arizona shall coincide with and be linked inseparably with ours, and it is the determination of Los Angeles to bring this about."

LABORITES UP AGAINST ETIQUETTE

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, Feb. 1.—A minor comedy has arisen in British ministerial circles over the question of court dress. The question is whether to buy or not to buy. A full outfit of court uniform with a few hundred weight of gold lace, tin sword, glass buckles, and other doodads costs $640, and few Laborites have $640 to spare for one suit of clothes.

At the same time the constitutional customs require that there must be a member of the ministry always attendant on the King, and while none thinks that the King cares a darn whether he wears knee pants or gold lace or corduroy, the man himself is likely to feel out of it if he does not wear the uniform of the job.

The Labor party has been asked to express its opinion, but has declined to commit itself, and as a result some of the ministers have ordered court dress, while others are inquiring of theatrical costumers of the cost of hiring uniforms. The market rate is $4.50 per night. It is on record that peers have hired robes for coronation ceremonies, so why not ministers for attendance on the king?

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

MANILA, Feb. 1. — Gov.-Gen. Leonard Wood expects to make shortly his first attempt to fill any of the Cabinet positions which have been vacant since the Cabinet members resigned in a body last July, it is understood in political circles here. His first appointment is expected to be that of Felipe Agoncillo, a veteran of the Philippine revolution, to be Secretary of the Interior. Agoncillo, now a military attorney, was the Philippine representative at the Peace Conference in Paris, succeeding the Spanish-American War.

The Governor-General let it become known that he plans to send to the Philippine Senate tomorrow the nomination of Miguel Romualdez, another Manila attorney, to be Mayor of the city, in which office a vacancy has existed for some time. The understanding of political leaders is that the nomination will be confirmed.

Sherman and the Better Business Bureau that the company, capitalized at $10,000,000, had sold $5,130,000 worth of stock, had $3,500,000 cash and was campaigning to sell more stock, although it had spent little in developing its property.

CONSERVATIVE COAL MINERS IN CONTROL

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 1.—Defeated in every attack upon the conservative administration of the United Mine Workers of America, insurgents tonight planned a grand finale for tomorrow in their attempt to have Alexander Howat of Kansas reinstated as a member of the union.

Their latest defeat came today when the convention voted down a resolution intended to depose Ellis Searles as editor of the Mine Workers Journal, and provide that only a practical coal miner should hold the job.

Administration candidates for delegates to the world mining congress at Prague, Czecho-Slovakia, in June were elected on the first ballots today. They are Walter Nesbit, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois district, and President Thomas Kennedy of District 7, Pennsylvania.

Today the convention concluded adopting the report of the scale committee's report, and the report of the constitutional committee. The scale committee recommendation for a renewal of the present wage scale for a term of four years was approved without change, over opposition of insurgents. There was no important change made in the constitution.

DRIVER KILLED IN CAR SMASH

Pomona Man is Catapulted Against Pole

Truck Declared Traveling at High Speed

Victim Dies Shortly After Reaching Hospital

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

POMONA, Feb. 1.—Losing control of his truck while driving north on San Antonio avenue today, Philip Minsky, 26 years of age, 1240 East Franklin, smashed into the high curbing at the side of the road and plunged into a telephone pole, dying of internal injuries a few minutes later in Pomona Valley Hospital.

The accident occurred in front of Ambrosia ranch and near the home of Ed Robinson, who was the first person to reach Minsky following the accident. Charles Elder reported that just a few seconds before the accident the Minsky car had careened towards the Elder car, missing it by inches and the next instant he heard a crash. Elder said Minsky was going at a high rate of speed and this statement is born out by the badly wrecked machine.

The driver was extricated by Robinson, Elder and other passing motorists and rushed to the hospital where he died before reaching the operating table. No funeral arrangements have been made pending an inquest by the coroner. Minsky was a resident of this city for the past three years, having been engaged in the dairy business. TRAINS CRUSH AUTO

Driver Escapes, But Vehicle Is Twisted Shapeless

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

REDLANDS, Feb. 1.—Caught between two lines of freight cars and "sitting tight" while they crushed the automobile in which he was sitting is a nervous experience, according to R. F. Damon was driving out First street. At the Southern Pacific tracks a freight train was "split," making an opening. As Damon started to drive through a switch engine bumped one line of cars and the gap began to close.

Seeing that he would be caught between the two lines of cars, Damon turned to the left and tried to drive his automobile between the line of moving cars and another train on an adjoining track. The space was too narrow, however, and his machine was caught.

COURT HOLDS UP OIL STOCK SALE

Injunction Halts Auction at Riverside

"Delinquent" Shareholder Brings Action

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RIVERSIDE, Feb. 1. — Fifteen minutes before the scheduled auction sale of stock adjudged delinquent as a result of nonpayment of an assessment of 10 cents per share levied recently by the board of directors of the West Continental Oil Company, a local concern, Sheriff's officers served a temporary restraining order on the company and its directors.

The restraining order was signed by Superior Judge Ellis on the complaint of Keith M. Walker, local optician, and affected only the sale of 500 shares of stock held by him. The sale of other delinquent stock, however, was postponed pending the outcome of a hearing on an application to make the injunction permanent which has been set for the 11th inst.

Walker, in his complaint, charges that the stock was sold on the claim that it was nonassessable and that the stock certificates carried the words "Fully paid and nonassessable." Therefore, he contends that the assessment levied by the directors in November, 1923, cannot be enforced.

The complaint was filed in Superior Court shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon by Attorney Richard J. Welch, Jr. At the sale was to have been held at 2 o'clock the matter was rushed through as quickly as possible.

The defendants as named in the complaint are — West Continental Oil Company, F. W. Twogood, W. C. Moore, J. Harvey Ellis, E. L. Williamson, R. W. Russell and Henry Fransen.

RAIL RATES CHANGE HIT AT HEARING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, Feb. 1.—The case of the San Joaquin Valley in opposition to the application of the railroads for preferential freight rates to terminal points on the Pacific Coast on westbound transcontinental shipments was presented today at a hearing held by M. A. Pattison, examiner for the Interstate Commerce Commission, in the City Hall.

Witnesses representing the industrial life of the valley testified that the granting of rate privileges to port terminals would result immediately in checking the development of manufacturing all over the San Joaquin and would eventually stifle existing industries, while the valley is on the eve of its greatest industrial growth unless the "undue advantage in rates" is extended and brings back the old "back haul."

It was asserted that the preferential rates would place an unfair weapon in the hands of competitors of valley manufacturers and jobbers and shorten the distributing territory of Central California industry and lengthen that of the Los Angeles and San Francisco competitors. Through cross-examination, counsel for the roads sought to establish as benefits to be derived from a restoration of the old rates, greater eastern competition in the local sales market and an increase in the number of cars available through back haul from the East.

Merritt also announced that the January shipments of raisins from the valley were twice as large as in any previous January in the history of the association and that he will leave Sunday for the East to confer with representatives of the association from England, the Middle West and the East and to get the regulatory departments of the government in Washington to co-operate in plans to lead the San Joaquin Valley out of her difficulties. LISTS WITHHELD IN POMONA CASE

More Evidence Sought in Liquor Scandal

Full Investigation Will Be Made at Once

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

POMONA, Feb. 1.—The "who" of Pomona's scandal [illegible] still a deep secret today.

Following statements yesterday by Mrs. W. J. Rogers, superintendent of the local welfare league, Dep. Dist.-Atty. Joos of Los Angeles that more than fifty men, some of them prominent in business and social activities, are believed to be implicated in a ring of liquor and "immorality" parties, an atmosphere of mystery shrouded the entire situation.

TO ACT AT ONCE

Reports from authoritative sources are to the effect that a sweeping investigation into the [illegible] charges will be made immediately and an attempt made to bring the supposedly guilty parties to trial.

When approached upon the subject today Mrs. Rogers said: "The situation is indeed a serious one and must be thoroughly investigated. I have a list of local men and boys said to be implicated in the case but of course cannot make any charges until the confessions of the girls have been corroborated."

YOUTH OUT ON BAIL

Knowledge of such a list of suspects became public yesterday following the waiving of a preliminary hearing in Judge Archibald's court, Department Eight, in the cases of Harold Hollifield, 17 years of age, and Thomas Fitzwater, 16, charged with contributing to the delinquency of Ruth Brunton, 18, and her sister, Alice, 16, 311 South Park avenue. Pomona. Trial for young Hollifield will be Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock in the same court. He has been released on $1500 bail. Fitzwater has been released on probation. The two girls are in the custody of the Juvenile Court.

THREE FIRES IN POMONA

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Feb. 1. — For the third time during the past two weeks the Pasadena fire department was called today to extinguish a blaze at the Gonsalves rooming-house, 617 South Fair Oaks avenue. This time it was found that a quantity of oily rags placed in a bureau drawer had ignited. Last week a pile of newspapers were found blazing in one of the rooms. Mrs. A. R. Gonsalves, proprietor, expressed the belief that the fires were incendiary. The fire department is investigating.

PLANS INDUSTRY DRIVE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

LANKERSHIM, Feb. 1.—Howard Seeley has been selected to head the industrial committee of the Chamber of Commerce and will at once inaugurate a campaign to encourage manufacturing organizations to locate their factories or enterprises here. Heretofore no concerted effort has been made to develop the industrial side of the community, but the enlarged program for the new year is very ambitious.

More than 25,000,000 residents of this country under 26 years of age are not receiving systematic religious and moral instruction from any church.

Does a Specialty Shop convey anything to your mind? It should, for its name implies that whatever is sold within the portals of that store has had undivided and particular attention paid to it, so that of its food it is bound to be "awful, awful good!" In the case of Mora's Specialties No. 4, the afore-mentioned is particularly true. Before your very eyes, in immaculately clean white enameled pots and pans they cook the most delicious ravioli, tagliarini and spaghetti you ever tasted and hope to eat. On it they put tomato or mushroom sauce, and finest grated cheese—just as you wish. Rolls, too, are served and coffee such as you seldom drink—with the result that people come from far and near to get these things.

Elsewhere others have tried to imitate Mora's Specialty Shops, but none have been able to equal them in any way. Their food is different—made of the very best of materials and kept up to the standard first set by Mrs. Mora, who has the distinction of originating the idea.

It's just possible you have never been in either of these unique Specialty shops; if not, do so right away. One is located at 315 South Spring, the other at 149 North Spring. You will declare you never tasted better Italian food anywhere—that's certain.

Do you ever stop to think how easy living is made in California? Have you forgotten (if you are not a Native Daughter)—about the coal bill—the ashman's bill—the cleaning woman's bill—to say nothing of the doctor's statement each winter, which made, along with the others, a big hole in the yearly income?

That money isn't lost any more because of our sunny clime and the health most of us enjoy—but do you save it? Take each month a certain amount up to the woman's department of the Bank of Italy and there enter under Miss Grace Stoermer's direction or one of her able assistants; learn how to invest or dispose of your savings so as to safeguard the future of your little brood or those near and dear.

The Bank of Italy has instituted this department purposely for your use and the assistance you may ask for and receive there should be benefiting you daily.

What do you say? Isn't this an idea which has an appeal? Let it bear fruit this very next week. Others have profited, why not you?

This is a gala week sure enough —Such bargains as are being offered, such splendid values, too, so that any woman buying can save heaps of money. Simank Brothers, 725-27 West Ninth, have decided to close out a number of complete sets of furniture together with some broken lots of odd pieces —at actual cost. Mr. Simank is letting them go and when I looked over the pieces I was amazed at the small cost. Whatever you do, don't miss going in.

Just to say "Honey Bread" arouses a hunger for this "staff of life," and this particular make boasts of the added delight of having honey in it. The very first slice you give the little folks wins them to Honey Bread's side and mother is equally enthusiastic when she sees the evenness with which it is baked, the fine texture and snowy whiteness. If it's "the bread that made mother stop baking" we know there is a reason, so we get the habit and say "HONEY" when ordering bread.

Woolens will be lovely and soft if rinsed in water the same temperature as that in which they were washed.

Our visitors who have left behind them the cold and bleak and arrived in the midst of sunshine, palms and flowers never quite lose their enthusiasm over the fresh vegetables which in any of Young's Markets, though most particularly in the one on Broadway, are displayed in such an altogether hunger-arousing manner. Marketing in Young's market is a guarantee of satisfaction.

Mrs. X., dweller in the most virulent type of everything-done-for-you apartment palace, and without chick or child to claim her time, wonders unceasingly how it happens that Mrs. Y., the mother of three lively kiddies and the mistress of a fairly capacious bungalow, can have so much leisure time. "It's because I make every labor-saving edge cut," Mrs. Y. explains. "I'm a confirmed user of short cuts in housework; chiefest of these, I find, is the Crown Laundry service, which does all my family wash, as well as the household linen, better, quicker and cheaper than I could have it accomplished at home." Better try them if you want the same satisfaction.

Here is news of the kind one is willing to wait a whole year for! F. Suie One, 510 North Los Angeles (Chinatown) are going to have the most interesting worthwhile sale on next Tuesday and Wednesday you could wish for. They will sell hand-carved Bamboo Bird Cages complete—the kind which add so much charm to the California home and are particularly desirable because they are the first of the kind to be imported direct from China—very reasonably. Those which were $10, will sell at $6.75; the $8 ones for $3.75; $6.50 kind $3.

Also your long-felt wish for a Mah Jong set may now be realized for $175 sets will go for $115; $65 sets for $35; $35 sets now $19.75; $18 at $11.75, and $15 sets $9.50, and Mandarin Mah Chuck traveling sets for $1.65.

Baskets will be another splendid buy—75-cent baskets for 35 cents; 85 cent baskets, 38 cents, while basket bungalows indispensable in a home for one thing or another, will be almost given away at the price of $1.20.

Marvelous values these are which won't last long so go as early as possible.

You'll never go back to the old zinc bathtub, will you? Of course not; nor would you return to the antiquated manner of washing by the backbreaking method, which took the skin off your hands and put you in a bad mood for a week afterward. Even the electric washers, which superseded the wooden tub, are now "backed off the boards" by the newest entry in the field of improvements, namely the Royal Electric Washer.

It has no tub to take up room and be in the way, for it fastens to the stationary tubs and thereby eliminates the carrying of water to the machine—with the Royal you merely turn the faucet. You rinse in the sanitary basin on the other side by power without carrying the clothes a foot, and when the washing is finished all you need do is put the tray around it and behold, a beautiful compact appliance, which only requires dusting to keep it bright and shining. The Royal Electric Washer may be bought on terms through Listenwalter & Gough, wholesale distributors for California, 819-21 E. First street, their address; 879711 the phone number.

Never confuse "Frozen Steam" with common or raw-water ice—for it's like comparing a bit of exquisite silk with coarse cotton. You see, though "Frozen Steam" resembles ordinary ice—the likeness ends there for this product of the Merchants' Ice and Cold Storage is made from artesian well water. They turn it into steam first of all to sterilize it and remove all germs, then after being raised to 400 deg. above zero, they lower it to 23 deg. below freezing. That is why "Frozen Steam" gives greater refrigeration and melts slower. Can't you see that it is in consequence economical to use? A safeguard for your health and those of all your family and a pleasure to use because it leaves no sediment or dirt in your box?

Call up 871-531 and leave your order—the "red" stripe on the Frozen Steam wagon will be your banner in the future, I'll wager.

Ice cream boxes can be washed and dried to serve as containers for the packed lunch.

'Fess up now, haven't you been promising yourself you would seek out Mora's Grill, 107 W. Market, a half-block south of the postoffice, where "food incomparable" may be had? Make good the threat this week—please for you have a treat in store—Everything is so very delicious—and the atmosphere most interesting!

Oranges and Cocoanut: Brown desiccated cocoanut, slightly in the oven and sprinkle over orange cut in chunky pieces for a salad, a bit out of the ordinary.

Cavendish English crumpets, so delicious they melt in your mouth, are served now at the Biltmore Hotel, though you may buy them direct at the Lady Ann Cavendish Tea Rooms, 3002 Wilshire Boulevard. (Drexel 7787.)

You can easily visualize the mellow sunshine of South Italy flooding a sloping hillside dotted with gray-green olive trees when you use the Castruccio Bros. virgin olive oil. We Los Angeles gourmets are indeed fortunate to have this delicious salad accompaniment so easily within our reach. Make sure your grocer sends you "Castruccio," though—others are not just as good.

Preserve the color of your rugs and carpets by sprinkling them with a little salt when sweeping.

The Wilshire Kommunity Kitchen, 232 S. Western avenue, stays open on Sunday, especially to come to the rescue when unexpected guests drop in at tea time or when you have been unable to prepare things yourself. Home-made food of the finest kind, plenty of variety, have made these girls famous.

COAST-ARIZONA CONTACT SHOWN

Tucson Chamber Hears Plea for Co-operation

Transportation Procedure Called Wasteful

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TUCSON, Feb. 1.—An appreciative audience of 250 business men, gathered at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet meeting, applauded when H. P. Gardner, speaker of the day, told of the close trade relations between Arizona and his home city of Los Angeles. Gardner, who is secretary of the Pioneer-Pacific Worsted Company, was present by special invitation of the Chamber of Commerce directorate.

The wonderful growth of the Coast metropolis he attributed to the wealth that lay behind it in Southern California, Arizona and Nevada.

"This whole great territory," the speaker showed, "is spread out like a fan, converging toward Los Angeles on account of its location and population, and especially on account of its harbor facilities, from which it spreads out again, fanlike, practically to the rest of the world. Financial houses in Los Angeles have realized the wonderful future of this whole Southwest. I strongly urge co-operation with these houses through your Chamber of Commerce, for further industrial development. Combined, the Southwest in time will exert a very strong influence in the affairs of the whole nation."

Reference was made to the present uneconomic policy of transportation of raw products to faraway manufacturing centers, the manufactures thereafter to be returned expensively to the Southwest for consumption. This, Mr. Gardner said, is a situation with a penalty that is overlooked by the people of today, but one that should be given grave local consideration.

Answers to Food Questions

Answers to readers' questions regarding diet will be given by Winifred Stuart Gibbs, food specialist, writer and lecturer on nutrition. Questions should be accompanied by a self-addressed, stamped envelope as only those of general interest will be answered in this column; others will be answered through the mail. Every effort will be made to answer questions promptly but we bespeak the indulgence of our readers for any unavoidable delay. The number of letters received is large and each must take its turn.—Address: Winifred Stuart Gibbs, 37 West 39th street, New York City.

Will you please advise me on what I should feed my little boy. He is 4 years old. Please give me a food list that will make him grow. MRE. A. L. G.

I have your letter asking about food for your little boy. A child 4 years old is at a very interesting and important age. Any habits formed now will largely determine his health in later years. All children must have material for building up the cells as they form in the body—food that will develop the different parts or organs of the body and food that will prepare the waste that comes from the ordinary activities of every day.

A 4-year-old should have his meals planned somewhat like this: For breakfast half of an orange sliced, five or six well-cooked puffy prunes, a slice of canned peach or two tablespoons of baked apple with cream or apple sauce. A slice of toast with half a portion of butter, a cup of milk and a slice of bacon, or three tablespoons of cereal with milk and sugar, or a poached egg.

For dinner a portion of lean roast beef or the lean part of a broiled chop, or a small portion of chicken. Half a baked potato or the equivalent, an amount of mashed potatoes, or a portion of macaroni baked with milk, string beans, creamed cauliflower, asparagus tips and a heaping tablespoon of rice, one or two slices of bread, two tablespoons of bread pudding, or ice cream, or rice pudding, or a small serving of fresh fruit in season.

For supper a cream soup made with a half cup of milk and a half cup of strained vegetable pulp, three tablespoons of mashed carrots or other vegetable (see dinner,) two or three slices of bread and butter or toast, a glass of milk and a small serving of custard, or baked apple, or gingerbread, or sponge cake.

I have tried to indicate the general meal plan with suggestions for alternates in each of the food groups.

Please give me directions for canning beef at home. MRS. E. H. F.

If you have not had experience in canning meat, I advise you to cook it a little before you sterilize it. It may be roasted or stewed or cooked in any other way as if you were going to use it immediately seasoning it to taste, and cook unonly about three-quarters done. If you overcook it before sterilizing it, the meat will be stringy and shred in unpleasant pieces when served.

Boil the jars and lids fifteen minutes before packing the meat. Dip the rubbers in boiling water just before you put them on the cans. Cut the meat in the right size pieces for cooking before you begin the preliminary cooking. Add a teaspoon of salt to every quart jar of meat. Your meat is now partly cooked and is seasoned so that you will not need to add salt after it is in the cans. Pour a little boiling water around the partially cooked meat and adjust the lid not too lightly or the jar will break.

Let the meat stand in the boiling water one and a half hours, or forty minutes if you use a pressure cooker with pressure of five pounds and thirty minutes if with a pressure of fifteen pounds.

BROTHER BELIEVES SISTER IS KIDNAPED

Disappearance of Agnes Ehart, 21 years of age, was reported to the police yesterday by her brother, Harry Ehart, who said he last saw her four weeks ago at the Huntington Hotel. He went to Fresno looking for work, he said, leaving here here, and received a wire signed with her name, saying she was going to Honolulu. He heard nothing further from her and searched steamship records, but was unable to identify her among passengers on any Honolulu-bound boat. He told the police he believed she had been kidnaped and that the message was sent him as a blind. The girl is described at 5 feet 3 inches tall, weight 135, blue eyes and dark blond hair. She work a watch ring on her left hand.

ASSERTS NONSUPPORT

Leonard James Howe brought his mother, stepfather and brother into their home, refused to work himself, and then demanded that his wife work and wait on his kin, Mrs. Mildred Howe asserted in a suit for divorce filed yesterday. Howe was also declared to have failed properly to support his wife.

For making Cake

SNOWDRIFT—a pure, rich, creamy cooking fat—is made by the Wesson Oil people out of oil as good as a fine salad oil. (You need oil that's good to eat to make cooking fat as good as cooking fat can be.) Then Snowdrift is packed in a truly air-tight bucket (air-tight—but as easy to open as winding the clock) to keep it as sweet and fresh as the day it was made—sweet and fresh all the way down to the bottom of the bucket.

Using Snowdrift in your own favorite recipe is the best way to find out how good Snowdrift is. Remember to add salt because Snowdrift is sweet, fresh, and unsalted.

KATE BREW VAUGHN'S recipe for WHITE LOAF CAKE

3 whites of eggs
1½ cupfuls sugar
½ cupful Snowdrift
1 cupful liquid (water preferred)
2½ cupfuls flour
2½ teaspoonfuls baking powder
1 teaspoonful salt
1½ teaspoonful extract (1 tsp. vanilla —½ tsp. orange or lemon juice, or any desired flavor)

Cream Snowdrift and sugar thoroughly, adding liquid from time to time until one-third cupful has been used. Sift the flour, baking powder and salt together several times. Alternately add balance of the liquid and flour, fold in whites of beaten eggs and extract, and bake in loaf. Requires fifty minutes in oven 350 F., gradually increasing until cake is thoroughly risen and temperature to about 400° F. for a few minutes to harden walls of cells. Remove the cover to reduce the temperature for balance of time.

El Monte Folk Deny Removing Home Occupant

In an answer to the suit by Thomas J. Dugan of El Monte for $15,000 damages, five persons named defendants in the action denied Dugan's assertion that they forcibly entered his home on August 31, 1923, attacked him and finally drove him from the premises. L. T. Terry, Maud S. Coy, Hellen A. Collins, Mary E. Jennings and H. R. Woodward admitted they had moved Dugan's furniture into one room of the house, but contended that they had a right to do this on the ground that Dugan was in possession of the premises only by grace of the owner.

Maud S. Coy, owner; her mother, Mrs. Jennings, and Woodward took possession of the house, according to the answer, which denied that any force had been used.

As another aftermath to the affair, Hellen A. Collins filed a suit against Dugan for $10,000 damages, alleging he caused her to be imprisoned six hours in the County Jail on a charge of willful trespass. The accusation against her was later dismissed by a justice of the peace at El Monte.

CRISWELL JUNKET AT CAPITAL TO CONTINUE

Councilman Criswell, who has been in Washington for the past month at the public expense, lobbying for the Swing-Johnson bill, was granted an additional two weeks' leave of absence yesterday by the City Council, as the result of the receipt of a telegram from Special Counsel W. B. Mathews of the Public Service Commission saying that it was urgently necessary that Councilman Criswell remain in Washington. The Swing-Johnson bill was put forward by opponents of the Colorado River compact and is being strongly urged by the Municipal Bureau of Power and Light. The Washington trip expenses of Councilman Criswell and Special Counsel Mathews are being paid by the Power Bureau from power revenues.

MINESTRONE

A. J. B., Bellflower, requests recipes for minestrone, shrimps Bordelaise, angel food cake, and two menus for box lunches.

Minestrone, or Italian family soup, is a whole meal dish and when served with a green salad will make an excellent lunch. To make the minestrone place in a pot one scraped carrot cut in dice, one peeled and diced turnip, two leeks peeled and cut in fine slices, one bunch of celery peeled and cut in thin slices, and two level tablespoons of butter; stir over a slow fire until lightly browned, then add three quarts of water, two teaspoons of salt, half a teaspoon of white pepper, and a pinch of saffron; mix well, add one split beef knuckle and cook slowly for one hour. Add two tablespoons washed rice and half a cup of spaghetti broken in small pieces and boil thirty minutes; remove the beef bone and cut the meat in small pieces; return the meat to the pot and add one peeled and diced small potato and one peeled and diced tomato; cook thirty minutes, add one tablespoon of finely chopped parsley, cook twenty minutes and serve with toasted French bread and grated Parmesan cheese.

SHRIMPS BORDELAISE

Place in a saute pan one peeled and chopped onion and two tablespoons of olive oil; heat and cook until the onion is a light golden color; add one cup of strained tomato sauce and two tablespoons of orange juice; heat, add two cups of peeled, boiled shrimps, and a seasoning of salt and paprika; heat and stir lightly until well mixed; serve on squares of buttered toast and garnish with lemon slices and sprigs of parsley.

ANGEL FOOD

Sift three-quarters of a cup of sifted flour with one level teaspoon of cream of tartar five times. Place in a cold dry bowl the whites of six eggs, add a small pinch of salt and beat until they will hold up an egg. With a wooden spoon carefully fold in a scant three-quarters cup of sifted fine granulated sugar and when it is nearly all mixed in add gradually the flour and half a teaspoon of vanilla extract. Carefully clean muffin tins, polish with olive oil and dust with flour. Fill three-quarters full with the mixture and place in a warm oven; after ten minutes gradually increase the heat to a moderate oven and finish baking.

BOX LUNCHES

Menus for box lunches are a lot nicer if left to the taste of the one who is delegated to furnish them. We might suggest that they contain two kinds of finger sandwiches wrapped in a paper napkin, one slice of nice cake wrapped in a paper napkin or oiled paper, a paper drinking cup lined with a lettuce leaf and filled with chicken, shrimp, lobster, or vegetable salad, topped with an olive and covered with oiled paper, and one piece of fruit, banana, orange or apple.

APPLE CHARLOTTE

H. O., Los Angeles, asks that we give directions for making apple charlotte.

Cut thin slices of sandwich bread one inch wide and about three and a half inches long; dip the bread slices in melted butter and place them around the sides of a round mold so that they will overlap; cut pieces of bread to cover the bottom of the mold. Peel, core, and slice four cups of apples, place in a saucepan with half a cup of sugar, half a cup of water, a slice of lemon rind, and an inch-piece of cinnamon; cook until nearly all of the water is evaporated; remove the lemon peel and cinnamon, and pour into the bread-lined mold; place in a moderate oven and bake until the bread is nicely browned. Unmold carefully onto a platter and serve with jelly sauce.

KOLATCHEN

K. F. B., Los Angeles, would like a recipe for sour cream "kolatchen," a small yeast-raised cake that is made in Europe.

Cover two cakes of yeast with one teaspoon of sugar and three tablespoons of warm milk. Beat to a cream half a cup of butter and two tablespoons of sugar, beat well and beat into them the yolks of five eggs, the grated rind of one lemon, one cup of thick sour cream, and the dissolved yeast; beat in three cups of sifted flour and when well mixed drop from a teaspoon onto well-greased pans and let stand in a warm place until light. Place a seeded raisin in the center of each cake, spread with beaten egg white, sprinkle with sugar and bake ten minutes in a hot oven.

CHEESE SANDWICHES

D. L., Los Angeles, has a husband who is very fond of cheese sandwiches in any form and she asks that we give her two or three recipes for them.

Beat to a cream three tablespoons of butter, add four tablespoons of grated American cheese, one tablespoon of anchovy essence, a seasoning of salt and paprika, and one-quarter of a teaspoon of mustard; mix well, spread on thin slices of rye bread, sprinkle with finely chopped olives and cover with a thin slice of rye bread.

RARE-BIT SANDWICH

Beat the yolks of two eggs with two tablespoons of cream, a seasoning of salt and paprika, and one teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce. Melt one-quarter of a pound of cheese in a saucepan, stir in the mixture; blend well, cool slightly and spread between slices of lightly buttered toast.

FRIED BEAN SPROUTS

F. R., Hollywood, wants directions for frying bean sprouts.

Chop fine a quarter of a pound of fresh pork fat, place in a hot iron frying pan and cook until brown; add one pound of dry bean sprouts and stir and cook five minutes; add a seasoning of salt and pepper and three tablespoons of soya; cover tight and simmer fifteen minutes.

Diet and Health

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

"Dear Doctor: You promised some time ago to publish an article on liver spots, but I have not seen it yet—L."

Well, here's a little on 'em. It's going to take many moons before I will be able to cover the questions I get in one day's mail. So please do not be impatient.

So-called liver spots are due to so very many causes. Sometimes they are an accompaniment of certain diseases, sometimes they appear during pregnancy, and sometimes they are due to some diseases of the skin. They often appear in old age. The reason why the coloring matter should be deposited in the skin is not known in most cases. Those spots that are caused by diseases will clear up when the diseases are cured, but others may be permanent.

Jackson, in his book on skin diseases, advised pure carbolic acid applied with a swab of cotton on a small sharpened stick. This turns the skin white and in a few days the shriveled-up skin falls. This will be effective if the spots are small.

Peroxide of hydrogen will cause a temporary disappearance of them. Jackson also speaks of salicylic acid, 10 to 15 per cent in an ointment, as sometimes helpful.

A Farmer:—The condition of your foot which you describe is probably not a local condition. I advise you to see a nerve specialist. The same advice applies to your brother.

Mrs. H.:—If you cannot find a suitable support for your bust in the department stores or surgical supply houses, you can take two strips of heavy cloth about six inches wide and pass one over the right shoulder, under the left breast and over the back, and the other one the opposite side. When they are both on they will be crossed and will form a sling for the heavy bust. It is quite essential that heavy busts should be supported while nursing the baby during weaning and, in fact, at any time.

"Dear Doctor:—I am inclosing a fully addressed, stamped envelope and 4 cents for your reduction pamphlet. I am 56 years old, fifty pounds overweight and fairly limber for age and size. I can touch the floor without bending my knees, but my grandmother did that when she was 90.

"I have been short of breath ever since I can remember, and have had several spells of lumbago. Everybody calls me a small eater, but I notice that I began to gain on the farm where I had cream and such things. Am always tired, but ready to start. Always have some intensely interesting fad. Isn't the answer reducing?—Mrs. F. K."

Yes, Mrs. K., that is the answer. You will find you never had any fad half so interesting as reducing if we can call a measure so beneficial for health and happiness, a fad.

V.:—Occasionally simple goiter will develop during pregnancy. Obstetricians usually give a very small dose of organic iodine, once a week, in these cases. If your physician does not know the name of the preparation which is used so successfully in Switzerland and Ohio in the prevention of goiter, I will gladly send him the name if he will write to me on his official stationery, requesting it.

M.: Bunions are caused by wearing shoes that are too narrow or too short, especially those that are too short. It's a sad bit of economy to continue to wear shoes of this character. A bunion really is an outward displacement of the first joint of the great toe accompanied by an inflammation of the covering of the bone (the periostium,) with an excess growth of this tissue and an inflammation of the sack (bursa) which contains the joint lubricating fluid. If the bunion is very large it will probably have to be operated upon. If not, properly fitted shoes and a little pad to fit around the swelling to protect the sensitive area from pressure, will help.

(Monday—Answers to Correspondents.)

[My dear Followers: When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose 4 cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s. a. e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.]

OPENS WAR ON WOODEN HOSPITALS

City Hall Conference Will Ask Council to Put Limit on Unsafe Buildings

Means for obtaining gradual elimination from Los Angeles of wooden hospital buildings were discussed yesterday afternoon at an important conference held at the City Hall, attended by representatives of the building, fire prevention, health, legal and other departments.

The officials present said that the owners of the existing wooden hospital buildings had co-operated in every way in making changes in their buildings recommended by the officials in order to make the buildings safe. It was stated further that several hospital owners had given notice that they intended soon to build modern, fireproof buildings to replace the present wooden ones.

It was finally agreed that the Council is to be asked to prohibit the use of wooden hospital buildings of more than two stories in height, and that owners of existing wooden hospital buildings be given one year in which to reduce the height of the buildings to two stories or to replace the present ones with Class A structures.

All of the officials declared that Los Angeles is woefully in need of additional hospitals. New hospital buildings of more than one story in height must be of Class A fireproof construction, under the present law.

The conference was attended by Public Works Commissioner Delorey, Chief Deputy Building Inspector Welch, Deputy City Attorney Thomas and Chairman Dunl of the Board of Mechanical Engineers, and other officials.

Council Urges Congress Give Postmen Rise

Mail carriers and other postal employees who are seeking from Congress more adequate compensation yesterday found a friend in Councilman Sanborn, who was once a mail carrier. The Councilman introduced at the Council session a resolution recommending to Congress that the additional compensation asked for be granted.

The resolution which was in part as follows:

"Resolved, by the Council of the city of Los Angeles in session assembled, that it favors a just and adequate rise in the salaries of postal employees, and strongly urges and recommends that the legislation now pending before Congress above mentioned, be enacted into law for this purpose; that copies of this resolution, properl engrossed, be forwarded to the Senators and Representatives of the State of California, with the hope that they will use all legitimate means within their power to further the enactment of said bill."

Clubs Exempt From Rule on Dance Permit

Under an ordinance adopted by the City Council yesterday, dances held by bona fide social and fraternal organizations will be hereafter classed as private dances and will not be subject to the usual public dance regulations. These organizations will no longer be required to get the usual permits to hold dances.

Family parties may now attend these club dances, including children accompanied by parents, whereas heretofore when the organization dances were classed as public gatherings children were not permitted to attend them.

OLDEST GRAD LEADS MARCH

Detroit Man Follows Thirty-Year Custom of Giving Hand to Youngest Girl at Commencement

DETROIT, Feb. 1.—Jared Warner Finney, 83 years of age, who was graduated from Central, Detroit's oldest high school, the year the Civil War began, has for thirty years led the grand march at the Alumni ball.

For thirty years he has led the youngest graduate of the year through the most intricate of marches and has watched the dancers with pleasure, but he has never danced a step.

"I've never danced in my life," said Mr. Finney, formerly United States Commissioner. "When I was a boy they'd never permit it. My father was so strict. Then when I grew older and saw the boys dancing with all the pretty girls I determined that my own children, if I ever had any, would dance and dance well."

Mr. Finney's resolve was kept, he says. His two sons, now grown to manhood, are expert dancers.

"And maybe I'm not proud of that fact!" their father said.

When Mr. Finney and another classmate graduated from the old high school as the Civil War began there was no Central High School, because Detroit boasted only one school. That was the time when pasture lands stretched beyond Grand Circus Park and the old Finney Temperance Hotel stood where Kern's store is today.

"When our alumni gatherings first began I saw them dance the Virginia reel, the schottische and the waltz. The two-step was just coming in and I remember how wicked some of the folks thought the new steps," Mr. Finney said.

"Then came the tango and the one-step and all this fancy stuff they do now. It is all interesting and I never tire of watching them dance."

Only once did the alumni association and Mr. Finney fail of their annual appearance. That was during the great war.

When Mr. Finney was graduated there were no women in his class and he boasted only one classmate.

Thursday night, when Mr. Finney again led the grand march, three of his grandchildren were present to watch him. They are Jared Warner, 8 months of age; Mary Alice, 5, and Caryl Jane, 10.

"Young folks are always interesting," Mr. Finney concluded with a smile.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. — Nine thousand cases of rare Scotch whisky were being prepared for export today by an old-established New York firm, because its members told government authorities they were unable to compete with bootleggers in selling it to drug stores. Alfred Wile of Julius Wile and Sons Company, owners of the liquor, asserted the bootleggers could undersell legitimate dealers by $21.75 a case. He said other dealers have asked the government for permission to export their stock.

ACT FAVORABLY ON FORD OFFER

Committee Votes Approval of McKenzie Bill

Only Two Changes Inserted in Original Plan

Measure Now is Ready to Go Before House

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Henry Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals once more will come to the floor of the House for consideration as a result of action today by the House military committee in voting to report favorably the McKenzie bill with the Madden amendment.

The McKenzie bill which authorizes acceptance of the Detroit manufacturer's bid and the Madden amendment providing for replacement of the Gorgas plant with a similar steam plant, embody virtually the proposal placed before the committee two years ago.

Only two changes were made in the measure as considered last year. The committee accepted an amendment by Acting Chairman McKenzie, Republican, Illinois, to require interest at four per cent on all money expended by the government on the project since Mr. Ford tendered his proposal. It also would provide for interest on further expenditures of the government.

Representative McSwain, Democrat, South Carolina, obtained insertion in the bill of a clause providing that stocks and bonds issued in developing the Shoals project should remain at all times in the hands of American citizens.

With these two changes Mr. McKenzie was instructed to prepare a bill authorizing acceptance of the Ford bid.

LONG BEACH SEES FRAUD IN GAS ROW

Hidden Motive Charged in Extension of Mains in Complaint Answer

Deception and fraud on the part of the Southern Counties Gas Company, are charged in an answer filed in United States District Court yesterday by the City of Long Beach and its officers, defendants in an action filed a few weeks ago. The Southern Counties Gas Company obtained an order from Judge James prohibiting Long Beach from interfering with operations of the corporation in exercising asserted privileges in the making of extensions.

The city holds that the gas company has no intention of using the gas mains and conduits for the sole purpose of supplying gas for lighting purposes, but that it is planned to use the mains for gas for fuel, heat and power.

On January 18 last, the plaintiff company filed with the director of public works of Long Beach an application for street excavation on Water street from the intersection of Water street and Ocean Boundary easterly along Water street to the intersection of Water street with the west bank of Flood Control Channel.

It is asserted that the petition was not filed in good faith, that the main was intended for conducting natural gas from oil and gas wells at or near Signal Hill.

Hearing on the proposal to make the temporary restraining order a permanent injunction will be conducted by Judge Bledsoe, on Monday.

Moyer Company Forces Meet at Banquet Board

Optimistic predictions for financial conditions in Southern California during 1924 were made by W. E. Moyer, president of W. E. Moyer Company, at the annual banquet of the executive sales staff of the company last night at the Los Angeles Athletic Club. Twenty-five persons attended. Mr. Moyer presided.

"While I do not expect the volume of business in 1924 to exceed that of last year," said Mr. Moyer, "I expect the quality of business to improve. Prosperity will be firmer, fewer failures will be recorded and business will be on a sounder basis."

Mr. Moyer praised the effect of regulations imposed by the State Corporation Commissioner on floating stock issues. He declared experience has shown that the department protects investors from fly-by-night concerns. Reputable firms need not fear the State's regulations, he said, and on the other hand they should co-operate in order to keep the confidence of the investing public.

CALLED HER HOGFACE; WIFE GETS DIVORCE

Joseph A. Buckbee called Addie Buckbee, his wife, "hogface" among other appellations, she testified yesterday before Judge Elliot Craig, where she appealed for a divorce. This name, she said, so affected her that she became ill. Buckbee is a wealthy oil operator and, according to his wife, has an oil well at Santa Fe Springs which brings him in monthly the sum of $14,000. She was granted her divorce. A property settlement was made out of court.

WAREHOUSE THIEVES STEAL GRAPEFRUIT

Burglars invaded the warehouse at Sixth and Alameda streets of Hall, Haas & Vessey and removed fifty-five boxes of grapefruit, according to reports of the police yesterday. Other buarglars broke into the warehouse of J. W. Leavitt & Co., Oldsmobile dealers, at 752 South San Pedro street, and rolled two new cars into the street. Because the cars had no batteries they were unable to start them and so left them where they were. They stole two tires.

FORTY INJURED IN WRECKS

Chicago Trains Crash Due to Fog; Shoppers and Workers on Way to Loop Are Victims

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—More than forty persons were injured, some seriously, in four wrecks this morning caused by heavy fog. Three, the most disastrous, were on lines bearing workers and shoppers from outlying districts of the loop.

One wreck—the most serious—was on the Ravenswood-Albany Park branch of the Northwestern Elevated Road and numbered twenty casualties. Between fifteen and twenty persons were injured in the second wreck, which took place on the Illinois Central at the Forty-third-street station.

Another smash-up, causing probably fatal injury to one man, was on the Galena division of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway, at Leclaire avenue and West Kinsie street.

Finally, a double collision, extremely spectacular but doing little real injury, took place on the South Side elevated at Thirty-ninth street, where a sparsely filled train southbound ran into another train, and in turn was severely bumped by a third train following.

Most of the injured in the elevated and Illinois Central wrecks were women shoppers. The fog also was held responsible for another accident in which a street car ran into a delivery wagon, injuring the driver so that he may die, and throwing passengers into a near panic, and for an automobile accident in which a Hammond (Ind.) steel man probably was injured fatally.

Business Men to Meet Cost of Regrading

Plans for the extensive improvement of Seventh street between Figueroa and Witmer street were announced yesterday by the Seventh Street Improvement Association.

The improvements call for a regrading of that portion of Seventh street so as to virtually eliminate the 6 per cent grade between Figueroa and Witmer, leaving a practically level street. The regrading will be done by private contract, it was announced, the business men of the district meeting the cost. The work will require about four months, it was announced. A $15,000,000 hotel project also is being contemplated.

The improvement organization is headed by Robert A. Todd, well-known retired attorney and former Councilman. William W. Mines is executive secretary.

SAY MAN HELD HERE IS MURDER SUSPECT

Antonio Hernandez, who was arrested Thursday night on a vagrancy charge, is being held in the City Jail pending word from authorities in El Reno, Okla., to determine if the suspect is wanted there on a charge of murder. When Officer Hoffman of the identification bureau looked up the record of Hernandez on file here yesterday it is declared he found a communication from the police in the Oklahoma city dated May 20, 1922, to the effect that Hernandez was in custody on a charge of murder. The Oklahoma authorities at that time asked for information concerning Hernandez in Los Angeles, it was found. Hernandez will not go on trial on the vagrancy charge, it was stated, until it is found whether he is wanted by the Oklahoma officers.

SAYS MATE LIVED WITH HER SISTER

Mrs. Myrta L. Comer Files Cross-Complaint to Suit for Divorce

Charges that her husband, E. Clarke Comer, wealthy Hollywood real estate operator, deserted her and is now living with her sister, a concert singer, are contained in a cross-complaint for divorce filed late yesterday by Mrs. Myrta L. Comer.

The complaint sets forth that Mr. Comer first became acquainted with his wife's sister, known professionally as Laura May Lamport, when the latter came to visit them in May, 1922.

They became intimate, Mrs. Comer charges, and frequently kissed and hugged each other. Finally on March 26, 1923, he deserted her, she says, and established himself with her sister in a home at Hollywood. Later, Mrs. Comer asserts, he accompanied her sister on the latter's concert tour.

Other charges of infidelity, in which four women are named, are also contained in the complaint. She also asserts that in July, 1910, her husband was indicted by a Federal grand jury on a charge of using the mails to defraud and later pleaded guilty and was fined in Chicago.

In 1913, Mrs. Comer says, her husband admitted indiscretions with a Mrs. Mary Bray in a Santa Barbara Hotel. He promised to reform, she says, but between 1915 and 1919 he had illicit relations with three women, according to the counter-suit.

Mr. and Mrs. Comer were married on April 19, 1910, at Santa Barbara, according to the cross-complaint. Mrs. Comer estimates their community property in excess of $450,000 and asks $250 a month alimony and $1000 attorneys' fees.

In his divorce complaint, recently filed, Mr. Comer charges that his wife nagged him continually and accused him of infidelity, especially in his conduct towards her sister, and that by these charges she jeopardized his standing and reputation in the community.

Contractor Is Convicted in Arroyo Fight

Peter J. Vander, a contractor, was found guilty of contempt of court yesterday by Judge Thompson of the Superior Court. He was accused of violating the court's injunction against operating rock crushers in the Arroyo Seco. The case against J. Fensel, a laborer, who was similarly accused, was dismissed by the court. Vander was fined $50, but this fine was later suspended.

The case grew out of the fight by residents in and about the Arroyo Seco against the rock-crusher nuisance.

HONOR NEWLYWEDS

A reception in honor of Rev. Roy Younts and bride, formerly Lanelle Garvin, who have just returned from their honeymoon, was given last night by the Ladies Aid Society of the Pico Boulevard Christian Church at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Middlesworth on Wellington Road. The Middlesworth home was elaborately decorated for the occasion and during the evening a musical program was presented followed by refreshments. Mr. Younts is pastor of the Pico Boulevard Christian Church.

DIRECTOR NEAR DEATH

William Beaudine, motion-picture director under contract to Warner Brothers, narrowly escaped death Thursday night when a car in which he was returning from location with three other persons overturned on a dirt road between Balboa Beach and the macadam road to Los Angeles. A new term at Polytechnic Evening High School will open Monday at 7 p.m., it was announced yesterday, and those wishing to enroll should do so at that time as many classes are limited. WILL TAKE COOMBS TO MICHIGAN

Embezzlement Alleged; Suspect Formed Local Motor Association

Sheriff G. C. Bridgeman of Benton Harbor, Mich., arrived yesterday to take charge of Frank Coombs, asserted bunko man of St. Joseph, Mich., who was arrested here recently on a telegraphic warrant.

According to Sheriff Bridgeman, Coombs is wanted on a charge of embezzlement of between $4000 and $5000 while he was acting as traffic manager for shippers in St. Joseph. Since coming to Los Angeles, Coombs organized and was president of the State Motorists' Association. Offices were in the Bartlett Building. It is said Coombs had arranged to sell $25,000 worth of stock in the recently organized association at the time of his arrest. Since his arrest, it is said, the officers of the association have ousted him from the presidency.

Coombs has been at large since 1921, it was declared, and has been the objection of a nation-wide search.

Sheriff Bridgeman will leave with his prisoner today.

Stock Dividends in Three Months Go to High Mark

Stock dividends distributed to California stockholders for the last three months of 1923 amounted to $18,800,688.83, according to compilation just completed by Commissioner of Corporations Daugherty. This is exclusive of cash dividends paid at the end of the year as companies are not required to obtain permission from the department for this purpose.

The stock dividends recorded were distributed as follows: October, $4,743,512; November $4,491,470.11; December, $9,565,706.72. Commissioner Daugherty commenting on the figures said that these figures show clearly a high degree of prosperity in this State with indications of steady continuance on a sound basis.

It was explained that it is customary for companies to retain the cash represented by stock dividends for further expansion and development, thus providing working capital without the sale of additional securities and building substantial foundations with which to withstand temporary depressions that may occur.

Court Bailiff Proud of Long Service Here

Henry P. Vignes, bailiff in Police Judge Chambers's court, yesterday entered into his thirty-second year with the police department. He joined the department on January 31, 1893, and served seventeen years as a patrolman. Besides the distinction of long service, Mr. Vignes has the unique record of having served as a bailiff for fourteen years in one court.

The veteran bailiff is a Native Son. More than that he boasts that the greatest distance from Los Angeles that he has wandered is Santa Barbara and that is as far as he cares to go.

Arcade Building Will be Opened to Public Soon

Final arrangements for the first formal inspection of the new Arcade buildings on Broadway and Spring between Fifth and Sixth streets on the night of the 14th inst. by invited guests were discussed yesterday by officers and directors of the Mercantile Arcade Realty Company, who are Alan MacDonald, president; A. C. Blumenthal, vice-president; S. Laz Lansburgh, secretary; Marshall Hale and Felix Kahn.

Mr. Blumenthal and the directors visited the new skyscraper with Sid Grauman, who will have charge of the entertainment program on the opening night.

Mayor Cryer and State officials have been invited to attend. The building will be opened to the public on the morning of the 15th inst.

Yesterday Mr. Blumenthal and his staff were busy directing the moving of their offices from the Loew State Building to their new suite in the Arcade, on the sixth floor.

"CARMEN" TO BE SUBJECT

The story and the music of "Carmen" will be discussed this noon in the Choral Hall of the Philharmonic Auditorium by Margaret Goetz and Grace Freebey. The public is invited.

SMILING BANDIT TRIFLE LATE

Storekeeper Had Just Sent to Bank With $200 for Change

A few minutes after S. A. Haviland, manager of a drug store at 1001 South Figueroa street, sent an errand boy to a bank with $200 in bills to get small change, a bandit, unmasked and smiling, robbed the store register of about $13 in change, according to the report to the police.

The bandit was described as being an American about 30 years of age. He escaped on foot, Mr. Haviland said.

The boy returned with the change almost in time to see the robber make his getaway, it was reported.

The personnel of this bank recently was acquired by the California Bank, which recently entered the field. It is said that while the California institution is not as yet operating a branch of the Lankershim bank, may be considered, for practical purposes, a member of the group. The new board of directors includes: Lewis E. Bilas, J. J. Pickrell, Howard Seely, A. E. Huntington, Frederick Stevens, Ben Wilson, B. C. Lambke, John Fritz and C. T. Wardlaw.

Ben Wilson was re-elected president. The vice-presidents are Lewis E. Bilas and A. E. Huntington, both of whom are also vice-presidents of the California Bank. Hargan, formerly connected with the mortgage loan department of the California bank, was named cashier.

WRIGLEY EARNINGS

Net profits of the William Wrigley Jr. Company for 1923 were $1,047,491.92, according to the annual report, or the equivalent to $7.48 per share on the outstanding stock. After deducting operations before deduction expenses and dividends was $16,572,227.10.

Stockholders are advised in a statement by President Wrigley that current assets amount to $12,000,000 and that current liabilities, for January show a decrease over the preceding month of the previous year. The north section of the Wrigley Building, it is stated, is nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy March 1, and is already rented to the limit of 50 per cent capacity.

RICHMOND MINING

Work on the 1600-foot tunnel of the Richmond copper vein will be completed within two months, it is said by F. J. Wilson, president of the Richmond Consolidated Mining Company, who returned recently from a trip over the property.

DAILY TRADE TALK

Stock Dividends Reflect California Prosperity; Bank Election; Business News

Compilations just completed by Commissioner of Corporations Edwin M. Daugherty relating to the issuance of stock dividends in this State during the last three months of 1923 indicate not only that a condition of prosperity exists, but that business enterprises in the State of California are experiencing a rapid and pronounced growth.

The total represented in dividends distributed to stockholders in California during the months of October, November and December, 1923, was $18,800,685.83.

In October the stock dividends totaled $4,742,513 in ten permits authorizing the issuance of such dividends; in November the total was $4,491,470.11 in nineteen permits; while in December $9,566,706.72 was issued in dividends in twenty-four permits, the largest of which authorized a stock dividend of $4,500,000 and the smallest, $1200.

The figures given do not include in any way the amount of cash dividends paid by the various companies in California at the close of 1923, as it is not necessary for corporations to apply for or obtain permission to issue cash dividends.

These stock dividends are indicative of the rapid growth of corporations in the State. Where stock dividends are issued the companies retain the capital represented for further expansion and development, thus providing working capital without the necessity of the sales of additional securities and building substantial foundations with which to withstand any temporary depressions which might arise.

Commissioner Daugherty, in commenting upon the figures given, declared that the records of the department clearly show that business in California is sound and the outlook for the new year in connection with corporate activities is bright.

ELECT BURBAW

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Citizens' National Bank, held yesterday afternoon, Mr. John Burbaw was elected a vice-president of that institution closely following his election as vice-president and manager of the Citizens' National Company a few days ago.

Mr. Burbaw, who is well known in financial and investment circles in Southern California, commenced his banking career in Los Angeles with the old American National Bank, situated at Second and Spring streets, and when absorbed by the Citizens' in 1909 he became a member of that organization. He has been active in the management of the bond department of the Citizens' ever since its establishment, and the promotion is considered a merited evidence of appreciation for valuable service.

TAX-EXEMPT PROPERTY

A decision just handed down by the United States Supreme Court interpreting the Revenue Act of 1913 exempts religious property which is devoted to industrial pursuits. The court held that the requirement calling for religious societies to be organized and operated exclusively for religious purposes is met if all income is ultimately devoted to such purposes. The language of the 1913 law with respect to exemptions of religious organizations, etc., is practically identical with that in the present law.

IN BRIEF

North Coast flour mills may import Canadian wheat in bond. Canadian mills have a 10-cent price advantage, but with this differential deducted from the import duty of 30 cents Seattle mills feel they can compete for the oriental trade.

Utah and Idaho produced in 1922 422,000,000 pounds of sugar, worth at present retail prices about $41,-778,000.

Motor-car production for 1924 is expected to break the record of last year. Plants are getting into full swing again. Refinement of models rather than mechanical development is likely to mark the current year.

Carnegie Steel Company, is operating at 85 per cent of capacity and has forty-three of its fifty-nine blast furnaces in operation.

Texas bank deposits are the largest in history. The only distress apparent in the Lone Star State is in those districts dependent upon the live-stock industry.

READING SEGREGATION

[The following analysis of the decree and third modified Reading segregation plan as it affects bondholders was prepared by Arthur L. Brewer, manager of the service department of Banks, Huntley & Co., Los Angeles office. In response to requests for a comprehensive statement of this plan in which a wide interest has been revealed on the Pacific Coast, particularly as it concerns the guaranteed mortgage bond holders, and for advice as to whether these bondholders should exchange their bonds for changed, Mr. Brewer prepares the following analysis. Some requests include corporations carrying Reading 4% among their investments.—Ed.] A further discussion, "Why Bondholders Should Convert Under This Plan," will follow.—Ed.]

It is reported, according to Mr. Brewer's analysis, that, under the third modified plan whereby the Reading Company ceases to be a combination in restraint of trade, approximately one-half the outstanding Reading Company, and the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company general mortgage 4 per cent bonds have been exchanged for 4½s of the new Reading Company, and for 5s of the new Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Corporation.

The segregation was effected as of January 1, this year, in compliance with the Supreme Court decree of April 26, 1920, and along the lines of the third modified plan (for carrying out that decree) confirmed by the United States District Court at Philadelphia on June 25, 1923.

The Reading Company has virtually ceased to be a proprietary company and has become an operating company subject to State and Federal regulation. It has received from former subsidiaries, in the course of the segregation settlement, $27,100,000 net; has merged the property of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company; and has subjected this property to the direct lien of the general mortgage.

A new corporation, the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Corporation, has taken over the Coal Company, and has issued 1,400,000 shares of no-par stock to preferred and common stockholders of the Reading Company, share and share alike, at $4 per share. This sale is carried out through assignable certificates of interest in the stock, exchangeable for the stock when accompanied by an affidavit that the certificate-holder is not an owner of stock in the Reading Company. The effect is that the Reading stock-holder sells his Reading stock that he may be eligible to become a coal stockholder, or sells his assignable certificate to an ultimate somebody so eligible. These certificates of interest are exchangeable prior to July 1, 1926.

COVENANTS MODIFIED

Compliance with the decree necessitated modification of certain covenants and stipulations of the general mortgage under which the 4s were issued. The 4s are a joint and several obligation of the old Reading Company and the old coal company. The plan divides these bonds as to liability—two-thirds to the New Reading Company and one-third to the new coal corporation. The obligations become several; not joint, nor joint-and-several. Default by one company does not constitute default by the other. In case of default, the respective liens "shall be separately foreclosed."

The right to surrender their 4s was formally tendered the holders on January 10, this year, as follows: Two-thirds of the principal in Reading series A 4½s, one-third in coal company 5s.

For the purpose of this exchange, the new Reading Company has executed a mortgage for creation of $63,084,666.66 series A 4½s due January 1, 1997, redeemable as a whole, only, on sixty-days' notice, at 105. Similarly, the new coal corporation has executed a mortgage providing for $31,-542,333.33 bonds at 5 per cent, due January 1, 1973, redeemable as a whole, but not in part except for sinking fund, at 105 on sixty days' notice. These 4½s and 5s, respectively, are issuable only upon surrender of, and in exchange for, general mortgage 4s.

The 4s so surrendered are pledged under the new mortgage, and are stamped to show that they represent the two-thirds and the one-third obligations respectively. Bonds so pledged must be kept alive until the 4s not so pledged are fully discharged and the general mortgage can be satisfied.

Jurisdiction to supplement, modify, execute and enforce the third modified plan and the final decree is retained by the court.

There is a provision in the plan that neither of the two new companies shall be required to issue bonds in denominations of less than $100, but that each company shall issue scrip for fractions of bonds. This scrip is exchangeable for bonds when presented in multiples of $100. Such scrip bears interest at 4½ and 5 per cent respectively, payable upon surrender of the scrip for such exchange.

Partial deductions are allowed with respect to specific debts only. To be allowed as a deduction a debt must be charged off in the year in which its worthlessness was discovered. The taxpayer should attach to his return a statement showing the propriety of any deduction claimed for a debt. Where the surrounding circumstances indicate that a debt is uncollectible and that legal action in all probability would not avail, proof of these facts is sufficient evidence of its worthlessness.

A valid debt proved to be worthless is not always a proper deduction. For example, unpaid amounts representing wages, salaries, rentals or similar items of taxable income are not allowed as deductions unless the amounts claimed as deductions have been included as income in the creditor's return for the year in which the deduction is sought or previous years.

Unpaid loans made to needy relatives or friends with little or no expectation of their repayment are not deductible, but are regarded as gifts.

TIPS FOR TAXPAYERS

Taxpayers who discovered a debt to be worthless in 1923 and have in that year charged the account off their books may claim the amount as a deduction in their income-tax returns for that year. Bad debts may be treated in one of two ways: By a deduction of the amount of the bad debts from gross income; by a deduction from income of an addition to a reserve for bad debts.

Taxpayers who adopted for 1921 either method must continue the use of the same method, unless permission to change is obtained from the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. Permission to adopt the reserve method is restricted to taxpayers having a large number of accounts, where credit is extended over a considerable period, and is not granted for the purpose of handling one specific bad debt.

Bad debts may be deducted in whole or in part. When deducted in part the taxpayer must be able to show with a reasonable degree of certainty the amount uncollect-

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

The Compton oil field was again the center of oil excitement yesterday when it became known that the Shell Company, one of the largest lease holders in that district, had picked up oil sand in its first well—the Reyes No. 1.

This hole, which is several hundred feet south of the Union Oil Company's discovery well—Callender No. 1—hit live oil sand at a depth of 3810 feet. This well, the geologists say, manufactured some field history.

Callender No. 1 picking up the sand at 3780 feet, and Callender No. 3 picking it up at 3816 feet, while Shell's Reyes No. 1 picked it up at 3810 feet, makes it appear that the Callender No. 1 is nearer the dome of the structure than either of the other wells, while the Shell well, off to the south of both of the Union wells, is nearer the dome than the Callender No. 3.

This geological evidence would appear to twist the field around a little and head it a little sharper to the southeast than most of the geologists had been charting it. These indications, some of the "rock hounds" assert, would appear to hint that the General Petroleum Corporation's Gardena No. 1, three-quarters of a mile north of the Callender No. 1, is probably on the northwest-by-north corner of the formation.

Yesterday's strike by the Shell at least gives the several companies which are drilling in that field an opportunity to begin compiling base some dependence in mapping out future development work.

Recementing Gardena

The General Petroleum Corporation yesterday recemented its Gardena No. 1 well in the Compton field. This well went into the sand at 4841 feet and began flowing clean oil, but later showed a little water, and then the cement gang went in yesterday and did a recementing job which it is expected will be successful.

The Union Oil Company, which discovered water in the oil coming from its Callender No. 3 which came in barefooted, is arranging to recement the hole.

San Bernardino Test

The test well being drilled by the Del Rosa Oil Company, one mile from San Bernardino, is now 730 feet deep with the twelve and one-half-inch casing set. It is expected that the oil sand sought will be found at around 1400 feet. This is a wildcat venture that has been approved by good geological advice.

Well Pinched Down

The Transport-Bush No. 1 in the Maricopa Flats field, owned by the Transport Oil Company, which attracted wide attention by flowing 3000 barrels a day for several months following its completion, has been pinched down to about 1000 barrels, according to officials of the company, who report that this measure was taken in an attempt to eliminate emulsion which appeared in the production recently.

The remedy has proved efficient, it is reported, the yield now cutting less than 1 per cent emulsion, whereas for a time it is said to have cut 25 per cent. The flow is being gradually increased, and it is expected to be at least 1500 barrels within a few days. Operators are said to be doubtful whether the well will attain its old rate of 3000 barrels a day.

Inspect San Juan

W. M. Thomas, who has been active in leasing in the oil fields of the Los Angeles Basin, has been commissioned to investigate the San Juan Basin field in northwestern New Mexico, it is reported by Kenneth C. Wallace, who is interested in Mr. Thomas's mission. If conditions are satisfactory, it is probable that the Wallace and Crail interests will enter the New Mexico field, it is said.

Stands Cemented

The No. 3 well of the A. T. Jergins Trust in the Long Beach field is standing cemented at 3261 feet, according to drillers. This well is located on land leased to the Jergins interests by the city of Long Beach and already is the location of several producers.

Is Hard Job

No. 3 well of the Bolsa Chica Syndicate on Fruitvale street, south of Willow avenue in the Long Beach field, is drilling ahead at 4534 after sidetracking for several hundred feet, according to drillers of the California Drilling Company.

Unusual progress is being made in the drilling of the well, it is said. The work is a deepening job, and when the crew took over the well it was said to be full of pipe and other iron which could not be extracted, making it necessary to drill past it. Roy G. Meade is the engineer in charge of the work.

Run Casing

Knight No. 2, which is being drilled in the Signal Hill field by the Marine Drilling Company, has landed the 6¾-inch casing at 3840 feet and is standing cemented preparatory to drilling through into the sand, it is reported.

Drilled Long Time

The completion of the Perrin No. 1 in Long Beach on Thursday, in the Catalina-avenue section south of the Stakemiller leases, marks the end of a drilling operation which occupied two years, according to reports of operators who have watched the progress of the well.

The Petroleum Midway started drilling Perrin No. 1 early in 1922. After going 3500 feet it encountered mechanical trouble and, after a long fishing job, was forced to abandon the hole and start a new well.

About a block south of the Perrin the Pan-American Petroleum Company's Stone No. 1 is drilling ahead in an area at present considered unproven. The Petroleum Midway has two rigs near the Stone, but has not yet started drilling on either of these locations.

Start New Wildcat

A wildcat well to test the oil possibilities of the district around Oceanside is to be started soon,

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

With the exception of Associated and the Union Oil issues, petroleum shares were soft yesterday on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange. Standard Oil of California was especially susceptible to selling pressure from the belief that the company would be affected by cancellation of government leases. Official statements from the company were reported to deny the ownership of any naval reserve land.

Union Oil of California crossed 120 for a new high of 120 1-4, a gain of 1 1-2 points over the previous day. Union Oil Associates advanced to 54 5-8, and closed at 54, a net gain of ½ point over the final price of the preceding session. General Petroleum common was off 1-8 at 42 1-8 and Shell Union dropped 1-4 to 19 1-8. Globe Petroleum sold with its customary activity and slid off 1 1-2 cents to 3 1-2.

Rights to buy the new stock of the Union Oil Company were pushed to $1 and those of Union Oil Associates went to 50 cents.

A better demand for mining stocks was evident in several issues. Yellow Pine sold at 50 cents and Yellow Dog Extension was taken at 15, off 5 cents.

Traditional selling after the disclosure of the good news in the Los Angeles Investment annual report sent the stock down 4 cents to a close of $2.12. Goodyear Tire and Rubber preferred finished at 89 3-4, off 1-4, and Merchants' National Bank went at 202 1-2.

Bonds were relatively quiet. General Petroleum 6s of 1928 moved up 1-4 at 96 and California Petroleum 6 1-2s of 1933 sold at the same price, unchanged.

Following are the closing quotations and sales:

BOND QUOTATIONS

Bonds Press Forward

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Bond prices pressed firmly upward today, with a strong undertone in all parts of the list, and renewed trading activity in French municipal issues, which recorded gains of from 1 to 2 points. Serbian 5's again led the entire market in turnover, but after advancing to a price 16 points above last week's low, yielded a part of their gain.

Pronounced strength of Liberty bonds sent several issues to new high marks, and the rise was accompanied by a widening demand. Heavy buying of the Treasury notes developed, traders explaining that their more distant maturity was an attractive feature and that "switching" operations into this issue were taking place.

The improved outlook abroad for a settlement of the reparations questions and prospects for a resumption of trading relations between France and Germany, together with the rise in exchange rate, helped the French bonds. United Kingdom 5 1-2's of 1929 also were in demand as sterling advanced, and gained a point.

Buying of railroad issues was well distributed and prices generally moved up, the greatest strength being displayed in the obligations of roads such as Seaboard and International Great Northern, in which favorable developments had been reported during the week.

MARKET REVIEW

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Transactions on the stock exchange today merely indicated continuance of recent tendencies; that is to say, the general impulse of prices seemed to be upward, but with considerable uncertainty and with frequent realising of profits on the rise. The result of this combination of influences was that while, on occasions during the day, several industrial shares had scored very substantial advances, prices were left with very irregular changes for the day. There were a good many net declines, some of the shares which had been strongest in the earlier hours ending lower than on Thursday.

Railway shares repeated their recent action of moving only fractionally; most of the oil company shares were distinctly weak. It would be interesting to know—it would have to be mostly guess work—how far this weakness in shares of those properties is one of the many consequences of the political drama at Washington.

The sterling exchange market's action plainly showed the market to be repeating the procedure which has been familiar after every overdone speculative decline since the war. When the ideas of apprehension that rates had been sold down were shown to have been exaggerated or unwarranted by the facts, the "bear speculations" would cautiously buy first, then speculators for the rise would think at last the merchants who had overstayed their markets in the postponement of necessary remittances would rush in to buy exchange on the rise, with such results

DECISION NOT VERY DECISIVE

Branch Bank Controversy by No Means Settled

California "Stands Pat" as Congress Gets Problem

Firmness in Stock Market; Statements Optimistic

BY ARTHUR D. WELTON
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
[Copyright, 1924, Public Ledger.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—The decision of the United States Supreme Court that national banks may not establish branches when the same right is denied State banks, is only a partial settlement of the so-called branch-bank controversy. The general situation is still incongruous. There are States where the State banks may have branches within the State, California, for instance. There are many others where they may have branches in the cities where they operate, New York, Michigan and Ohio, for instance. There are national banks with branches within and without their own cities and States. There are chains or chains of commonly owned or controlled banks. And, most of all, there is a tendency and trend toward branches, at least with a single city.

The woes that will betide the increase in branch banking may be noted forth, but there is strength in branch banking which becomes the more alluring in face of the old fact that more than 600 banks have closed their doors in the Northwest during the last seven months. It is regarded as inevitable that there will be more failures. The small banks, however well they may be conducted, are particularly vulnerable.

Branch banking is not necessarily a remedy for such a condition, but it wins new adherents under demonstration of the weaknesses of the conventional "free and independent" banking system. In no event the Supreme Court decision has merely settled the question of what the law is.

The problem has now been sent on to Congress where the trend of legislation authorizing branches of national banks in cities will come up again and again to no indefinite time. An economic law cannot be stayed by refusal of an authorizing law.

The proof of this may be found in the subterfuge resorted to and the success in avoiding the legal conditions. Law or no law the trend is there. If the opponents of branch banking, serious in basis for opposition on regard for the public welfare and not seemingly hostile to invasion of their particular spheres of business, only wish to do something effective to halt the movement toward branch banking, they will beset the law for better banking laws and better supervision. They will oppose the appointment of obscure politicians as heads of State banking departments, demand the repeal of guaranty or deposit laws, start a correspondence course in bank liquidity and enter on a vigorous campaign against the loaning of money by banks on real estate mortgage security. There is much that should be done.

The Supreme Court decision has done nothing more than interpret the law and bring it into harmony with the custom that was supposed to be fixed until the lawyers began to pry in to find a way out.

COTTON SHOWS STRENGTH

Within fluctuations that are normal and with a responsiveness to conditions affecting particular issues, the stock market has registered a definite position as a business barometer. It is moving with business and the expectations of business. No one can deny the upward movement in the steels has been justified by the condition in the industry. Even the leading copper shares are showing a strength that might be out of accord with anything but prospects. Copper production has been for some time in excess of demand. But it is also true that domestic consumption has been in good volume and foreign consumption, considering conditions, is fairly satisfactory. The stock market says the situation is worthy of confidence which means a belief in a larger consumption and prices for the metal that will, at least, be no lower.

Little iron ore is moving from the Lake superior districts and shipments will be suspended until navigation opens in May. Fall shipments were very large and stocks of ore at the docks are unusually low. The prospects are for a very active season this year.

ANNUAL REPORTS

The statements of local concerns continue to show that 1923 was a good year. The Hart, Schaffner and Marx directors have decided to retire the outstanding $1,423,000 of preferred stock at $120 a share and interest. The retirement will be effected March 31 after which the only capital obligation of the company will be the $15,000,000 of common stock.

Deere and Company, manufacturers of farm machinery, passed from a deficit of $1,019,000 in 1922 to an income of $3,084,000 in 1923, equivalent to $5.11 a share on their 7 per cent preferred.

The Wrigley, Jr., Company shows an operating profit of $16,572,000. The net profit, after Federal taxes, exceeded $7,000,000. The company has capital stock of $15,000,000 and surplus over $11,000,000. The new section of the Wrigley Building is nearing completion and is already $6 per sq. reported. This President Wrigley reports, will make a considerable addition to the company's income.

METAL MARKETS

Daily Review
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CLEVELAND (O.), Feb. 1.—Daily Metal Trade says: Tin is more active at higher prices. Large sales are reported of pig iron and following the recent advance in prices. Buying of tin plate is very heavy for ten days to come. Sellers are firmer. Little is doing in copper where spot works have withdrawn from the market and quotations are nominal. Buying of building construction continues very satisfactory. Quotations of steel makers are firmer in view of heavy specification requirements. Buying is light in New York and Chicago. Lead is steady at 4.85@4.90 and is in good demand in St. Louis. Prices to-day and unchanged.

GIRL SAVED FROM DEATH IN FLAMES

Passer-by Rescues Miss Who is Ill as Blaze Leaps Through Doors

DENVER, Feb. 1.—Myrtle Hall, 18 years of age, 321 South Broadway, was saved from a horrible death, yesterday, by the heroism of Walter Ferguson, 45 West Virginia street.

The girl was sick in bed in her room upstairs when the explosion of an oil stove set fire to Samuel A. Stern's hardware store, which is located under her room. She was overcome by smoke.

Ferguson, who was passing the store when the explosion occurred, fought his way up the smoke-filled stairway, found the girl unconscious in bed with the flames licking up through the floor, and carried her out of the burning building to a house across the street, where she was revived.

Ferguson told Officers Luke Parslow and Harry Steiger that as soon as he discovered the fire he turned in the alarm and then went to the upstairs rooms to see if there was anyone there. The girl said she had been asleep and she knew nothing of the fire until she was revived after her rescue by Ferguson.

Stern was out of the store at the time. The officers said a tank which supplied the oil stove in the store evidently had leaked. The oil became ignited from the stove and both stove and tank exploded, setting fire to the interior of the store. Firemen quickly extinguished the flames.

Damage to the store was estimated at more than $1000.

The Man In Lower Ten

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

COPYRIGHT 1924

BY McCLURE NEWSPAPER SYNDICATE

The story thus far:

Laurence Blakely, lawyer, in partnership with Richard McKnight, goes to Pittsburg with the forged notes in the Bronson case to show to John Gilmore, millionaire. He sees Gilmore, and there becomes interested in the photograph of his granddaughter, Alison West, whose rapscallion father was a friend of Bronson, the same Miss West in whom McKnight is interested at Pittsburg is a fellow-passenger at luncheon; he notices a man and woman together, discussing a journey which the woman wishes to take alone. He is drinking heavily. Later at the station the woman asks him to get her a lower berth while he is standing in line to get his own. He gives her lower 7, Mr. Hitchkiss, lower 10. The train starts out late, delaying the second section behind them. Blakely goes to the smoker and, when he goes to his berth, he finds it occupied by a man in a drunken sleep. The porter puts him in No. 9. He can't sleep and goes to the washroom for air, and runs into a woman with bronze braids. She starts as she sees him. He finds a torn telegram—"over ten, car sev—" "Lower ten, car seven" is supposed to be his berth. He wakes in the morning to find his bag and clothes taken and others in their place. But he has blundered into berth No. 7 in the night when he came back from the vestibule. However, 9, his supposed berth, is empty. The man who occupied it was named Sullivan, and the man in lower 10 is found murdered. A charming young girl is miss, and her companion, Miss Elizabeth Harrington. The murdered man is the drunken man of the restaurant. His name is Simon Harrington. Blakeley is cross-examined by the coroner, and the evidence seems very much against him. The pillow in his berth is bloodstained. A little man who is doing some amateur detective work pulls a blood-stained bill of gold chain out of the sealskin bag left by the man who stole Blakeley's clothes. Things look black for Blakeley when the train is wrecked in the second section. Blakeley's arm is badly injured. The girl in blue helps him, away from the burning wreck. She tells him she is Alison West. She seems troubled. They pass the tall, dark woman who had occupied lower 10 by the roadside. Surprising to the wreck, sends them to her home for breakfast. Alison goes upstairs to wash her hands and afterward seems unconcerned. Blakeley returns home, leaving the girl without planning to meet again. Mrs. Klopton resents flickering lights in the empty house next door. Simon Harrington was purchasing agent for John Gilmore's Steel Company. His trouble in Allison's bag which he has unwittingly carried with him a chain from which is missing a section just like the blood-stained bit found on the train. The doctor tells of assisting at an operation on another wreck victim—a Mr. Sullivan. A man named Hotchkiss who had played amateur detective—in the train comes to call on Blakeley. Hotchkiss says the man who reserved lower 7 came from Gleason, where Allison West came from.

I shook hands without enthusiasm. Here was the one survivor of the wrecked car who could do me any amount of harm. There was no hope that he had forgotten any of the incriminating details. In fact he held in his hand the very notebook which contained them.

His manner was restrained, but it was evident he was highly excited. I introduced him to Mc-Knight, who has the imagination I lack, and who placed him at once, mentally.

"I only learned yesterday that you had been—er—saved," he said rapidly. "Terrible accident—unspeakable. Dream about it all night and think about it all day. Broken arm?"

"No. He just wears the splint to be different from other people," McKnight drawled lazily. I glared at him: there was nothing to be gained by antagonizing the little man.

"Yes, a fractured humerus, which isn't as funny as it sounds."

"Humerus—humorous! Pretty good," he cackled. "I may pay you keep up your spirits pretty well, considering everything."

"You seem to have escaped injury," I parried. He was fumbling for something in his pocket.

"Yes, I escaped," he replied abstractedly. "Remarkable thing, too. I haven't a doubt I would have broken my neck, but I landed on—you'll never guess what! I landed head first on the very pillow which was under inspection at the time of the wreck. You remember, don't you? Where did you put that package?"

He found it finally and opened it on a table, displaying with some theatricalism a rectangular piece of muslin and a similar patch of striped ticking.

"You recognize it?" he said. "The stains, you see, and the hole made by the dirk. I tried to bring away the entire pillow, but they thought I was stealing it, and made me give it up."

Richey touched the pieces gingerly. "By George," he said, "and you carry that around in your pocket! What if you should mistake it for your handkerchief."

But Mr. Hotchkiss was not listening. He stood bent somewhat forward, leaning over the table, and fixed me with his ferret-like eyes.

"Have you seen the evening papers, Mr. Blakely?" he inquired.

I glanced to where they lay unopened, and shook my head.

"Then I have a disagreeable task," he said with evident relish. "Of course, you had considered the matter of the man Harrington's death closed, after the wreck. I did myself. As far as I was concerned, I meant to let it remain so. There were no other survivors, at least none that I knew of, and in spite of circumstances, there were a number of points in your favor."

"I thank you," I put in with a sarcasm that was lost on him.

"I verified your identity, for instance, as soon as I recovered from the shock. Also—I found on inquiring of your tailor that you invariably wore dark clothing."

McKnight came forward threateningly. "Who are you, anyhow?" he demanded. "And how is this any business of yours?" Mr. Hotchkiss was entirely unruffled.

"I have a minor position here," he said, reaching for a visiting card. "I am a very small patch on the seat of government, sir."

McKnight muttered something about certain offensive designs against the said patch and retired grumbling to the window. Our visitor was opening the paper with a tremendous expenditure of energy.

"Here it is. Listen." He read rapidly aloud:

"The Pittsburg police are looking up the survivors of the ill-fated Washington Flier. It has transpired that Simon Harrington, the Wood street merchant of that city, was not killed in the wreck, but was murdered in his berth the night preceding the accident. Shortly before the collision, John Flanders, the conductor of the Flier, sent this telegram to the chief of police:

"Body of Simon Harrington found in his berth, lower ten, Ontario, at six-thirty this morning. John Flanders, Conductor.'

"It is hoped that the survivors of the wrecked car Ontario will be found, to tell what they know of the discovery of the crime.

"Mr. John Gilmore, head of the steel company for which Mr. Harrington was purchasing agent, has signified his intention of sifting the matter to the bottom."

"So you see," Hotchkiss concluded, "there's trouble brewing. You and I are the only survivors of that unfortunate car."

I did not contradict him, but I knew of two others, at least: Allison West, and the woman we had left beside the road that morning, babbling incoherently, her black hair tumbling over her white face.

"Unless we can find the man who occupied lower seven," I suggested.

"I have already tried and failed. To find him would not clear you, of course, unless we could establish some connection between him and the murdered man. It is the only thing I see, however. I have learned this much," Hotchkiss concluded: "Lower seven was reserved from Cresson."

Cresson! Where Allison West and Mrs. Curtis had taken the train! McKnight came forward and suddenly held out his hand. "Mr Hotchkiss," he said, "I—I'm sorry if I have been offensive. I thought when you come in, that, like the Irishman and the government, you were 'forninst' us. If you will put those cheerful relics out of sight somewhere, I should be glad to have you dine with me at the Incubator." (His name for his bachelor apartment.) "Compared with Johnson, you are the great original protoplasm."

The strength of this was lost on Hotchkiss, but the invitation was clear. They went out together, and from my window, I watched them get into McKnight's car. It was raining, and at the corner the Cannonball skidded. Across the street my detective, Johnson, looked after them with his crooked smile. As he turned up his collar he saw me, and lifted his hat.

I left the window and sat down in the growing dusk. So the occupant of lower seven had got on the car at Cresson, probably with Alison West and her companion. There was some one she cared about enough to shield. I went irritably to the door and summoned Mrs. Klopton.

"You may throw out those roses," I said, without looking at her. "They are quite dead."

"They have been quite dead for three days," she retorted spitefully. "Euphemia said you threatened to dismiss her if she touched them."

By Sunday evening, a week after the wreck, my forced inaction had goaded me to frenzy. The very sight of Johnson across the street or lurking, always within sight of the house, kept me constantly exasperated. It was on that day that things began to come to a focus, a burning-glass of events that seemed to center on me.

I dined alone that evening in no cheerful frame of mind. There had been a polo game the day before and I had lent a pony, which is always a bad thing to do. And she had wrenched her shoulder, besides helping to lose the game. There was no one in town; the temperature was ninety and climbing, and my left hand persistently cramped under its bandage.

Mrs. Klopton herself saw me served, my bread buttered and cut in tidbits, my meat ready for my fork. She hovered around me maternally, obviously trying to cheer me.

"The paper says still warmer," she ventured. "The thermometer is ninety-two now."

"And this coffee is two hundred and fifty," I said, putting down my cup. "Where is Euphemia? I haven't seen her around, or heard a dish smash all day."

"Euphemia is in bed," Mrs. Klopton said gravely. "Is your meat cut small enough, Mr. Lawrence?" Mrs. Klopton can throw more mystery into an ordinary sentence than anyone I know. She can say, "Are your sheets damp, sir?" And I can tell from her tone that the house across the street has been robbed, or that my left-hand neighbor has appendicitis. So now I looked up and asked the question she was waiting for.

"What's the matter with Euphemia?" I inquired idly.

"Frightened into her bed." Mrs. Klopton said in a stage whisper. "She's had three hot water bottles and she hasn't done a thing all day but moan."

"She oughtn't to take hot water bottles," I said in my severest tone. "One would make me moan. You need not wait, I'll ring if I need anything."

Mrs. Klopton sailed to the door, where she stopped and wheeled indignantly. "I only hope you won't laugh on the wrong side of your face some morning, Mr. Lawrence," she declared, with Christian fortitude. "But I warn you, I am going to have the police watch that house next door."

Reckless Driver of Screen Agent of Death on Ride

DETROIT, Feb. 1.—Three months ago Charles Beecher, manager of the Beecher Film Company, 159 Elizabeth street east, played the part of a reckless driver for a motion-picture made under the direction of the police deparment entitled, "The Spirit of Carlessness." He drove his car contrary to all rules of sense and traffic and was the feature of the film, which was exhibited in Detroit theaters.

Today Charles Beecher lies near death in the Receiving Hospital with a fractured skull. Mrs. Gladys Abernathy, 24 years of age, 120 Montcalm street west, is dead, killed by Beecher's car, which he drove as recklessly, the police say, in real life as he did when he was playing a part before a camera. The lesson of safety which he taught so graphically to thousands of Detroit theater-goers he had not learned himself.

According to the police, Beecher was driving on the wrong side of Fort street when he ran into a car driven by Harold Schroeder, 3262 Rathbone avenue, and then hit a street car. Mrs. Abernathy, riding with Beecher, was thrown out and died shortly after in the Receiving Hospital. Schroeder and his passengers were uninjured.

SAN FERNANDO GETS HOSPITAL

Government Buys Site on Craig Property

Price of $100,000 Agreed to on 616 Acres

Tuberculous War Veterans Will be Housed

Following negotiations that have extended over a period of months, the erection near San Fernando of a tuberculosis hospital for disabled war veterans was assured Saturday.

A telegram from Director-General Hines of the United States Veterans' Bureau at Washington to Volney Craig, prominent San Fernando rancher, stated that Mr. Craig's offer of a site for the proposed hospital has been accepted. The price the government will pay for the land, a tract of 616 acres, is $100,000.

The director-general's wire was sent by Mr. Craig shortly after his arrival in Los Angeles yesterday from Washington where he had gone to confere with Mr. Hines on the proposed purchase. It was said that the transfer of the land to the government would take place just as soon as the Attorney-General had approved title.

In view of the fact that the proposed purchase by the government was the subject of some controversy, Mr. Craig declared that his experience in Washington there be carried on the negotiations personally was a source of gratification to him and a tribute to the government officials with whom he dealt.

"I simply went to Washington and put my cards on the table face up," said Mr. Craig. "Nobody said me anything about my politics or political connections. As a matter of fact, I didn't even consult the California delegation on it. I just went there as a plain citizen and told them what I had in the wire telling me the deal was closed this morning. It's a fine thing when the government deals with its citizens in a businesslike manner such as was done in this case."

The hospital to be put up will contain 500 beds and will be built along the lines of the government hospital at Livermore, it is believed. Contruction work is expected to begin in the very near future.

Grand Larceny Is Charged to Club Employee

Walter Wiesenborn, an employee of the Hillcrest Country Club, was charged with grand larceny in four counts yesterday in a complaint issued by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Vobayda. It is charged that Wiesenborn took four fur coats valued at $1000 each belonging to Mrs. Sol Lesser, wife of the film producer and theater man; Mrs. J. E. Horsch, Mrs. Grace Hecht and Mrs. Irving Hellman, wife of the latter, from the cloakroom of the club.

The suspect was arrested yesterday. The asserted thefts occurred on the night of January 28, last, the complaint stated.

FIRPO FIGHT FILM SEIZED

Federal Authorities Stop Picture of Bout With Dempsey; Grand Jury Action Reported

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

POMONA, Feb. 1.—Work has started on a new highway from Pomona to Los Angeles, a highway that eventually will extend from West Holt avenue through San Jose Hills to Covina, thence to Elmonte and into Los Angeles over what is known as the old Garvey Road. This road when completed will shorten the distance between the two cities by over four miles, the distance now being thirty-three miles by way of the present Valley Boulevard.

A crew of Los Angeles county workmen is now at work in San Jose Hills west of Pomona blasting and grading for the road bed, according to County Supervisor Cogswell's office. The road will connect to the end of West Holt avenue and will greatly relieve traffic conditions on Second street, Pomona's main business street, which now absorbs all interurban traffic.

Misunderstood Traffic Signal Causes Mishap

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

WHITTIER, Feb. 1.—Miss Blythe Monroe, 23 years of age, was probably fatally injured this afternoon when an automobile she was driving collided with an oil truck on the Los Angeles-Whittier Boulevard at Guirado Road. She was taken unconscious to the Murphy Hospital, where it was reported her recovery is doubtful. The driver of the oil truck is said to be employed by the O'Donnell Refining Company. His name was not learned.

Witnesses to the accident said Miss Monroe evidently misunderstood the signal of the truck driver who was attempting to turn into the main highway.

Miss Monroe, who is a teacher in the Whittier High School, was on her way to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis M. Monroe, who live in Portero Heights near Whittier.

ANGELENO WINS FRANKLIN HONOR

Pierson W. Banning

HALF-QUOTA FOR GERMAN AID DONATED

Campaign to Continue Two Weeks With $150,000 Given So Far by City

Los Angeles has already actually subscribed more than $150,000 to the fund to be used by a joint committee of English and American Quakers for the relief of starving children in Germany. The campaign still continues and, according to the reports made to the Los Angeles Committee for German Relief at a luncheon at the Alexandria yesterday, prospects are excellent that the city's quota of $300,000 will be ultimately subscribed.

Captains in charge of the different teams reported that they are receiving from many quarters gratifying support. The fullest co-operation has come from the religious associations, without respect to race or creed. The First Baptist Church of Los Angeles leads in the amount contributed by religious denominations, but they are not far in advance.

"The only talk we have to make," said the captain of one of the successful teams, "is to convince those on whom we call that actual starvation exists. We have but to repeat President Wilson's words, that America was not making war on the German people, and the argument of the right or wrong of rendering this aid ceases."

Solicitation will continue during the next two weeks. Urgent telegrams have been received from the hadquarters of the Quakers in the German industrial districts that the relief be sent quickly. Some estimate the loss of life through underfeeding at 1000 a day among the children alone.

The headquarters of the American Relief Committee for German Children are at 228 San Fernando Building. Pastors of most of the Los Angeles churches have reported that a special collection for the Quaker relief fund will be taken up at the Sunday-morning services.

BANNING DIDN'T EXPECT AWARD

Franklin Prize for Book is Complete Surprise

Angeleno Gets 2500 Pounds for His Work

Has Honor of Being First to Get Fund

To receive the first award ever made from the Benjamin Franklin fund is the honor conferred on Pierson W. Banning of Los Angeles. This prize was for £2500, and comes to Mr. Banning through the publication of his book, "Mental and Spiritual Healing," reviewed by The Times August 26, 1923.

"I never heard of the Benjamin Franklin fund until long after my book was off the press," said Mr. Banning, "and when Dr. Franklin C. Wells, medical director of the Equitable Life Insurance Company of New York, commended it for consideration, it was without my knowledge. The award came to me as a surprise, from which I have nat entirely recovered.

SCIENTIFIC WORK

"I have been a student of this subject for thirty years, and the book presents the results of my research in a purely scientific manner. It has nothing to do with dogma or creed.

"As I understand it, there are three classifications, one of them having to do with a scientific analysis of mind healing, under which 'Mental and Spiritual Healing' would naturally fall, although it had nothing to do with mesmerism, about which the world was concerned during Franklin's lifetime, and in which he doubtless was interested.

"As I understand it, this £2500 is in the nature of a scholarship, but I am not familiar with the details.

"The award was made just around Thanksgiving, but I was requested not to make the matter public until further advised, and that notification has just been received."

ESTABLISHED IN 1759

The Benjamin Franklin Fund was established in 1759, and was to be held in trust for 150 years.

The first awards were made in 1923, the highest going to Mr. Banning, the second to Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz for a paper on "The Nervous System as a Conductor of Electricity," and the third to Dr. Fusakichi Omori of Tokio for his treatise, "The Rotary Knife in Surgery." The award to Dr. Steinmetz, now dead, was £1000, and to Dr. Omori £500. Dr. Steinmetz died October 26, 1923.

The fund was established by Benjamin Franklin to reward authors of manuscripts on the part played by the nervous system in the preservation and economy of health.

PARLOR-CAR SERVICE OVER SHORE LINE

Parlor-car service between Los Angeles and Del Monte will be given on the Shore Line Limited of the Southern Pacific, beginning the 16th inst., it was announced by the company yesterday. The service will be started because of the increasing daylight travel to Del Monte. This increased travel caused the daylight train between Los Angeles and San Francisco, which makes no stops, to be kept on all year though it was originally intended only for summer.

HUNT FOR DUNLAP IN CULVER CITY HILLS

Deputy Sheriffs Dewar and Catlin and Detective Slater of Culver City searched the hills near Culver City yesterday, armed with shotguns, in search of Harry J. Dunlap, accused of murder and other banditry. They did not find him.

CRIME BODY TO FIGHT FOES

Chairman of Commission Tells Rotarians of Move Against It; Cites Rapid Crime Growth

Without mentioning the names of men and organizations which are brazenly fighting the Los Angeles Crime Commission, Maj. Walter K. Tuller, chairman of the Crime Commission, in an address before the Rotary Club at the Biltmore yesterday, said that the commission is prepared to combat every attempt on the part of those "who sympathize with and profit from individual crooks and organized criminals."

"The Crime Commission has been falsely charged with dabbling in politics," said Maj. Tuller. "The commission is not in politics, but the members of that body are trying to see to it that politics does not interfere with the duties of officers sworn to protect the welfare of this community. Politics has been eliminated from the police department and the head of that department is probably the most efficient Chief of Police in the United States today.

A THANKLESS TASK

"The Crime Commission was organized because conditions were growing so intolerable here that something had to be done. Those who became members of the commission knew well enough that theirs would be a thankless task, but they undertook the work in the interest of the safety of you and me and of our wives and children.

"The inevitable has come to pass and a great roar is going up from thugs and crooks and those who sympathize with and profit from crime," said Maj. Tuller. "Nevertheless, the decent citizens of Los Angeles are determined that organized crime shall not rule in this community which is so blessed by God and nature in so many ways. Do not be deceived into believing that crime today is a sporadic thing, for crime is one of the best-organized businesses in America.

"It is time for the law-abiding element of American society to awake from its lethargy. Here in Los Angeles there is need for such an awakening. Our police department is better equipped than ever before, but more men and more equipment are needed.

"If you doubt my statement as to the condition in America today consider for a moment the statistics that show there is sixty times as much crime in America as there is in Great Britain or Canada. In Los Angeles, for instance—and it is just as well that we bring the matter home to ourselves—there were 2000 burglaries in 1919, while last year there were 10,000, five times as many as in Canada during the same period. In 1919 this city had 326 robberies, while last year the number of robberies totaled 1244.

"Between 1919 and 1923 our population increased about 40 per cent, while our robberies increased approximately 400 per cent. Let the population and crimes increase at the same ratio during the next four years and the conditions will be so intolerable that not only will no decent man or woman come here, but the law-abiding citizens who are here now will have sought a safer retreat."

It was announced that the speaker at next week's luncheon will be Gypsy Pat Smith, noted Romany evangelist.

FACING COURT OVER ACCIDENT

Automobile Injures Aged Woman

Anna B. Mowrey

WHETHER Anna B. Mowrey was just plain hysterical or sadly inebriated at the time her automobile struck and injured Mrs. Ella Myott, 64 years of age, will be decided more or less conclusively today in Justice Hanby's court.

At that time Police Surgeon Saverien will be called to testify regarding the beautiful young woman's condition. As Dr. Saverien has had innumerable experiences with both hysterical and intoxicated persons his testimony will be regarded as virtually conclusive.

At yesterday's hearing, however, there was some difference of opinion regarding her condition at the time of the accident. Patrolmen Phillips and Appel, who took her into custody, said she was extremely nervous and hysterical after the accident. She gave evidence of having imbibed too freely of moonshine, they said.

Attorneys for the girl, however, pointed out that her nervousness might well be attributed to the accident itself. They questioned the officers regarding this and the latter merely answered they did not know. So Justice Hanby continued the case in order to get Dr. Saverien's opinion today. Dr. Saverien attended the girl when she was brought to the Receiving Hospital.

CRUSHES LIFE OUT OF CHILD

Woman Driver of Auto Horrified by Belief Boy Victim is Own Son

Horror-stricken by the belief that she had run down her own child, Mrs. Alice Birkett of 648 East Fifty-eight street, Maywood, rushed the small victim to a doctor's office in Maywood late yesterday. The child was dead before she reached the doctor; its skull was fractured and crushed terribly.

It was found that the small victim was Roy Pickenoff, 5 years of age, living at 520 Vine street, Maywood. Mrs. Birkett, although she discovered the child was not one of her three little tots who were accustomed to play in rompers in that neighborhood, became hysterical and was reported in a serious condition.

When Mrs. Birkett had recovered sufficiently she told Deputy Sheriffs Stensland and Weir that she was driving slowly along Slauson avenue when the child stepped from behind a parked automobile. Seeing the victim crushed under the wheel, she said she noticed it wore rompers exactly like her own children. She told officers she never knew it was not her own child until she got to the doctor's office.

Deputies Stensland and Weir, after investigation, declared that the accident was unavoidable.

VOLLMER TO END SPECIAL POLICE HERE

Chief to Call in Badges as Commissions Expire; Night Guards Excepted

No more special police will be appointed in Los Angeles, and as fast as commissions now in force expire ,they will be canceled and badges called in, Chief Vollmer announced yesterday in an official police bulletin. The Chief declared it was necessary to confine police authority to the regular force, which was carefully selected and disciplined. The department, he said, cannot assume responsibility for the actions of persons not under its direct control.

"There should be one standard of police authority and one style of police badge," the announcement said, "and both are to be exclusively confined to members of the regular police force."

Special police authority, he added, is not compatible with public interest and has caused the police force to be distrusted and criticized because of abuses by substitute bodies."

There is no objection, the Chief said, to nightwatchmen and guards wearing badges giving the name of their employers but such badges must be readily distinguishable from police badges.

FOLLETTE JURY LOCKED UP

No Verdict Reached After Five Hours Deliberation; Three Women and Nine Men Try Again Today

After having been on trial four weeks, the case of Channing Follette, former presiding justice of Los Angeles township, charged by indictment with perjury, went to a jury of three women and nine men yesterday at 5 p.m. in the court of Superior Judge Keetch.

The jury had failed to reach a verdict at 10:20 o'clock last night and was ordered by the court to be locked up for the night to resume its deliberations at 9:30 a.m. today. No indication of the standing of the jury was given when Judge Keetch, asking the foreman whether he thought a verdict was possible last night, received a negative answer.

JURY INSTRUCTED

Final instructions to the jury by Judge Keetch took about one hour, following the closing arguments of former Dep. Dist.-Atty. Clark, special prosecutor, and Paul Schenck, counsel for the defendant.

Prosecutor Clark in the closing minutes of his six hours of argument answered the charge of Attorney Schenck that prosecution of Follette was occasioned by hostility on the part of the District Attorney's office. Picturing the former justice as a criminal of the worst type by reason of his asserted activities in the so-called "straw bond" scandal last spring, Mr. Clark told the jury it would be dangerous if the defendant went free.

EMPHASIZES SLIP

Special emphasis was laid by Mr. Clark on the contention of the State that Follette signed a slip for "George Allen or Ruth Allen" which was declared to have been left within an envelope at a check stand of a local drug store. In the envelope it was charged $700 had been placed for the asserted purpose of bribing the District Attorney's office not to press the case against C. Y. Lindquist, asserted head of a bootlegging ring, now

LINE MAY MAKE TERMINAL HERE

Barry and Struthers Would Leave Bay City

Docking Facilities Said to be Drawback

Harbor Board Making Effort to Arrange Deal

The question of the establishment of the terminus of the Struthers & Barry steamship line at Los Angeles Harbor is now up to the harbor board, it was stated by F. M. Barry, junior partner of the San Francisco shipping firm last night.

Mr. Barry, accompanied by Frank W. Relyea, district director at the Bay City of the United States Shipping Board, and Capt. P. R. Bookwalter of Washington, D. C., representing Shipping Board headquarters, visited the local port yesterday to look over the ground, with a view to transferring the principal offices of his company from San Francisco, where they are now located, to Los Angeles.

DOCKS ONLY OBSTACLE

"We found that the only obstacle in the way is a lack of docking space," said Mr. Barry. "Conditions at the harbor here are crowded and for this reason the establishment of terminal facilities for our line will entail some difficulty. Your harbor board now has the matter under consideration and our company will be advised of its decision some time next week."

C. J. Colden, member of the Board of Harbor Commissioners, declared last night that despite the crowded condition of the harbor, everything would be done in an effort to accommodate the Struthers & Barry line.

"As I recall it, the application of the company for space is before the board now and we expect to make a decision on the matter probably next Tuesday," said Mr. Colden. "The matter was referred to Capt. Sandberg, traffic manager of the port, for investigation and a report. Our policy is, of course, to try to bring as much business to the port as is possible, and if there is any way to serve these people we will do it. Much will depend, naturally, on Capt. Sandberg's report."

OPERATE TO ORIENT

The Struthers & Barry line, vessels of which ply between the Pacific Coast and the Orient, is operating Shipping Board boats exclusively. The shipping man stated that his firm had been authorized by the Washington office of the board to chance its terminus if the proper arrangements can be made.

The establishment of the operating offices of the company here will increase the business of the local port in an amount exceeding $1,000,000, according to the harbor authorities.

"We are now operating fourteen boats, nine freighters and five tankers," said Mr. Barry. "If Los Angeles becomes the terminus it will mean that the drydocking and repairing of these ships will all be done here. They will also purchase most of their supplies here and the crews will be signed on at the local port, which means that most of the men will make their homes in Los Angeles or Wilmington."

MEANS TIME SAVING

The change in terminals, which will probably become effective within sixty days if dockage facilities can be provided, has been undertaken by the shipping firm to save the time that is wasted by requiring the vessels to return to San Francisco to get ready for a new voyage after unloading at Los Angeles. If the change is made the ships from the Orient will touch first at the northern port and will then come to Los Angeles, and sail for the Far East directly from here.

Mr. Barry stated that the busi-

"Thank You," Says Bandit Sheik as Court Orders Noose in Chapman Murder

"Thank you." The thinly-drawn lips of John Geregac, bandit sheik and convicted arch murderer of Charles A. Chapman, young insurance broker, emitted those two terse words as Judge Avery completed pronouncing the sentence of death on the condemned youth.

Geregac was the third and last of Chapman's slayers to hear the extreme penalty imposed yesterday by Judge Avery. Jack Ferdinand and John Sears, who had taken the stand before him, also heard the sentence as calmly as though the court were inviting them out to lunch.

It was a dramatic moment in the courtroom when Sears was told that he must pay with his life for having taken the life of a fellow-man.

GIRL NEAR COLLAPSE

Audrey Sherman, pretty 20-year-old sweetheart of the youth, who was in attendance at his trial, and whom fate ordained should give part of the testimony that resulted in the trio being sentenced to death, surrendered to her grief and was led from the room on the verge of collapse.

Marcia Chapman, also 20 and pretty, widow of the slain man, sat in the front row of seats and calmly heard the State exact its toll from each of the three men who had killed her husband. She seemed bewildered by the proceedings, and frequently pressed her slender white hands to her forehead as though to summon her straying wits.

Sentencing of the trio came after Judge Avery had denied motions for a new trial interposed by counsel for the convicted men.

Deputy Public Defender Fulcher, attorney for Ferdinand, asked a retrial of the case on the ground that the court had erred in admitting certain testimony at the trial. He was opposed by Chief Trial Deputy District-Attorney Fitts and Dep. Dist.-Atty. Hill, who cited numerous precedents in California courts tending to show that Judge Avery had stayed within the legal limits in his rulings on the evidence.

NOTE IS ISSUE

Nathan Goldberg, counsel for Sears and Geregac, based his motion for a new trial on similar grounds and the contention that the jury and bailiffs entrusted with the jury had acted in misconduct in permitting a note to be taken into the jury-room and in a conversation asserted to have taken place between a member of the jury and one of the bailiffs at breakfast last Monday morning.

Goldberg, who submitted his motion without argument, offered several affidavits in support of his points, which were replied to with counter affidavits filed by Mr. Fitts.

One of Goldberg's affidavits set forth that a letter written by the husband of one of the women jurors in the case had been taken into the jury-room without first having been submitted to defense counsel for approval. The court held, however, after reading the note, which concerned the family affairs of the juror, that there was no affirmative showing made that it had in any way influenced the verdict.

The affidavits filed by Mr. Fitts

MURDER CHARGED TO DR. DAYTON PURNEY

Dr. Dayton Purney was accused of murder in a complaint issued yesterday by Dep. Dist.-Atty Vobayda. It is charged that he performed an illegal operation on Edythe Cherryer of 1705 West Twentieth street on January 23, last, and that she died from the effects of the asserted operation three days later.

Airplane Aids Hunt; Girl's Recovery Seen

Out of a score or more suspects questioned by police and deputy sheriffs yesterday in the hunt for the assailant of Beatrice Ward, 10 years of age, of Los Angeles Harbor, two negroes, whom the description was declared to have suited, were held last night by the police here and at Long Beach.

The suspect in the City Jail is James Rooak, 32 years of age, of 947 South Central avenue. He was arrested by deputy sheriffs on the railroad tracks between Puente and Whittier. He denied the attack, but is declared to partly answer the description of the wanted man. Rooak when arrested told officers he was on his way to Salt Lake City to look for work, but officers said they found $41 on his person. He was arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Keating, Patton and White.

He will be subjected to a grilling today by Detective Lieutenant Rico and others working on the case.

AIRPLANE AIDS

Under arrest at Long Beach is Sam Haynes, negro, 19 years of age, of 1001 East Twelfth street, Long Beach.

A chase in which the Long Beach police and citizens were aided by an airplane ended in Haynes's capture in the Willows, a brush-covered section of the beach city. Haynes has been identified positively, the police declare, by Alice Black, 10 years of age, of 216 West Nineteenth street, Long Beach, and another child of color as the negro who stopped the car on their way home from school and attempted to catch hold of one of them. The children escaped by running.

CHILD IMPROVED

The Ward child, after hovering between life and death all night, was reported yesterday as being somewhat improved and to have a possible chance of recovery. She is at Seaside Hospital, Long Beach. Haynes does not answer, in all respects, the description given by Beatrice Ward of her assailant.

Haynes admitted, according to Capt. Robberson of the Long Beach police, he had stopped Alice Black and the other little girl, saying he meant no harm, but just wanted to talk to them. He denied any connection with the attacks on three girls at Los Angeles Harbor Thursday and the robbery of two women in Long Beach Thursday night, also committed by a negro. The

SLAYS WOMAN AND SELF

Insanity Believed Cause of Shooting of Daughter's Mother-in-Law and Ending Own Life

"Beaumer, Beaumer, Beaumer."

H. D. Armstrong, 58 years of age, who, police believe, shot and killed Mrs. H. H. Hopkins, also 58, in her apartment at 4125 South Figueroa street, about noon yesterday and then, after firing two bullets into his chest, slashed his throat with a razor blade and a penknife, was able only to moan a friend's name three times yesterday before dying at the Receiving Hospital.

Armstrong was found in a dying condition about 1:30 p.m. yesterday by his daughter, Mrs. June Hopkins, who is the daughter-in-law of the dead woman. He had removed his clothes and was lying in the bathtub, his pocket knife in his hand. Mrs. H. H. Hopkins was lying in a doorway, dead. Her body was reported to have been cold when officers arrived.

The dead man was the brother of Mrs. E. De Garmo, the wife of Ellwood De Garmo, president of the Warren Oil Company. He was an accountant at the garage of F. J. Furdy, 814 South Grand avenue, but had been on a vacation for two weeks. According to his employer he had been ill and was sent to a hospital by his sister.

BELIEVED INSANE

Mrs. June Hopkins told police her mother-in-law and her father had known each other for years and have been "going together." She says her father has been very nervous of late, his family fearing he was on the verge of a nervous breakdown. The daughter is prostrated by her father's death and can ascribe no motive to the asserted murder and suicide other than temporary insanity.

The police reconstruction of the tragedy is as follows: Armstrong fired at Mrs. Hopkins as she stood in a doorway to a dressingroom, the bullet going through her body and smashing a full-length mirror on the wall. Mrs. Hopkins is said by officers to have fallen to the floor and probably died instantly. Two bullet holes were found, one in her wrist and another in her chest, but the pistol with which the shooting was done was found empty on a kitchen table.

Armstrong fired the two bullets into his left breast either in the hallway, or in the kitchen, police believe. Blood was found in the kitchen, but this may have been caused, officers say, by an attempt of the dead man to slash his throat with a razor blade which was also found in the kitchen.

SLASHES THROAT

WOODEN ARM IS PIVOT OF TRIAL

Fight Waged in Jail Over Destroyed Member

Knife Declared Used to Silence Witness

Hold-up Man Asserted to Have Had Two Arms

What was declared to be a three-cornered fight, in which a wooden arm, a knife and three prisoners in the County Jail figured, had its inning yesterday in Judge Hahn's court. The knife, according to information obtained by Jailer Crenshaw and Assistant Neighbours, was to have been used to silence H. C. Staggs, regarding the asserted burning in the City Jail of a wooden arm by Clarence ("Wingey") St. John, accused of assault to commit robbery and assault with intent to commit murder.

Information was received by jail authorities that St. John had smuggled a large jackknife into the jail and had threatened Staggs, whom he accused of planning to testify against St. John regarding the burning of the wooden arm. The destruction of the arm was said to be for the purpose of proving St. John's inability to be a two-armed bandit.

Assistant Jailer Neighbours and Turkey Ryan searched Walter Smith, accused of forgery, while St. John, Smith and Staggs were waiting on the Bridge of Sighs to be taken to court. They found the knife as it dropped down Smith's trousers's leg.

As a result of the affair, Smith was denied probation and was sentenced to San Quentin for from one to fourteen years for forgery. He said that he feared prisoners in the jail and it was ordered that he be taken last night to San Quentin.

Staggs, who also appeared on an application for probation, asked that he be sent to the detention ward in the County Hospital because he feared prisoners in the County Jail. The court stated he was disposed to grant Staggs probation, but continued the case for six weeks, during which Staggs is to stay in the County Hospital.

The trial of St. John then was started with Elinor Walling, his asserted erstwhile companion, as the main witness for the State. Both St. John and the girl are accused of assault to rob Eugene Abbott, who was shot in the affair. They are also accused of assault with intent to commit murder.

were signed by the several members of the jury and were to the effect that their decisions were reached solely in consideration of the testimony and evidence.

NEW TRIAL DENIED

A motion of the defense for a new trial was subsequently denied and Goldberg and S. S. Hahn, who was substituted as counsel for Ferdinand, notified the court they would appeal the case to the Supreme Court.

Hahn took up the fight for Ferdinand's life at the request of the convicted man's relatives. It was pointed out that the public defender would drop the case, in view of his policy not to appeal decisions.

The three were remanded to Sheriff Traeger, to be turned over to the warden of the State penitentiary at San Quentin, there to await hanging on a date to be set some time in the future by the local court. The Supreme Court probably will not hand down an opinion on the findings before next year, it was stated by ocurt attaches yesterday. In event the higher tribunal affirms the judgment of the Superior Court, the convicted men will be brought back to Los Angeles for resentencing.

Detective Lieutenants Knotts, Davis and Sanders, from the University Station questioned Mrs. June Hopkins and also Mrs. De Garmo, who was summoned to the scene after the tragedy, but was unable to shed any light on the shooting.

Mrs. Hopkins, who married Ned Hopkins, son of the dead woman, lived with her father at 603 West Forty-first Drive, which is only half a block from the dead woman's home at 4125 South Figueroa street.

At the receiving Hospital R. C. Beaumer, who had known Armstrong intimately, spoke to the dying man, but Armstrong was able only to murmur his friend's name. He died about a half hour after reaching the hospital.

Armstrong is believed to have been last seen alive at about 8 a.m. yesterday, when he stopped for a few moments at Purdy's Garage.

NOT FEELING WELL

"He had not been feeling well of late," said F. J. Purdy, proprietor of the garage, "and so he had been off for about two weeks. He complained of being extremely nervous and expressed fear of suffering a nervous collapse. His sister, I understand, had taken him to a sanatorium in Eagle Rock. He dropped in yesterday for a few minutes, seemed to be in the best of spirits, chatted a bit and left."

His daughter, it was learned, occasionally addressed a letter to her father at the garage from Oxnard, where she was living. It was observed by his fellow employees that on occasions after a letter came from Oxnard he would appear to be worried and depressed. In attempting to find a motive for the shooting, the police were expected to question the daughter to determine whether anything she may have told her father may have preyed upon his mind.

Employees at the garage stated that Mrs. Hopkins had been seen to come to the office where Armstrong was employed on only one or two occasions, the latest being about six months ago. The pair seemed to be on the best of terms at that time, it was said.

Alice Black told the police Haynes had chased her and her companion more than a block to the corner of State and Cedar streets, where he gave up. J. H. Black, her father, called in the police and every available officer was put on the chase, with the aid of a number of citizens. Earl Daughtery, aviator, took up an observer in his airplane and scouted over several square miles of territory looking for the negro.

CITIZENS AROUSED

The police of the harbor district, working under Detective Lieutenants Glenn and Steve, brought in a score of negroes during the day.

They also arrested a dark Mexican, but the little girl declared he was not the man. She reiterated her declaration that he was a negro and added that he wore a heavy mustache.

About a hundred citizens of the Harbor District were aiding the police yesterday. Feeling continued to run high and the police feared that violence might be expected when the man is captured.

MAN LONG SOUGHT IS ARRESTED

Suspect Said to Have Killed Grocer on Wall Street in 1922

Frank Morrisey, alias Frank O'Day, 31 years of age, declared by police to have been the object of a search for more than a year, was held in the City Jail last night on charges of suspicion of murder and assault with intent to murder. He was arrested by Detective Lieutenants O'Connor, Thompson and Trahor yesterday afternoon at Madison street and Santa Monica Boulevard after one of the officers said he recognized him when he passed the officer's car in an automobile. Morrisey was said to have been unaware of the officer's purpose in stopping his car and to have offered no resistance.

According to the police, Morrisey is charged with having killed Benito Ahumada in a hold-up of a grocery store at 1335 Wall street December 3, 1922, and with having shot his asserted pal, John Rugh, in the back in a quarrel January 1, 1923.

Police said Rugh confessed taking part in crimes of various kinds with Morrisey. The shooting of Rugh, police said he declared during his stay at the Receiving Hospital, was caused by an argument over the division of spoils of holdups.

BAPTISTS HONOR BROUGHER

Pastor to Receive Loving Cup at Anniversary Service at Temple Church Tomorrow

Baptists of the Southland will unite tomorrow in honoring Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher who, with his congregation, will conduct two special services in celebration of Dr. Brougher's fourteenth anniversary as pastor of the Temple Baptist Church.

At the morning service the officers of the church, together with many prominent Baptist ministers of Southern California, will be on the platform and the program will be in charge of Orem Newcomb, chairman of the church executive committee. Judge Robert H. Scott will extend greetings from Southern California Baptists and Dr. Brougher will respond briefly, after which he will preach on "The Kind of Church a Preacher Likes." Included in his sermon will be comments from Revs. J. A. Francis, E. E. Helms, H. B. Smith, Bob Shuler and Mrs. Aimee McPherson.

In the evening the Optimist Club members and their families will attend the service in a body. James V. Westervelt, president of the club, of which Dr. Brougher is chaplain, will present Dr. Brougher with a loving cup. Addresses will be made by H. H. Smock, Arch Anderson and other prominent citizens and a musical program will be given by the choir, assisted by Harold Procter, Frank Geiger, Constance Balfour and other soloists.

When, following the passing of Rev. Robert J. Burdette, Dr. Brougher became pastor of the Temple Baptist Church, the membership was 1080. Today there are more than 3000 members. The Sunday-school, which fourteen years ago had 686 members, today has a membership of 2340. The number of Christian Endeavor societies has grown from one to seven and today there are seven assistant pastors instead of the one assistant of fourteen years ago. In 1909 the expense budget of the church was $18,000 while today the annual expense budget is in excess of $55,000. The missionary budget, formerly $5000, today is $56,000, although personal gifts bring the amount spent for missionary work up to nearly $100,000 annually. During the last five years the members have been raising $100,000 annually for the purpose of purchasing all the stock of the Temple Auditorium Building and Dr. Brougher announced yesterday that the church expects to own the building by the end of 1924.

PASTOR CALLED BACK

For the second time in nine years the members of Vermont Square Christian Church have recalled their former pastor, Rev. James R. McIntire. His first pastorate continued for five years. Following an interval of a few months, the church recalled him and he remained for three years. On account of ill health Rev. S. W. Allen recently resigned the pastorate and Mr. McIntire has again accepted charge of the church. He will preach the first sermon of his third pastorate tomorrow morning. Services will also be conducted in the evening.

Tomorrow morning Mr. Fagan will preach on "The Church in the Community," and in the evening Miss Grace Titus will speak on "A Message from Japan."

"THE OIL SCANDAL"

"What do you think of the Teapot Dome scandal? What do you think of faith healing, Christian Science, Coueism and the Emanuel movement? Can the Apostolic Succession be traced back to the days of the first apostles? What do you think of Pollock's play, 'The Fool'?" These are among the questions to be answered by Rev. William MacCormack, dean of St. Paul's Cathedral, in his sermon tomorrow evening at the Scottish Rite Auditorium. The topic for morning is "The Mystery of Fellowship."

BROTHERS CHANGE PULPITS

Rev. Paul C. Elliott, associate pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will exchange pulpits tomorrow evening with his brother, Rev. Newell J. Elliott, pastor of the Southwest Presbyterian Church. McGroarty, author of the Mission Play, will be the guest of honor and will speak on "The Romance of California." The public is invited.

HERBERT B. SMITH

"Does the forgiveness of sin save man from paying the penalty of sin?" This question, recently asked Rev. Herbert Booth Smith, will be answered by Dr. Smith in his sermon tomorrow evening at Immanuel Presbyterian Church. Dr. Smith will also answer the challenge, "Prove to me that the Bible is not an immoral book." The speaker in the morning will be Rev. S. T. Montgomery of the Police Commission.

J. A. Eby, pastor of the Wilshire Presbyterian Church, who will preach on tomorrow evening on "How to Live Happily as Husband and Wife." The picture, "Divorce," will be shown. "The Rise of Democracy"

V. In the Seven Epochs of Mankind
By Dr. Frank Dyer—11:00 a.m.
AMBASSADOR HOTEL THEATRE
This sermon will reveal why the world changed from despotism to democracy.

Music: Harry Girard and His Singers
Tomorrow will be Visitor's Day for all Denominations

Dear Friends:

Last week, in calling the roll of the States, we found that Illinois led all the rest. The folks from Canada were not called and they protested. They shall be called this week. This gives them a chance to pack the house for the Maple Leaf.

Tomorrow we are going to call the roll of Denominations and see who will "have" honor. I think we are the most composite Church in Los Angeles. I like that about it, for I would almost rather not be in a Church that is in a narrow one.

My message will discuss "The Rise of Democracy" and I think I can show that it is the child of religion—and one of God's best gifts to men. It shows that God is marching on. The world is being made right now—and He wants us to help make it. Tomorrow we must get a vision of this.

Come promptly for your seat.

Loyally yours, FRANK DYER.

THE REBEL'S MISTAKE

After four happy years of peace Mexico has no desire for a return to normalcy.

THEY GET THE MILK

Down in Washington they don't need a cow for their milking, anyhow. That is why some of those dirt farmers practice at a disadvantage.

QUICK ACTION

If the young man has anything left after he has bought the ring the girl is often quite ready to marry him. She doesn't have to live with him, you know.

GOING SOME

Babe Ruth must have been spoiled by fast company. He has been nipped four times for speeding since his season closed. He must be trying to catch up with his batting record.

IN GREEN PASTURES

One of the specialists in the Bureau of Plant Industry declares that pastures are the most neglected asset in American agriculture. Not with the political farmers. They look after their pasturage every minute.

THE BRAIN SOFTENS

An Indiana preacher says that bobbed-haired women are insane. At that rate there is no doubt about the country going crazy. There is a regular wave of madness—and a marcel wave, at that.

BETTER THAN ECONOMY

France is cutting its army to 350,000, 200,000 under its prewar strength, as "a measure of economy." It will save some money, of course, but that will be the small part of it. The shifting of 200,000 able-bodied men from useless to useful occupation should be a tremendous help to such a sadly undermanned country as France.

RUSHING IN

The Labor administration in England is expected to extend official recognition to the government of Russia as its initial venture in world politics. Looks as if it would offer recognition first and make terms afterward. This is a new departure in British diplomacy. Perhaps it will be hard to recognize the Labor occupation of Parliament a few moons hence.

FALSE ALARMS

A British lady lecturer who has spent some years in the Sahara and mingled with many sheiks says that they are mostly dirt. She has met some of them who have not had a bath for twelve years. As lovers they would be about as impressive as a sack of dried cocoanuts. The songs that have been written about sheiks are howling farces to those who have become acquainted with the real article.

WORKS BOTH WAYS

Under the new rum pact with England the ships of that country actually engaged in the smuggling of liquor into the United States may be taken virtually wherever found, but a ship that is searched and seized without cause may recover substantial damages from our government for the loss and delay. Of course, this is but just, yet it assures litigation that will keep a claims commission busy as long as the treaty is in force.

BACKWARD ON WHEELS

Roger Babson, who is billed as quite an authority on economics, asserts that the automobile is steadily lowering the standard of living in this country. A lot of writers have combatted this declaration. They have inclined to the belief that an auto was the advance agent of civilization, but Roger doesn't see it that way.

He says that there are thousands of American families that purchase a buzz wagon to the exclusion of almost everything else. They buy gasoline instead of decent clothes. They flutter over the country instead of investing in furniture and acquiring a home. They never read books. The only conversation they exchange relates to the mileage that can be obtained on a gallon of gas.

The newly-married couple of today do not begin with home-making. They rent a two-room apartment in order to buy a car on the installment plan. They own no Lares or Penates. Instead they pour a few hasty libations to Mercury, the hectic deity of speed and transportation.

Eighty-five per cent of the cars sold last year were bought on time payments. They were purchased by people who used to buy good books and nice furniture. Even the very rich, who could afford the whole program of excellent living, center their activities around the car. They do not take time to read. They are too busy riding and about all they get out of that is speed. There is little or no education or information in the average motor trip.

On the face of the returns people buy cars they can ill afford. They read much less. They dress carelessly. They have less on the table and less in the furnishing and decoration of the home. If all this is not lowering the standards of living Roger Babson is wrong. Otherwise there is at least good argument in his contention.

RUSSIA AFTER LENIN

Various are the speculations concerning Russia after Lenin and Trotzky. The one is dead, the other is a prisoner of the Cheka; but Russia, a crippled giant, bleeding and starving, still lives.

There is no consensus of opinion. For Russia is the land where the unexpected, the illogical and the irrational always happen. Communism is practically dead; but theoretically it is still very much alive.

Kalenin, head of the powerful Executive Committee of the soviets, and Stalin, known in Russia as the power behind Lenin, have renounced none of the soviet principles. But Russia is faced by a conflict between principles and necessities.

Russia is the greatest agricultural domain in any of the political subdivisions of the earth. More than 80 per cent of the population lives from the soil. The peasants made a sincere effort to apply the principles of Communism, but it brought them only starvation and misery. So Russia is now a de facto capitalistic country trying to govern itself according to Communistic principles.

When principles come into conflict with economic necessity the struggle is always bitter and the solutions are slow. The Communists refuse to renounce their principles, but even the Red army is not powerful enough to put them into effect.

According to the soviet leaders, the peasants have not lost their faith in Communism; but it is the kind of faith that consists in believing what one knows isn't so.

The soviets have abolished religion, as far as it can be abolished by governmental force and decree. But religious belief is a state of mind, and a state of mind cannot be abolished by statute. The churches are closed; but the peasants in all the parishes of Russia gather before the barred doors, or the shrines in ruin, and kneel there to repeat silent prayers.

For, at heart, the peasant is deeply religious. The faith of 1000 years is not lightly dissipated. Russia is now an anomaly. While the churches are closed the religion of the people still exists; while the laws are Communistic the life of the people is capitalistic. Added to this is the confusing contradiction that Russia is a capitalistic country without capital.

As for the rest of the world, it must remain a spectator while the tragedy of Communism is played to the end. Lenin's dream of the world dictatorship of the proletariat is blasted. The example of Russia has turned the rest of Europe not to Communism, but to Fascism. The latter is not a remedy, but is the lesser of two evils.

Necessity, in the end, always wins. Principles that are disproved in practice cannot ultimately survive. But there are so much ignorance, superstition and fatalism in the Slav race that a generation may pass before the last embers of Communism have ceased to smoke.

As a land for investment Russia is not safe. For no one knows today what the government will be tomorrow. A power that is exercised by an armed minority is never secure. The rest of the world would gladly help the prostrate giant to his feet; but he is still so vicious-minded that he strikes down all who approach, friends and foes alike. Until this frenzy passes the only security of the rest of the world is to leave Russia to its own devices.

THE GOOD MARRY YOUNG

The State Board of Health has defined the exact age at which a girl ceases to be a flapper and becomes an old maid. According to data contained in their recently published statistics regarding the population of California, there are 177,600 unmarried girls of the flapper age in California and 123,000 old maids. Anyone who has arrived at the age of 25 without annexing a husband is thus classified by the board. And it isn't even polite enough to designate them as "bachelor girls."

However, there is hope for the ladies, and they need not feel unduly offended, for the board places the unmarried man of 26 or over in the "crusty bachelor" class. Not so long ago a man was supposed to be a playful little boy at 45 and if he didn't marry it was because he was capricious and hard to please or waiting for a new generation of damsels to grow up.

But the board calls a spade a spade. It decides that if a man reaches 26 without acquiring a spouse, the chances are that he will go through life unattached and the same is true of the girl of 25. After the quarter-of-a-century mark is passed both sexes are less apt to be contented with anyone who comes along and can play the ukulele prettily in the moonlight. The girl is thinking of his pocketbook instead of the cute way he parts his hair, and the man of equally practical things instead of how divinely the dear one dances.

OLD MOTHER PACIFIC

After enduring agonies of remorse due to the reproaches of scientists who told us we were not utilizing the Pacific Ocean as a source of food, we are now shaken with another emotion.

Dr. Alexander H. Ford, director of the Pan-Pacific Union, has informed a representative of the Christian Science Monitor in Los Angeles that the Pacific cannot continue to yield sea food for even the Pacific area two years longer if the present methods of ravaging the waters of that sea continue.

Dr. Ford's statement is preliminary to the great Pacific Food Conservation Conference to be held in Honolulu next August.

He points out that two-thirds of the world's population lives in lands tributary to the Pacific.

With proper conservation, he states that this ocean can be made to yield food for the whole world for all time to come; but only if the nations, the natural scientists and the professional fishers co-operate in every way to save the animal life of the sea from wholesale destruction.

Although without doubt the oldest of all industries, the business of catching fish for food has proceeded with the most reckless disregard for the future.

It does not require the prophetic eye of a seventh son of a seventh son to see that the world is close to the most terrible problem of its existence: that of overpopulation. The world is filling up with people like water running into a dishpan. It will not be long before science is put to it for food, clothing and means of existence for these swarming millions.

It is not too much to believe that the wastes of the open sea will furnish the answer to most of those problems.

With proper regulation its food potentialities are fathomless and inexhaustible. Not a very great effort of imagination is required to foresee that it may also—by the terrific and wasted forces of its tides—be made to yield electric power sufficient to light, heat and do the work of the world.

At present the ocean is a highway to get from one patch of land to another. In the future it may be the giant dumb servant who yields to the land children the means of maintaining life.

ANDERSON CONVICTION

The wets and the drys seem about equally excited over the conviction of William H. Anderson, head of the Anti-Saloon League of New York on a charge of forgery in the third degree.

As an echo of this sensation the low sobs of grief and the triumphant screams of those who, in some way, have dramatized this as a disaster to the cause of prohibition seem struggling for predominance.

The truth is, of course, that Anderson's conviction has no possible bearing in any way on the merits or demerits of prohibition. It will have no bearing upon the "prohibition question" for the very good reason that there is no prohibition question.

The Constitution of the United States stipulates that the manufacture or sale of alcoholic liquors shall not be permitted. The only question involved is how long otherwise law-abiding citizens will continue to co-operate with crooks and criminals in forcing the United States government to continue staggering under the appalling expense of fighting bootleg traffic.

The sins or the martyrdom—whichever it may be—of Mr. Anderson of the Anti-Saloon League has no bearing of any kind on the merits of the case.

BEAUTY TREATMENT FOR MEN

New York, Chicago and sundry other metropolitan centers may stand for the bepowdered and bedizened youth who is described in popular language as a "sheik," but heaven help this misguided creature if he strolls into Kansas City. According to the recent ruling of Municipal Judge M. J. Kilroy, any young man who rouges his pale cheeks and nips his eyebrows into a neat line is a vagrant and will be treated accordingly.

Recently there stood before the stern jurist a trembling creature called Lee Ledford, who had been arrested for committing the error of talking to a damsel who resented conversation from total strangers. The judge was about to let him off with a light fine when a shaft of light fell athwart the culprit's face and the horrified judge got a glimpse of his thread-like eyebrows and chemical complexion. The sergeant who made the arrest testified that they had removed from the defendant's person a jar of brilliantine and a box of almond cream rouge.

The youth attempted to explain that it was all the rage in the younger set to grow sideburns and burnish them up with brilliantine. Where the boy of a preceding generation carried a baseball and a set of fishing hooks in his pocket the modern type went around armed with pretty compacts of powder, rouge and eyebrow pencils. According to the defendant he had once scorned these wiles, but the girls had passed him up cold and he had been forced to resort to them.

But the granite-hearted judge put a crimp in his career as a user of cosmetics by fining him $500, which meant a year in jail, since he lacked the money to pay it. "No man can have time to use cosmetics and hold down a job, too," decreed Judge Kilroy, declaring that he was just itching for the next sheik to come into his court and get a term of beauty treatment in the County Jail.

AN EARLY START

The Reds in Russia are going to be sure of their recruits. They catch them while they are young. The first children's regiment has been organized and it is formed of youngsters of various ages, ranging from 6 years up. They figure that by starting their Bolsheviks in the cradle they will always be sure of a fair supply.

FRANKNESS IN POLITICS

It certainly pays to be honest and outspoken in politics. For instance, Oscar W. Underwood's frank denunciation of the Ku Klux Klan may keep him from getting the Democratic nomination for President—thereby saving him a great deal of utterly useless effort and expense.

Having His Eyes Opened

[Columbus Dispatch]

THE TWO-BIT TABLE D'HOTE

We have become resigned to projecting all our hopes toward unborn tomorrow and only looking back in tear-bright memory to dead yesterday. Though dear to our hearts are the scenes of our childhood, none but dreaming poets ever fancy their return. We realize sadly that the things which put halcyonity into the halcyon days are like the leaves of long, long withered blooms, past all reviving in this hectic time. And yet sometimes something loved and lost comes stealing back out of the silent prison of the years, as quietly as any other escapee, and with the tender light of yesteryears illumes the lurid pages of today.

Back in Moberly, Mo., for instance, a good restaurant has resumed its 1908 practice of serving a 25-cent table d'hote dinner. No, not a plate service, not dinner No. 1, No. 2 or No. 3, but an old-fashioned table d'hote at which even an Englishman can find enough to satisfy his inherent cravings.

Most of us who are well into or past our fourth decades can recall such table d'hotes—the kind at which some beaming, ruddy-cheeked landlady or waitress was constantly stepping up behind one's chair with "Won't you have some more of the roast?" or "Are you ready for your third cup of coffee yet?" or "Please take some more of this pie or we'll think you don't like it." Those were the days when mine host seemed to love to see people eat—table d'hote—as sincerely as he now loves to see them eat a la carte. And what constant pleasure of that kind we must have given him back in those olden, golden days before we learned that it is very unwise to eat heartily—especially the last few days before pay day.

How often have we tackled undismayed the task of disposing of two helpings of roast pork (with apple sauce made of apples;) omelet, four kinds of vegetables, seven kinds of home-made preserves and pickles, two kinds of salad, hot biscuits and hot corn muffins and such trivialities as lettuce, radishes, green onions and beverages too numerous to mention, only to find at the end that we still were due for the brightest of all youth's bright isles of dreams—floating island—with two kinds of cake!

Those were the days of real sport, for then anybody could be a sport with a quarter or two. And can it, can it be that they will come again?

Ring, bells! Crack, welkin! Rise, rise, competitive spirit which will not be outdone! Out of Missou the glad news comes, far flashing on its wings of flame. A start has been made. May it gather volume like an Alpine snowball!

RIPPLING RHYMES

THE TWINS

James J. and Richard Skatey are brothers, and they're twins; for years that number eighty they've plied their useful shins. And they are hale and stalwart, as much alike as eggs, except for Richard's small wart and James J.'s bandy legs. "I've smoked Kentucky's burley," said Richard, "since a child; I've smoked it late and early, I've smoked it strong and mild. And if I'm full of ginger it is because I smoke; tobacco's bound to injure the germs that make men croak. I'm still the daily buyer of burley and perique; if 'twere not for my briar you'd find me bent and weak." "I've never known diseases," said James, the other twin; "I've no asthmatic wheezes or backfire woes within. The reason why I'm chipper is plain as day, indeed; since I was but a nipper I've never used the weed. Yet, I admit it's true, man, that Richard smokes and chews, but he is scarcely human and he has firebrick flues." It's hard to draw a moral from any fact, in sooth, for every fact will quarrel with every other truth.

GOOD ADVICE CONDENSED

Probably none of the entries for the Bok peace prize was confined to only seven words. It is safe to say, however, that many of them did not contain as practical advice for the maintenance of the world's peace as was summed up by Anton Lang, the Christus of the Oberammergau Passion Play, in this sentence: "Faith and toil and helping one another." "This is the formula," declared Mr. Lang, "which Oberammergau would have entered for the Bok peace prize." Certain it is that, if such a policy were generally followed, there would be far less need for the offer of a peace prize than seems to be the case at present.—[Christian Science Monitor.

Don't let anybody think that the Democrats of New York are not going to get that $395,000 from somebody.

Henry Ford is building a hospital in Detroit. There ought to be one especial bed for the care of the Ford jokes.

The new term, "scofflaw," to refer to those who flaunt the prohibition law, does not seem to be popular. It looks and sounds messy.

Director of Public Safety Gen. Smedley L. Butler of Philadelphia appears to be able to play either the in or outfield, as occasion requires.

E. D. Bush is running for the gubernatorial nomination in Indiana. The voters ought to have no trouble getting behind a candidate with that umbrageous monicker.

Since Senator Couzens has had his income-tax bout with Secretary Mellon the Michigan statesman is thinking of writing a brochure on the subject: "Catching a Tartar."

Dr. Murphree, the choice of Col. Bryan for the Democratic nomination, would get more votes out of the Tammany delegation if he spelled his name the old-fashioned way.

Getting right down to hard pan, bonus money can come from one place only—the pocket of the taxpayer. There can be no reduction of the taxes, if the bonus is to be paid.

Some partisans in Congress say they don't believe tax reduction would be popular in the country. They might test their peculiar views on the tax question by offering some bill to increase the rates. We know where they would land.

Gen. Dawes is in Berlin looking over the German financial situation. And the chances are that what he discovers will be spoken our loud without any pussyfooting reservations. What a blessing such a man is in the public life of his times.

Who is financing the Republican opposition to President Coolidge. Somebody is. As Uncle Nat Berry, in "Shore Acres," inquired after tasting the cranberries on the kitchen stove, "Who put sugar in these berries?" Nobody answered. Uncle Nat tasted the fruit and added, "Well, somebody did."

The two prominent Republican candidates for Governor of Ohio at the coming primaries will be James S. White, head of the Anti-Saloon League, and Congressman Theodore E. Burton, now a member of the House from one of the Cleveland districts. Theodore Burton has been one of the big Republicans of Ohio, dating back to the days of Mark Hanna, and has served with distinction in both the upper and lower houses of Congress.

THIS IS THE DAY

A treaty was signed with Spain by which the United States purchased Florida for the sum of $5,000,000 in the year 1819.

The Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo between the United States and Mexico was signed in the year 1848. By the terms of this treaty Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California were formally ceded to the United States upon payment of about $15,000,000.

THE FOREIGN INVASION

The American theater and the American screen have been overrun by foreigners. The big hit of the season in New York is "The Miracle," staged by Max Reinhardt, a German, in collaboration with Morris Gest, a Russian. The rival sensation is Eleanora Duse, an Italian. Gilda Gray, a Pole, is the most prominent dancer in New York. The Moscow Players have been another New York sensation. Of the notables in the niches of fame are occupied by Pola Negri, a Pole; Rudolph Valentino, an Italian; Ramon Novarro, a Mexican; Mary Pickford, a Canadian; Charlie Chaplin, an Englishman, and the most famous of the directors are Ernst Lubitsch, a German; Victor Seastrom, Swede; Erich Von Stroheim, Austrian; Rex Ingram, Irishman.

This somewhat amazing condition has called the following remarks from William A. Brady, the veteran stage producer; his article is reprinted from the New York Times.

BY WILLIAM A. BRADY

Today, one should judge by the wave of enthusiastic criticism that has greeted a recent foreign invasion, one would think that we had no actors in this country.

Our young people have been advised to go and worship at the shrine of these foreign artists, when it is a matter of fact that the kind of acting these Russian players have shown us is a style that has been tabooed in the American theater for a generation.

The Russian Players know the art of make-up and they are versatile, but versatility no longer pays in the American theater. It did once. Today our casting directors require "types," not "make-up."

RUSSIAN WHISKERS

The Russians make excellent use of whiskers. Whiskers are almost prohibited today in the American theater—unless the actor thinks enough of his part to grow them himself. Sticking them on, except in very rare instances, is not met with favor.

It is quite true that our artists can find many things to copy from the Moscow Players, but, believe me, the Russians can learn a plenty from our settings, our methods and our acting.

I might suggest that a course of Belasco rehearsals would do them a world of good.

BERNHARDT'S JOKE

I claim that no one can declare that acting is good without a knowledge of the language spoken. An artist may be wonderful at gesturing and posturing a character like Hamlet, but the words constitute a deal in acting. How does the actor read his lines? That's the rub. To esteem acting one must know what the actor is talking about. George L. Fox, the best pantomimist of a decade, was a bad actor when he opened his mouth.

One night, during a tour of this country, Sarah Bernhardt, in a joking mood, read a speech from Phedre," a Greek tragedy, as a substitute for her long speech at the end of the third act of "Camille." No one in the audience detected the substitution and at the end of that particular act they proclaimed "grande artiste."

TALENTS FORGOTTEN

We do not remember our favorites. All other countries do. The farewell night of Nellie Farren in London will long remain in the minds of many.

No one who was at the funeral of Sarah Bernhardt in Paris will ever forget it.

It gave me great pleasure to see the wonderful greeting [illegible] given Mme. Duse during her appearance in New York. The flowers, the applause, the [illegible] the splendid scenes in her dressing rooms after her final appearance was over—the seemingly [illegible] enthusiasm at the station when she left the next morning.

The embraces, the cheers, the gorgeous newspaper comments and then my mind went back a number of years and I recalled the farewell of another great American woman—every [illegible] great an artist in her way as Duse—she, too, had conquered foreign lands, in London, Paris and Berlin.

ADA REHAN

Her last appearance was given at the Liberty Theater on Forty-second street. There were a [illegible] ful of people in front, many passes. No particular gathering, no flowers, no hysterics—she just passed out of the picture and probably went home with a heavy heart. She was proud—she did not complain. But she was one of the few who should have been given the same wonderful farewell that was accorded Duse a few days ago. She was a woman of whom we can all be proud—her name was Ada Rehan.

Even now up on the Hudson, about thirty miles from here, in a little farmhouse, lives an old woman, half blind, a very sick old woman. Her only company is a Pekinese puppy given her by some other actress. She had one visitor on Christmas Day. She is old and forgotten, yet she deserved our stage once. New Yorkers think about her—and she was an artist—those who remember her talents will say so. Her name is Clara Morris.

THE WORK OF BEL GEDDES

Mr. Broun in his article justly says that I was known as the "Mob King," and was reputed as seeing clever in handling the masses of people on the stage.

He asks me if I could not learn a lot from seeing Mr. Reinhardt's wonderful spectacle, "The Miracle," now at the Century Theater.

Well, in answer to Mr. Broun, I will say that "The Miracle" thrilled me and aroused my admiration. But it was not only Mr. Reinhardt's work that did so, for I knew that the Cathedral setting had been devised and executed by an American artist, Norman-Bel Geddes, and I want to tell Mr. Broun that I could learn just as much about the art of staging spectacles by a visit to the studios presided over by David W. Griffith, Rex Ingram, William C. De Mille or James Cruze.

NAPOLEON AND TRAFFIC PROBLEM

Los Angeles is a good way from Paris, yet, now that traffic congestion has become one of our serious problems, the fastest-growing community in the world, in which new additions as big as good-sized towns keep adding themselves to the map overnight, might adapt a few ideas from the French city's boulevard system.

Every American who visits Paris is struck by the hundreds of narrow streets, and everyone who takes an interest in traffic is set wondering by them. It would seem that traffic congestions would be innumerable and unavoidable. Yet the Paris taxi drivers will take one clear across the great city so rapidly that the fare is less than $1 and, though one flashes past thousands of other vehicles en route, congestions are rare. The answer is the boulevards.

Napoleon III had no idea what he was doing for posterity when he instructed Engineer Haussmann, for whom the Boulevard Haussmann is named, to make Paris revolution-proof. Some wise man then had figured it out that narrow streets bred revolutions. They could be so easily barricaded that a mere hatful of men could start a revolution any time and it was hard to get at them. So Napoleon III commanded Haussmann to plan a system of very broad streets, reaching all parts of the city, through which large bodies of men could be transported hastily, intersected every few blocks with a "place" or square in which a whole company of men could be maneuvered. With such boulevards and spreading-out places so numerous that one could not proceed more than four or five blocks in any direction without running into one, the narrow intervening streets were not considered a menace.

That was all Napoleon III had in mind. His prophetic soul had no dream of motor cars. Yet in that he, aided by Haussmann's genius, may have done more for his country than his famous namesake did.

For now those boulevards care for the traffic so that speed of twenty-five miles an hour is common through the heart of the city, and accidents are very rare. All turns, one of the chief causes of traffic jams, are made in the broad open spaces. Imagine how it would be, for instance, if there were only a solitary monument or fountain in the center of Pershing Square, all the rest of the ground were given up to traffic (all turns being made around the monument) and broad boulevards radiated out of it in every direction; and if there were similar open squares in half a dozen logical downtown districts.

That would cost a mint now, of course, but so does every other plan for relieving congestion. And there are plenty of new districts here and elsewhere in Southern California which are rapidly growing toward congested conditions in which it might be applied economically. And platters of new additions might do well to consider it. It "wastes" ground, of course. But it makes for light, air, convenience and human safety.

SOLVED THE FUEL PROBLEM

Is there a parable concealed in this apparently humorous story of the Argonaut? Some social philosophers would say so.

A traveler on the desert came upon a lone stock-raiser on the lower Colorado River. The chief object of interest on the barren ranch was a giant heap of firewood, and curiosity caused the visitor to ask the stockman how in the world it happened to possess it.

"Wal," the man drawled, "last year this here brush came floatin' down the river at flood time, and I jest rounded up a bunch of Indians and told them they could have half of all they drug ashore. Golly, them Indians worked!"—[Youth's Companion.

A Library of Sand

In the Structural Materials Library of the Lewis Institute, Chicago, there is a special "library" consisting of 2300 bottles of sand. It has taken ten years to make the collection, which is said to contain specimens from every State in the Union and from many foreign countries. As far as we know this is the only collection of its kind. Its purpose has been to make tests to determine the values for concrete and mortar work and to have the findings on record.—[Compressed Air Magazine.

But have you the will, the will

Oh! never there lived a dreamer

But whether you're born to fortune
Or bitter struggle and strife,
You must work your way, not merely pay,
On the good old ship of life.

Never have come to port,
For their faith was weak, or they feared a leak,
Or their fortitude ran short.

ARTIST AT PIANO IN KHJ PROGRAM

Clare Forbes Crane Heard in Pleasing Numbers

Robert Lewin, Violinist, is Contributor to Bill

Welcome Card Presented by Barker Bros.

A program presented by Barker Bros. it were to be of finest quality, last Saturday's noon and matinee hours were no exception. Sibley G. Pease, assistant manager of Barker Bros' music and radio department, who arranged the program, is an organist, composer and musical director well known in Los Angeles, where he has been located for twenty years. A violinist of national fame as a concert artist and teacher is Claire Forbes Crane, who appeared on both noon and matinee programs. Mrs. Crane was formerly soloist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra under Dr. Muck, and is noted as an accompanist and ensemble player as well as for the numbers which she played over KHJ yesterday, her group was remarkable. Schubert's "Impromptu," in itself a beautiful selection, was rendered most entrancing by the artist's interpretation.

SOPRANO HEARD

Leslie Bowley, soprano, gave several lovely solos. "A Blackbird's Song" by Scott, was full of color and life. Miss Bowley possesses a strong voice coupled with a charming personality, a combination that brought much gratification to Radioland.

During the noon program the eighth of the series of addresses on "Truth-in-Advertising," by Ferris R. Miller, manager of the Better Business Bureau, was delivered.

The matinee program presented through the courtesy of Barker Brothers and arranged by Mr. Pease was as well presented as the earlier concert. Claire Forbes Crane gave additional piano selections that were welcomed warmly by her unseen audience.

Esther Villars, soprano, has only recently come to Los Angeles from the East, where she has had considerable church and concert experience. Her voice is pleasing in quality, and Radioland must have been delighted with that of Miss Villars.

LEWIN PLAYS

Herbert Lewin, a young violinist of this city who has studied extensively in New York and has done much orchestra work there, gave a fine interpretation of several violin selections. Mr. Lewin was among the first of the musical artists to become radio enthusiasts, giving his time and talent very generously.

The Paramount Syncopators are a peppy group of Los Angeles musicians who are popular among clubs in the city and country clubs, where they play for dances. They play the right music in the right way, and are a likeable, staisfactory organization. The personnel of the orchestra is as follows: Gordon Glenn, pianist and leader; Frank Remley, Banjo; Al Young, saxophone, and Dick Hamel, drums.

Vera Leavitt Owen, Radioland's good friend, gave a very fine concert last night. Her voice is pure and melodious, while the songs she chooses are always sure to please. Mrs. Owen, a fine vocal instructor, came to this city from Chicago, where she was successful in concert work and in teaching.

KELTZ CONTRIBUTES

Maurice Keltz, violinist, is a talented young man who has been studying under the noted Russian instructor, Theodor Gordohn, now located in Los Angeles. Mr. Keltz is a rising musician, whose ability is unquestionable. In numbers that he played during the concert, the trueness of his tone and the even style of his bowing were outstanding. Leila Z. Isbell, his accompanist, was capable and accomplished.

The Aeolian Quartet of Chicago gave several ensemble numbers that were well rendered. This organization, composed of Alice Lewis, Vivian Grabe, Allene Gilbert and Ethel Halterman, is now singing at the First Church of the Nazarene. They have quite a reputation as Gospel singers, which is well deserved.

Fred C. McNabb of Aggeler & Musser Seed Company gave an interesting talk on "Wild Flowers of California." Mr. McNabb's talks are always full of interest, and he is an authority on flowers.

At 8:30 Phillip T. Hillman, basso, accompanied by Carrie Preston Rittmeister, sang several numbers. Mr. Hillman has appeared at KHJ before, and has many friends among the fans.

CHILDREN'S HOUR

The Children's Hour presented little Richard Headrick, of cinema fame originally, but whose voice is as well known throughout the country that one is tempted to introduce him as the little star of Radio. Richard gave a program interesting and sparkling; he always does.

Strongheart, the dog star of the silver sheet, broadcast over KHJ for the children. Strongheart's latest picture is "The Love Master." The big police dog possesses extraordinary intelligence, and carried on quite a conversation for the benefit of Radioland. He was not at all nervous over the size of his unseen audience, perhaps due to the fact that Strongheart has broadcast before. Although Strongheart speaks only dog language, he readily understands English, and his auditors, informed in advance as to the meaning of certain words and phrases spoken in the police dog's native tongue, were able to understand all that he said.

At 7 o'clock an organ recital by Arthur Blakeley, of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, was broadcast through KHJ by line telephony. These recitals are proving very popular.

Kin of Woman of Beach City Contests Will

Declaring the late Alice Lee Mattson of Long Beach was incompetent at the time she drew a will disposing of an estate valued at $18,039, two of her relatives yesterday filed a contest of the will, which bequeathed a large share of the property to C. O. Mattson, who had been sued for separate maintenance by Mrs. Mattson and with whom the latter was said not to have lived for more than ten years prior to her death.

Elsie Fiereller, a sister, and Ida Cannon, a niece of the decedent, were the contestants, and in support of their allegation of incompeteney on the part of Mrs. Mattson they set forth in their complaint that she had once been confined in an asylum in Canada as insane.

Under the terms of the will three sisters, Elsie Fiereller, Emma Dawson and Maggie Uren, were left $100 each; Walter Osborn of Bakersfield received $1000; Sadie Dundas of Glendale, $1000, while the residue of the estate was divided equally between Mattson and his children.

ROTH TRIAL IS PUT OVER TO MONDAY

Delay Necessitated by Motion for New Hearing for Chapman Slayers

Trial of Herman L. Roth, Hollywood attorney indicted by the county grand jury on counts charging extortion and larceny by trick and device, was continued yesterday by Judge Avery to Monday morning.

Both Dep. Dist.-Atty. Hill, who will prosecute the case, and Morris Salzman, counsel for Roth, were in court prepared to begin the task of selecting a jury, but the delay was occasioned by the necessity of hearing arguments on motions for a new trial of Jack Ferdinand, John Sears and John Geregac, recently convicted of the murder of Charles A. Chapman.

Judge Avery stated it would take the greater part of the day to clear the calendar, hear the arguments and dispose of another case on trial, and opposing counsel agreed to the continuance.

Mr. Hill informed the court and Mr. Salzman that the prosecution had elected to try Roth first on the indictment charging him with the extortion of $400 from Arthur H. Sawyer, business manager of Barbara La Marr, film actress. The true bill accuses Roth of having taken this sum from Sawyer under threat that he, Roth, would cause to be published a story revealing an improper relationship between Miss La Marr and Sawyer.

The second indictment charges the attorney with the larceny by trick and device of several hundred dollars from Morgan Staples, a contractor, and Dorothy Hoagland. It is alleged Roth accepted the sums from the pair by means of representing to them that the money was necessary to prevent their arrest on indictments he is said to have told them were outstanding against them.

INSURANCE COMPANIES MAKE DEAL

Occidental Acquires All Stock in Great Northern of North Dakota

Announcement of the purchase by the Occidental Life Insurance Company of Los Angeles of the entire stock of the Great Northern Life Insurance Company of Grand Forks, N. D., was made yesterday by John W. Brooks, who acted as intermediary in the transaction. Mr. Brooks at present is organizing the Los Angeles Fire Assurance Company, a $2,000,000 organization.

The transaction whereby the local insurance company acquires the Great Northern firm is considered one of the most important insurance deals consummated in this country in recent years. The Great Northern Company will be merged with the Occidental, which will now extend its operations throughout the Middle West.

For many years the Great Northern Company has been known as one of the most conservative insurance firms operating in that section. Its business extended through North Dakota, Minnesota and Montana. The Occidental will succeed this firm in this territory and intends to carry on an aggressive campaign to extend the business throughout the Middle West. Mr. Brooks, who was principally responsible for the deal, previously had arranged the sale of two other Great Northern insurance companies, the first being the Great Northern Life Insurance Company of Warsaw, Wis., and the second was the Great Northern Fire Insurance Company of St. Paul, Minn.

Robert J. Giles, vice-president, secretary and general manager of the Occidental, is in Grand Forks with Mr. Brooks making the final arrangements for the future of the firm in that territory.

State Roster is Issued by Sons of Revolution

The 1924 roster of the Society, Sons of the Revolution in the State of California, containing the names of more than 1100 members and the towns and cities in which they live, made its appearence yesterday. The roster was printed by the Times-Mirror Company. It is beautifully illustrated and contains the portraits in color of all the Presidents of the United States from George Washington to Calvin Coolidge, with information about each.

It also contains the names of the men comprising the local committees of the society in the various cities and towns of the State and the names of the offices of the State organization. The Constitution and all the amendments and information about them is published in the back of the roster. 15 MILLION SECRET BALLOTS

(The First 107,145 Votes Are Tabulated in This Week's Literary Digest)

In a Nation-wide Poll

ON

TAX REDUCTION

Do You FAVOR The MELLON PLAN? OR Do You OPPOSE The MELLON PLAN?

THE LITERARY DIGEST, with the absolute impartiality which is now universally recognized as its unvarying policy, is mailing individual secret ballots to nearly 15 million men and women voters throughout the United States, that the desires and opinions of the people on this great issue may be known beyond question.

EVERY VOTE IS THE FREE, UNINFLUENCED, SECRET VERDICT OF THE VOTER, UNKNOWN TO ANYONE BUT HIMSELF OR HERSELF

THE DEMAND FOR TAX REDUCTION is the paramount issue before the country to-day. The only question in dispute is how to secure the reduction. Many plans have been proposed by various political groups or leaders, but attention has become focused upon one plan—the Mellon Plan.

The Mellon Plan reduces the taxes on all incomes in varying degrees; it provides that an earned income (salary, wages, professional services, etc.) shall not be taxed as highly as an income from stocks, bonds, etc. The so-called nuisance taxes, such as the moving-picture admission tax, the telephone tax and the telegraph tax, also are eliminated.

This measure, however, is not without strong opposition. An important fault with the plan, according to such leaders as William G. McAdoo, ex-Secretary of the Treasury, and Commander John R. Quinn of The American Legion, is that it excludes the soldiers' bonus, which they strongly believe should be paid, and which they claim can be paid without preventing some tax reduction.

On the other hand Secretary Mellon says it will be impossible to reduce taxes in this generation if we pay a bonus. President Coolidge also disapproves of a bonus in fact and principle, and has given unqualified support to the Mellon Plan.

DO YOU FAVOR THE MELLON PLAN FOR TAX REDUCTION OR NOT? Mark your Ballot and support your views.

ALL CLASSES OF VOTERS in all States and all communities in the Nation are being polled with complete impartiality. They include business men, merchants, farmers, manufacturers, railroad employees, bankers, clerks, builders, contractors, superintendents, managers, carpenters, plasterers, plumbers, painters, mechanics, printers, miners, steel-workers, workers in every trade and branch of industry, both union and non-union, professional men and women of all classes, including lawyers, doctors, clergymen, authors, actors, newspaper men, dentists, engineers, educators, architects, musicians, etc., in short, all parties and all the classes of men and women who make up the voting population in all parts of the country.

NO PROPAGANDA OF ANY KIND is connected with this great National Poll of the American people. The Literary Digest is always strictly non-partisan and impartial on all controversial questions. It records the facts and the opinions of all political parties and all classes. That is why it has come to be regarded by millions of Americans as the one representative and indispensable periodical record of all phases of American life.

SECRET BALLOT—No Signature—No Condition—No Obligation—Just Mark and Mail at Once

Do you favor the Mellon plan for Tax Reduction?
Secretary Mellon says his plan cannot be carried out if the Bonus to Ex-Service men is paid.

If you do favor the Mellon Plan mark a "X" under "Yes" — YES

If you oppose the Mellon Plan mark an X under "No" — NO

To assist in tabulation by States, please write the name of your State here:

EVERY WEEK FROM EVERY STATE IN THE UNION

The results will appear in THE LITERARY DIGEST. All the figures will be given in detail and will be analyzed and explained, State by State, until the poll is completed. DIGEST readers, of course, will get them first and in the most complete detail.

At the same time, and all through the year, THE LITERARY DIGEST will be gathering carefully and reporting all the facts and opinions on all sides bearing upon all the great problems and issues which are being discussed and which must be settled by the American people in this great Presidential Campaign. THE LITERARY DIGEST is wonderfully equipped for this service by a system built up at great expense through many years of careful work, and reaching into thousands of newspaper and periodical offices in all parts of the world. BROADWAY FUND ASSURED

Estimates Show Improvement Tax Receipts More Than Ample; Mayor Favors Proposal

Conservative estimates completed yesterday for the City Council's Finance Committee by Chief Accountant Francis Marshall of the City Auditor's office show that the city will have available for contributions toward public improvements of general benefit at least $1,980,942 during the next three years, and that the amount available during the next five years will be $3,652,884.

These contributions will be made from the public improvement fund created by the voters by a charter amendment under which there is automatically levied for the public improvement fund 6 cents on each $100 property valuation in the city.

TENTH-STREET PLEDGE

The principal contribution from this fund pledged since the fund was created was $1,500,000 for the opening and widening of Tenth street, but this money will not be required for three or four years. A proposed contribution of $800,000 for the opening of Broadway from Pico street to Forty-first street will be more than possible, according to the data prepared by Chief Accountant Marshall, showing that at the end of the five-year period the amount in the public improvement fund will be at least $3,652,884. ¶These contributions from the public improvement fund reduce the cost to the property owners in the improvement assessment district.

EXPECT FAVORABLE REPORT

The City Council's Finance Committee at its meeting next Monday afternoon will consider the data prepared by Chief Accountant Marshall and is expected to report favorably upon the allocation from the fund of $500,000 toward the Broadway opening.

With this report in hand, the Council is expected to adopt a new ordinance of intention for the Broadway opening, including a contribution of $500,000 from the public improvement fund.

Mayor Cryer said yesterday that he hoped that the Council would take this action, as the opening of Broadway was a public improvement of great general benefit, and would create a much-needed north-and-south traffic artery. The Mayor said he would approve the new ordinance.

LIE DETECTOR TRAPS MAN

William Anderson Confesses Bank Robbery When Alibi Story Is Broken Down by Apparatus

His story broken down by the lie detector, William M. Anderson confessed yesterday to the robbery of the West Adams branch of the Security Trust and Savings Bank, according to Captain of Detectives Home. Capt. Home reported to Chief Vollmer that he regarded the lie detector as a valuable aid to practical police work and urged its purchase and installation in the detective bureau.

In his asserted confession Anderson said he drove his car to Adams and Halldale streets Wednesday, parked it and had a cup of coffee while he made up his mind whether to rob the bank or not. Then he walked into the bank and waited there five or ten minutes until it was clear of customers; then he walked over and presented the note demanding $1500 to Assistant Manager Sippelle.

Anderson, according to Capt. Home, said he drove to Hollywood and then to Glendale, after shaking off the pursuit of Louis Buelna of 1639 West Twenty-fourth street, who followed him on a bicycle. He went to a Glendale picture show, the asserted confession says, then back to Los Angeles and called up his sister-in-law, Miss Victorine Fanning, at the Oviatt Hotel. He told of giving her the proceeds of the robbery, and said, according to the police, he then disposed of the pistol used in the robbery by throwing it in a fence corner at 734 South Olive street.

The police say they found the weapon there, and that Anderson identified it. Miss Fanning told the police on Thursday of getting the money from Anderson and of burning it for fear of arrest.

Anderson said the robbery was his first crime, according to Capt. Home, and declared he had no accomplices.

Radio Outfits Now Coveted by Porch Climbers

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—Burglars now are passing up jewels and money and devoting their talents to stealing costly radio sets and, of course, high priced liquors. But the theft of radio sets is the newest development in crime and has become so extensive that insurance companies are demanding better police protection. In Rogers Park and Summerdale districts alone more than 100 sets have been stolen in the last month.

The thieves are discriminating. They waste no time on cheap sets, but specialize on the outfits running into large money. In one case a platinum wrist watch and diamond studded platinum brooch were within reach of the radio set, but were not touched. The jewels could have been carried in a vest pocket, while the radio set weighed fifty pounds. One man who lost a costly set, desires to shake hands with the thief as a public benefactor. He said he had become a "radio bug," his wife had begun divorce action and his family was estranged. Since he lost his outfit all these troubles have been ironed out and he will not buy another.

ILLNESS OF WILSON SENDS WALLACE BACK

Hugh C. Wallace, former United States Ambassador to France, and his wife left last night for Washington, their departure prompted by the illness of former President Wilson. They had intended to remain here for some time, but cut short their visit when they learned of the former President's serious condition. They were guests at the Biltmore.

Won by Fraud Asserts Bride; Gets Freedom

Harry M. Taylor drew his self-constituted honesty about him like a cloak and proceeded to win the hand of a bride. The bride, Mrs. Bonnie Taylor, appeared before Judge Summerfield yesterday to recount the incident of her two weeks of married life which she said proved Taylor to be a fit candidate for the Ananias Club.

"I knew him nine months before we were married," she said, "and all the time he talked about his honesty. He told me he had a bank account, owned a house and a car. Then I learned he hadn't a nickel. Still I believed him. Then I discovered someone else owned the house, and then the auto company took the car away from him because he evaded payments. Then I left him."

She was granted an annulment on the grounds of fraud.

"An honest man," Judge Summerfield told her, "doesn't have to advertise the fact. Be more careful the next time."

Santa Monica Plea Is Upheld in Riley Suit

In sustaining a demurrer entered by the city of Santa Monica to a suit filed by Clarence J. Riley, Judge Guerin yesterday cleared the way for a campaign for improvements in the beach city.

Riley asserted the vote of two of the City Trustees in the absence of a third was illegal, and based his suit on those grounds.

PLEADS FOR HORSE

Councilman Asks Funds to Start Bridle-Path System

Councilman Miles Gregory, who has been for many years an admirer of horses, yesterday introduced a resolution into the City Council paying the way for the building of bridle paths in city parks and boulevards. The resolution, which was adopted, was in part as follows:

"Resolved, that the park department of the city of Los Angeles be requested to present to this Council, to be considered in connection with the next budget, a proper and adequate program for the construction of equestrian ways or roads through the various city parks and along certain roads and highways of the city where it would be proper for such roads or ways to be placed."

SCORES OF JUDGMENTS QUESTIONED

Judge York Declares Many Orders Signed by Miss O'Keefe Are Invalid

A question as to the validity of hundreds of judgments of the Superior Court yesterday engaged the attention of the Los Angeles judiciary, when Presiding Judge York took the stand that many orders, signed during the year 1923 by Miss Ann O'Keefe, former Superior Court commissioner, are not legally binding.

Miss O'Keefe was appointed commissioner by Judge Crail, who was presiding judge last year. The law holds that commissioners may be named to sign orders in the "absence or inability" of the court. The press of business during Judge Crail's term in the presiding court was such that he delegated to Miss O'Keefe the duty of looking over certain papers brought to the court by attorneys. These were mainly ex-parte matters and divorce cases. Defaults entered in these cases are now coming before Judge York and he has refused to enter any judgments.

Miss O'Keefe's orders, it is believed, will be submitted on a test case. In the event that they are ruled as invalid attorneys in many cases will be forced to begin litigation over again. Judge Crail has stated that if the cases are transferred to his department he will sign them himself, to which Judge York gave his assent.

Miss O'Keefe, who is rated as a court clerk, has also been admitted to the bar to practice law. Judge York is now signing all his own orders.

NOAKS CASE WITNESS IS ARRAIGNED

Charges Followed Her Testimony at Hearing on Embezzlement

A plea of not guilty was entered yesterday by Lenora Wing, principal witness against R. H. L. Noaks, asserted embezzler, when she was arraigned before Police Judge Pope on a charge of violating the city rooming-house ordinance. The court set the woman's trial for next Wednesday morning.

The woman's arrest followed testimony which she gave during the preliminary hearing of Noaks in Justice Hanby's court. She admitted having been intimate with the asserted embezzler, and told of numerous parties which she had attended with him during the time she knew him. She testified that he had spent large sums on her, the money for her entertainment being provided by Noaks's asserted victims. This testimony caused Lottie Noakes, wife of the accused man, to swear out a complaint against the girl and her husband, charging them with registering at various hotels and rooming-houses as man and wife.

While Miss Wing was facing Judge Pope the concluding touches were given to the case against Noaks. At the conclusion of the hearing yesterday Justice Hanby held Noaks for trial in the Superior Court. His bail was increased from $2500 to $10,000, there being twenty-four counts in the complaint against him.

MAN NAMES BOARDER IN HIS COUNTER-SUIT

A boarder who came to their home to live twelve days after their marriage was celebrated was the cause of their separation, S. E. Jennings asserted yesterday in a cross-complaint he filed to a divorce action brought against him by Margarette Jennings. According to the husband, Gardner E. Bortle, the boarder named in the counter-suit, was a former suitor of Mrs. Jennings, and came to the Jennings home with the bride's consent. A dispute said to have arisen over Bortle was declared to have finally caused Jennings and his wife to separate.

BELIEVED MEMBER Of BARRETT GANG

Believed by the harbor police to be a member of the robbery and burglary gang headed by J. L. Barrett, confessed hold-up man and narcotic trafficker, F. D. Milligan, 21 years of age, was arrested at Los Angeles Harbor yesterday on a grand larceny charge by Detectives Jackson and Fuller. Milligan, according to the police, is wanted at Oklahoma City for alleged automobile thefts. He was arrested after being unable to explain to the satisfaction of the police where he obtained an automobile which he had left at a harbor garage for extensive repairs. Milligan told Jackson and Fuller, however, that he had driven the car here from Oklahoma.

KEYES CLAMPS LID ON SLOT MACHINES

Slot machines, which are operated in violation of the State anti-gambling law, will be seized by county authorities today if in operation, it was stated yesterday by Dist.-Atty. Keyes and Sheriff Traeger. Mr. Keyes informed the Sheriff that practically all of slot machines, except where a definite article is received for money paid, are in violation of law. The District Attorney asked that beginning today all such machines be seized and the owners arrested. The information was handed to Chief Criminal Deputy Wright, who stated that his deputies would be instructed to start operations at once.

PROBATION PLEA DENIED

John Ginanello, convicted of first-degree robbery, was denied an application for probation yesterday by Judge Moncur, sitting in Judge Reeve's court. He was sentenced to San Quentin prison for from five years to life. Notice of appeal was filed in court.

POLICE NAB NINE IN LOTTERY GAME RAID

ONE DRAWS FINE ON WRIGHT ACT CHARGE; OTHERS PLAN FIGHT

In spite of threats muttered by a crowd of negroes gathered outside of an asserted lottery game at 2110 Hooper Avenue early yesterday, a squad of University police arrested nine negroes and lodged them in jail on various charges.

James Merritt, 39 years of age, is charged with conducting the game; D. L. Perry, who is said to have had a gallon of wine in his possession, is charged with violation of the Wright Act while seven others are held as participants in the game. Perry pleaded guilty before Police Judge Sheldon and was fined $130. Merritt and the others entered pleas of not guilty and asked for a jury trial. Trial will be set in Police Judge Frederickson's court today.

The house where the arrests were made has figured in police activities before, it was said, and at one time was the scene of a narrow escape from death by shooting of Officer Robert Evans. Evans was shot three times while attempting to arrest several negroes, it was declared. The raid was conducted by Officers Reavis, Ledbetter, Casey and Whaley of University Division.

SHOWDOWN ON VALHALLA PARK

Investors Are Paving Way for Legal Fight

Pertinent Questions Asked State Commissioner

Action to be Discussed at Mass Meeting

Moving for what virtually means a showdown on the Valhalla Memorial Park project, a proposed cemetery near Burbank in which more than 4000 people have invested a huge sum of money, the committee representing the Section Buyers' Union met yesterday and drafted a set of questions that will be presented to Edwin T. Keiser, State Real Estate Commissioner, for answer.

Containing the first threat of legal action in the case, Bogue & Pierson, legal advisers of the committee, also addressed a communication to the Real Estate Commissioner. It is understood that Keiser is not in Los Angeles at present, and is not expected back until the 9th inst., but his deputy, Mr. Sanborn, Attorney Bogue announced at the committee meeting, held in the lawyer's offices in the Van Nuys Building, assured him that if the matter was considered of sufficient importance, it would be brought to Keiser's attention before that official returned to Los Angeles. Keiser was said to be in Sacramento.

LETTER TO OFFICIAL

The letter signed by the committee and addressed to the Real Estate Commissioner follows:

A certain project known as the Valhalla Memorial Park is being promoted by the Osborn-Fitzpatrick Syndicate, and many thousands of citizens have purchased sections or burial plots in the proposed cemetery. A great many of said buyers claim that false and fraudulent representations were made them when they purchased said sections or burial plots.

It is reported that, at a mass meeting of section buyers a few days ago, there were more than 1000 persons present and that all seemed to agree that the promoters represented to said buyers, through their agents, that their sections would be resold on or before September 1, 1923, at a greatly advanced price over the purchase price. Many people, the majority of whom appear to be widows and women of no investment experience, have placed their savings in the project, with no means of continuing payments subsequent to September 1, 1923.

TELL OF UNION

A union or protective association of section buyers has been organized and has appointed the undersigned committee to investigate the matter and report back to a mass meeting to be held some time in the near future in Los Angeles. It is understood by the committee that this project is under your supervision, at least to a certain extent, and that you have made investigations regarding it. Therefore, the committee respectfully requests that answers to the following questions be immediately given, to the end that intelligent action to conserve the interests of the investors in said proposition may be taken:

To what extent is the Valhalla Memorial Park project under your supervision as Real Estate Commissioner?

Has any plan for the development of the project been submitted to you for your approval or for any other purpose?

When was the plan submitted, if at all, and do you know whether or not the project is being carried on in accordance with said plan?

Have you authority to audit and inspect the books of the promoters of said project and to inquire into the progress of the same?

Will you immediately make such an audit, inspection and inquiry and hold data thus obtained available to investors in said project?

REGARDING PAYMENTS

From information on file in your office and from your general knowledge of the project would you advise section buyers who purchased on the installment plan to continue making payments?

Do you desire citizens who claim that false and fradulent representations were made by agents of the promoters in the sale of said property to visit your office for the purpose of verifying complaints against said promoters and agents or for any other reason?

What is your opinion of the project in general?

The letter dispatched to Keiser by Bogue & Pierson is as follows:

We have been retained by the committee appointed by the Section Buyers' Union, composed of section buyers in Valhalla Park, to assist in conducting an inquiry into the affairs of said concern. It is our understanding that you have important information pertinent to the project and therefore we have formulated certain questions which have been signed by the committee, a copy of which is inclosed herewith.

SUPPORT NECESSARY

It is our opinion and the sense of the committee that if the project is being conducted in an honest, straightfordward manner it should not be interfered with, but on the contrary should be given the whole-hearted support of the section buyers.

On the other hand, if investigation discloses fraud and misrepresentation, either in the sale of said property or in the application of the funds received therefor, we intend to proceed at once in the institution of court action looking to the protection of said section buyers.

Following the drafting of the letters to Keiser the committee left by automobile for an inspection of the work being done at the cemetery, improvements on which the Osborne-Fitzpatrick Company have promised to the extent of several hundred thousand dollars, but which are said by investors to be but slowly making their appearance. Action also was taken at the meeting to obtain a hall large enough to seat more than 1000 persons in which to hold the next meeting, when the committee will make its report to the section buyers.

CIGAR STUBS ORPHAN COURT

Violation of Anti-Tobacco Agreement Closes Doors of Church to Law; Sessions Homeless

The question as to who spit the tobacco juice on the steps of the Broadway Christian Church has raised a sensation in court circles, and has again brought down trouble on the gray head of Supervisor J. H. Bean.

Los Angeles has too many courts for its buildings. In the interests of justice the trustees of the church, which is opposite the Courthouse, agreed to allow three extra sessions to be housed in the church building. It was stipulated, however, that no scandalous matter be heard and that smoking and chewing should be barred.

JUDGE TURNED OUT

But the persistent addicts of the pleasant weed cared not for the stipulations entered into between church and State. The spectators spat lusciously great globules of brown liquor, and hurled their cigar stumps on the steps and in the corridors. A bailiff was been constantly on duty seeking to enforce the antitobacco injunctions, but without avail.

Church members Sunday found the Sunday-school rooms and the pastor's study resembling more a courtroom than a church, and forthwith Presiding Judge York was served with a notice that he would have to move his courts. The judge went to Supervisor Bean with the plaint.

INTO THE SUNKISSED WORLD

Mr. Bean is in the situation of the old woman who lived in a shoe. He has his courts but nowhere to put them. He doesn't know when he must leave the church, but he says it will be too soon. At present carpenters are at work fitting up the old justice courts on the ground floor of the Courthouse, but it will be some time before the rooms are ready.

It may even come to the point where the Honorable Court of Los Angeles county will assemble under the waving palms on the Courthouse back lot.

CONTEMPT CHARGED TO PROSECUTOR

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Burke and Judge in Court Wrangle; Sentence Monday

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Burke was held in contempt of court yesterday by Judge Walton J. Wood of Superior Court after he had repeatedly failed to interpose objections during the progress of the trial of Elphie Imbler, accused of criminally assaulting Hazel Jackson, 18 years of age.

The show of temper on the part of the prosecutor came after he had been unceremoniously squelched by the court. Mr. Burke had repeatedly objected to questions propounded by defense attorneys to Miss Jackson. The court overruled them and Mr. Burke, thoroughly angry, assailed the manner in which the trial was being conducted.

Judge Wood took exception to the prosecutor's remarks in this connection and told him he was there to prosecute and not to instruct the court in its duties.

Thereupon Mr. Burke sat down and became a more or less passive spectator. Finally Judge Wood asked him if he did not desire to enter objections to some of the questions put to Miss Jackson.

"I'll prosecute this case according to law," was Mr. Burke's reply.

As the case progressed the court again asked the prosecutor if he had no objections to make and received the same reply. The same questions and answers were bandied back and forth between judge and prosecutor a number of times.

Judge Wood, himself incensed, finally stopped the trial and adjourned court for ten minutes and retired to his chambers. At the end of that time he resumed the bench and again asked the prosecutor if he would or would not make his objections at the proper time.

"I'll prosecute this case according to law," was the answer again.

"Well, I find you guilty of contempt of court and will sentence you Monday," Judge Wood stated.

Mr. Burke then asked the court if he should continue with the case and Judge Wood replied that since he was the people's representative he had no other alternative.

Subpoenas Out in Action Filed by Driving Club

As the result of legal action recently revived by the Los Angeles Driving Club against the Sixth Agricultural District, the city of Los Angeles and the county of Los Angeles, these governmental units, as represented by their officials, have been summoned to appear before Superior Court Judge York the 17th inst. at 10 a.m., to show cause why they should not be restrained from interfering with the use of the Exposition Park race track by members of the club.

The club says it still has an interest in the property which was under its control prior to the formation of the Sixth Agricultural District.

More Arrests During January Than December

The vice squad made 1076 arrests in January, according to a report yesterday to Chief Vollmer, an increase of 400 over the arrests for December. Lottery law violators numbered 364; there were 272 arrests for liquor law violations, 190 for gambling and 173 for vagrancy and social charges. The remainder of the arrests were on miscellaneous charges. Cash fines and forfeitures amounting to $41,255 were collected during January as a result of vice squad activities; in December the amount was $27,295.

SEED RULING GIVEN

Court Holds Catalog Sales Carry Implied Warranty

Seeds supplied to a grower on order, according to a specific catalog identification, are said with an implied warrant that they are as represented, despite a note elsewhere in the catalog that orders are taken on a nonwarranty basis, according to a decision of the State Supreme Court.

The case is that of Ben Miller against the Germain Seed and Plant Company. Miller, the evidence shows, ordered a quantity of celery seed known as Golden Yellow California Stock. When the celery had been grown and attempts had been made to bleach it, it was found that the seed had been a variety known as Green Celery Seed, and plaintiff alleged that there was no way for him to discover the difference prior to that time.

He asked damages of $17,900, and a lower court jury awarded him $4000, which verdict is now upheld. The decision was signed by Justice Seawell with Justice Lawlor concurring.

NORTHLAND OUT TO GET TRAVELERS

Representative Here Says Southland Best Place to Find Tourists

Better facilities than ever before for summer tourist travel along the North Pacific Coast are being provided this year, and it is expected that last year's record of almost 300,000 automobile visitors will be far excelled. This was the message brought here yesterday by Oliver Hollingsworth, representative of the Victoria publicity bureau, who arrived to plan an extensive advertising campaign in Southern California.

"This is the logical place to advertise for summer visitors," said Mr. Hollingsworth. "Los Angeles is the clearinghouse for tourists from all over the world, and the five Puget Sound cities, recognizing this fact, have decided to concentrate most of their advertising effort in Southern California."

These cities are Seattle, Bellingham, Tacoma, Vancouver and Victoria.

Mr. Hollingsworth said that the Coast highway was now entirely paved, with the exception of a short stretch in Northern California, there being 1400 miles of fine pavement between Vancouver and the Mexican border. An additional automobile ferry to Vancouver Island is to be put in service this summer, from Port Angeles to Victoria. This gives three automobile ferries, the others being from Bellingham and Anacortes.

"These ferries are equipped to carry from fifty to sixty machines each," he said, "and the service is excellent."

Mr. Hollingsworth, who is making his headquarters at the office of the Pacific Steamship Company on Spring street, said he wanted to emphasize that there is no red tape at the international boundary. Each tourist, he said, is given a thirty-day free touring privilege.

FLOAT FLAG AT HISTORIC SITE IN CITY

(Illustration on Picture Page)

Memories of old Fort Moore, where Gen. Fremont once had his headquarters and under which now passes the Broadway tunnel, were recalled yesterday when the National Society of the Daughters of 1812, California Chapter, conducted a flag-raising at 10 a.m. on the historic spot where the famous general won a victory over the Mexican army.

The Daughters of 1812, who have been made custodians of the flagpole by the city, have kept a flag waving there for many years. Recently it became necessary to replace the flag and yesterday's ceremonies were arranged.

Representatives of the society, assisted by children and teachers from the Hill-street Development School, participated in the raising of the flag. Miss Maisie M. Van De Grift, custodian of the flag; Mrs. A. G. Castles and Mrs. R. G. Rhodes, both former presidents of the society, had charge of the ceremonies.

Harbor Cable to be Discussed at Parley Tuesday

In an effort to reach an agreement as to the depth of submarine cables crossing the main channel at Los Angeles Harbor for the purpose of supplying electric energy to Terminal Island, members of the harbor board and the Department of Public Service will meet Tuesday afternoon in the harbor engineer's office.

The joint meeting was planned yesterday when President Del Valle of the Department of Public Service entered a protest before the Harbor board to objections that had been made by Harbor Engineer Ludlow to the plan of the Bureau of Power and Light to place four cables on the harbor bottom near the entrance to the West Basin.

Mr. Ludlow objected to the placing of the power cables on the bottom of the main channel on the ground that they would be broken by ships and start wharf fires, and that if broken by ships forced to drop anchors, damage actions might result. The engineer suggested that the cables be buried ten feet below the harbor bottom.

In his statement to the harbor board Mr. Del Valle said other utility companies had been allowed to lay cables on the channel bottom, and asserted that the Bureau of Power and Light should be allowed to do likewise. He declared Mr. Ludlow's objections were not well taken and should be reversed by the harbor board.

Following the discussion, it was agreed that all parties interested should appear before the harbor board next Tuesday and an effort be made to settle the controversy.

An increase in the personnel of the publicity department of the advertising agency of Hammel-Suphen & Porter, Inc., was announced yesterday when it was stated that Clarke Van Benthuysen, formerly engaged in newspaper and publicity work here, has joined the staff of writers.

PACIFIC LIFE HEAD HOST TO WORKERS

George I. Cochran, president of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company, was host at the Biltmore last night to 400 men from the "home office," known as the John Russell Newton agency. He complimented them for establishing a world's record in the sale of life insurance. The dinner and dance were in appreciation of this record. The local agency collected premiums on nearly $27,000,000 of new business in 1923, the largest ever made by any agency it is said, population and territory considered. Mr. Cochran made a congratulatory speech, and the response was given by John Henry Russell, associate manager of the agency.

MORIZ ROSENTHAL SHOWS POWER OF TECHNIQUE

By Edwin Schallert

Another canopy of magnificence in the art of piano playing was unfurled last night at Philharmonic Auditorium. This time it was Moriz Rosenthal, following Vladimir de Pachmann, and he came before his audience not as a suave and soothing interpreter, but as a prodigious and, at times, veritably violent master of tone.

They used to say of Rosenthal, I believe, that he would almost break an ordinary piano in two, and that they had to have one especially built for him with reinforced strings. But that was yesteryear, and his technique and his touch have since then acquired many nuances that are, at least, somewhat subdued.

Grand is his playing, there is no doubt of that. Glorious in what he overcomes of difficulties, and offers of novelty in repertoire. A splendid example was the Ballade in F minor by Chopin, which while it has its drawbacks of popular appeal, as given by him is nevertheless one of the deepest and most metaphysical of the Polish composer's numbers, and the hearings of it are exceedingly rare. It is not adapted to the more brilliant qualities of the Rosenthal style, but it has character especially in the technically difficult passages at it came from facile and masterly fingers.

The peaks of interest in the program were the Chopin etudes, which Rosenthal tossed off with a supreme vigor. Great fireworks of technique, these. The study in thirds was so that the audience would not rest until it was repeated, and he had to do several more etudes besides the three on the program.

The Chopin group was most enthusiastically encored, and for one of the numbers, in response, Rosenthal played the "Minute" waltz in the arrangement in thirds, with plenty of fioritura work in the middle section for good measure. This is a challenge to art in behalf of technique, but it is an exciting one, and therefore it has its attraction.

The Beethoven Sonata, Opus 57, "Appassionata" was played by Rosenthal with a trifle too much heaviness of tone, but it was a wonderful rendition in the clarity and vibrancy of the themes and the cadenzas. The Carneval, by Schumann, was also a revelation of the brilliancies of the Rosenthal style, given with a view of its broader musical values. An Etude, by Scriabine, and the Humoreske on Themes of Johann Strauss, by himself, provided an interesting close to the very fascinating Rosenthal concert.

LEGINSKA CHARMS, ENSEMBLE CONCERT

A program of music which ranged in its diversification from the staid and stately classic to superbly mad ultra-modern was offered last evening at Gamut Club by the Los Angeles Chamber Music Society. Ethel Leginska, unique and fascinating among pianists, was the guest artist. A large house greeted the performance.

The performance opened with Beethoven Sonata Opus 26 and "Rondo a Capriccio," Opus 129, were the numbers offered. These solos by Mme. Leginska were rendered with poise, authority and beauty of tone and quality.

Following this there was a lovely rendition of the graceful String Quartet in G by Mozart, performed by the Philharmonic Quartet, of which Sylvain Noack and Henri Svedrofsky, violinists, Emil Ferir, violinist, and Ilya Bronson, violoncellist, form the capable personnel.

Mme. Leginska is quite another musician in her rendition of her own compositions, all of which are written in the futuristic vein. She paints with colors of flashing vividness and hypnotic, scintillance. "The Gargoyles of Notre Dame" is an impression in tone of the great monastery; a picture at night, when the fog hangs over the arabesques, giving them peculiar shapes, so that they almost become oddly alive; one imagines the tones of the great bells and a strange mood haunts.

"The Dance of the Little Clown" is a bit of comic tragedy burlesquery. A clever bit of modern counterpoint is her "Cradle Song." Stiff-legged, but not without a sparkle and a bit of mechanical life, the "Dance of a Puppet" brought down the house. The etching, "At Night," has a note of inevitableness about it, and of hopelessness; it is a perfect mood-impression.

The last number, "Scherzo after a poem, by Tagore," is drunken music; music which kicks, and laughs hollowly, dully, hectically. An odd number, which leaves one somehow with that same feeling which one has after reading Omar Khayyam's "Ruaiyat."

If Mme. Leginska writes in the modern style, with dischord harmony so thick that consonance finally seems dissonance, she at least succeeds in interesting and intriguing the imagination. It is a case of art, great in its way, being hidden within even the ugly.

The final number, in which Mme. Leginska played the piano part, was the Brahms quintet for piano and strings. It was splendidly interpreted, and with this following the moderns, it showed the little English pianist an artist of great versatility. She possesses a fine sense of balance, blending her instrument with the strings with rare intuition.

Heightens Gayety of Song and Dance

Margaret Young

MUSIC SCORE SAME TEMPO AS PICTURE

Jan Sofer, conductor of the orchestra at Grauman's Rialto, has successfully kept his music score that accompanies "The Marriage Circle," in the same melodic tempo which characterizes the picture. The drama has the background of Vienna and Mr. Sofer introduces many luring melodies that typify the gayety and charm of this colorful city.

The opening scenes of "The Marriage Circle" are set to the illuminating music of "Villa," and sweeps into several songs by Victor Hollaender, "Laces and Graces" follow. Mizzi, the bewitching but flirtatious wife who stirs the plot into swift action. In scenes between Dr. Braun and his wife, "Love is Free" is played, while an original composition by Mr. Sofer describes the performance of Gustav Mueller.

The entire score is a well-knit and well-developed operatic arrangement which adds greatly to the enjoyment of the photoplay.

TALLY'S MEMBER OF WEST COAST CHAIN

A deal was closed last evening between the executive commitee of West Coast Theaters, Inc., and T. L. Tally, whereby Tally's Broadway Theater becomes affiliated with the West Coast chain, going under the direction of that organization today.

The consummation of the deal follows several weeks of negotiations for another Broadway theater suitable for the presentation of outstanding First National and Metro successes which have necessitated a change in policy at Loew's State Theater recently. Owing to the success of "Black Oxen," which last evening closed a two-week run at Loew's State Theater, the picture will be moved to Tally's Broadway, where it opens today.

SAFECRACKER'S HOME LIFE COMEDY'S THEME

Director Harold Beaudine has begun filming a Christie comedy which concerns the home-life of a safecracker, as visualized by Christie's prolific scenario department.

Jimmie Adams is the featured comedian and the supporting cast is made up of Vera Steadman, Lincoln Plumer and Eddie Baker. The latter has returned to the Christie studio after completing a long-term contract with the Hal Roach organization. Eddie's festive eyebrows and bulging muscles are working overtime in a villainous characterization in support of Adams.

DOUBLE BILL ON AT CLUNE'S THIS WEEK

The Clune-Broadway Theater will offer a double program this week. In addition to the dramatic offering "The Land of Whispering Hope," a comedy of feature proportions will also be presented. This is "Breaking Into Society" with Bull Montana as the bright and shining light and Chuck Reisner, who now has a comedy producing company of his own, his chief aid in merry-making. The story is a clever satire with many surprising twists, but is not above some slap-stick action which adds to the continuous ripple of chuckles and hearty laughs.

ATHLETICS FINE FOR COMPLEXION

"Athletics beat cosmetics."

This is the advice of Virginia Valli, star of "A Lady of Quality," the Universal Jewel production which will be given its premieme showing at the Mission Theater Monday. The pretty star gives the advice to girls seeking a royal road to beauty. Miss Valli is an ardent disciple of physical culture, and especially classic dancing. Exercise, she says, is her only make-up except when under the lights at the studio.

"A Lady of Quality," was directed by Hobart Henley, and features Milton Sills with Earl Foxe, Lionel Belmore, Peggy Cartwright, Margaret Seddon, Bert Roach and others.

A sparkling comedy and a beautiful music score will go to fill out the program.

FLASHES

THREE CHARMERS

RUDY VALENTINO TO HAVE GROUP OF BEAUTIES

By Grace Kingsley

It is hardly to be expected, now is it, that anybody playing a gallant in the times of Louis XV should have fewer than three beautiful ladies in his life? Especially when that gallant is being played by Rodolph Valentino.

Wherefore, you surely aren't a bit surprised to learn that three feminine stars are to be included in the feminine contingent of Booth Tarkington's "Monsieur Beaucaire." Valentino has been spending a lot of time at the Long Island studios, and plans are now finished for beginning work on the picture, which Sidney Olcott is to direct, from the scenario by Forrest Halsey.

The three feminine stars who will appear with Valentino are Bebe Daniels, Lois Wilson and Helene Chadwick. Miss Daniels will play the role of the Princess De Bourbon-Conti; Lois Wilson is to be the wife of Louis XV; Marie Lee Czynaka and the Lady Mary Carlisle will be played by Helene Chadwick.

Sumptuous sets are being built at the Long Island studios of Famous Players-Lasky. Several months are to be spent in the making of the picture, which is to be one of the most elaborate which the company has made in some time.

Booth Tarkington himself is to take a trip to New York to aid in putting his story on the screen.

MME. NAZIMOVA HAS HANDSOME NEW HOME

Mme. Alla Nazimova, Orpheum star, is building herself a handsome new residence. The house is a fifteen-room concrete structure, and is being erected immediately in the rear of her old home at 5050 Sunset Boulevard. She intends to take possession in about two weeks.

If you think that all Mme. Nazimova can do is act, you have another think coming. For Mme. Nazimova not only drew the plans for her home, but she is actually aiding in its construction, doing some of the painting herself, in order, she says, to be sure that the tints are exactly what she wants. She studied architecture at one time, and could have a career as architect, builder and designer if she wished.

The house is a harmonious composite of Spanish, Russian and Italian architecture. The first floor is almost entirely given over to garage space, and the entrance to each separate garage is through a Spanish archway, giving it a quaint and cloistered aspect. A guest suite on this floor has a separate entrance and a private garden, so that a visiter may follow his or her own devices in the way of diversion. An immense living-room takes up a large part of the second floor and divides the bedroom suites. The third floor is given over to the servants' quarters. Pleasing and attractive as the structure is, its main charm lies in the unique and daring color scheme of the interior. Mme. Nazimova's own suite is in soft Chinese yellow with touches of black and jade-green, and opening from her bedroom is a bathroom which reminds one of Arabian Night's descriptions of magic palaces. This bathroom has a black marble floor, a black marble bathtub, and jade-green walls above black tile. The spacious living-room has walls of a neutral, earthy tint, but the furnishings and decorations for this room are all to be in Chinese red lacquer. In fact, the entire interior color scheme is Chinese.

"No other people except the Chinese," declared Madame Nazimova, "know the occult secret of color combinations. With moderns it is a lost art. Therefore I have gone back to the race which has preserved some of its mystical teachings in its theories of color vibration. For color, you see, has a tremendous effect on our lives and emotions."

Ample space has been provided also for Mme. Nazimova's two dogs and her many birds, of which she is very fond.

Mme. Nazimova actually aided in building the house.

"The thing I like best about my home, outside of its color," said Mme. Nazimova, "it is unmodern look. I could not get the carpenters and the plasterers to make the rounded lines and give the time-worn look that I wanted. So I just dug into the cement with my own hands, and, much to their dismay, obliterated some of their straight, angular lines."

Wants to Wear Clothes

Jacqueline Logan says she is awfully tired of playing raggedy Ann parts, such as those in "The Dawn of a Tomorrow," and "The Light That Failed," and so she. Mary O'Connor, head of the editorial department at the Lasky Studio, and George Melford, her director, are looking earnestly about for a story for the young lady which shall provide a repertoire of beautiful gowns.

William Fox to Visit

William J. Fox, president of the Fox Film Corporation, is to arrive here from New York next Wednesday. He will at once proceed to get ready for the breaking of ground for the new Fox studio to be built at Westwood.

VAUDEVILLE A FINE TRAINING SCHOOL

"Vaudeville is the university whose graduates today fill the front ranks in musical comedy, the drama and the opera," declares Belle Baker, who is coming to the Hillstreet next week.

"And what is more," continues Miss Baker, "the wise stars more and more return to the two-a-day between runs of their various productions to keep the peculiar punch and verve which is the trade-mark of vaudeville.

"Take Fred Stone, Elsie Janis, Irene Franklin, Al Jolson, Florence Reed, George M. Cohan, Gus Edwards, Van and Schenck, Doyle and Dixon, the Duncan Sisters, Sawyer and Santley—run down the list of any of the women who have scored on Broadway in musical comedy, and you will find that they have learned their methods in the school of the two-a-day, and frequently return for post-graduate courses."

A RARE OPPORTUNITY

I own 320 acres of oil land in absolutely proven territory in Kern Co., Calif., and can deliver all or any part of it in fee and free from encumbrances.

You can stand on this land and count several hundred producing oil wells. In fact, these wells are right up to within a stone's throw of my section line.

No question about oil. It is there for the drilling.

Now I want to meet a real live promoter with $15,000 cash and the organization intact. You will be the boss and have charge of all funds.

A chance to make $200,000 in ninety days and more than a million within a year. It is just a real good clean proposition carrying with it an opportunity for the right man to get in on practically a cuff.

Come prepared to prove to me first that you have the money and ability or no interview.

ARSON SUSPECT TAKES OWN LIFE

Owner of Burned Buildings Cuts His Throat

Investigators Blamed Fire to Incendiarism

Insurance Totally Covered Inventory of Stock

LYNDONVILLE (Vt.) Feb. 1.—Albert Stern, owner of the business block in which seven persons lost their lives when the business section of the town was swept by fire, escaped the law by taking his own life.

Fifteen minutes after Stern had been questioned by State Fire Marshal A. G. Preble, and when the net was being rapidly tightened about him, his lifeless body, his throat slashed from ear to ear, was found in the bathroom of his boarding house, just across the street from the pyre where Monday's victims gave up their lives.

FOLLOWS EXPLOSION

A terrific explosion occurred in the Stern building, just a few moments before the fire. Two women, three children and a man were killed in their apartments by this explosion. Another woman was killed when she jumped from a third-floor window.

Suspicion rested on Stern. Fire Marshal Preble investigated and found that Stern had his stock insured for $15,000, the exact amount of the store's inventory.

The merchant was unable to account for his whereabouts between 9:15 and 10:45 o'clock. The fire broke out at 11 o'clock.

Stern was in his store ten minutes before the fire broke out. The marshal had evidence of this fact and Stern admitted it. He would not tell, however, where he was during the hour and a half intervening between the time he closed his store and the time he returned to the building, ten minutes before the fire was discovered.

STERN AFRAID

During the examination Stern was nervous and ill at ease. He appeared like a man stalked by some unseen danger.

Marshal Preble finally announced that he would return to Lyndonville and continue the probe of the fire. He told Stern there would be a further investigation.

SCHOOL JANITOR GETS SURPRISE

Phosphorous on Floor Fires Broom as He Sweeps in Laboratory

PORTERVILLE, Feb. 1. The strong-armed janitor of Porterville Union High School has prided himself on his work, but now considers that he has proof of the vigor with which he wields a broom. While sweeping the Chemistry Laboratory recently his broom suddenly burst into flames.

He is still confident this was due to the energy he expended in his work but cruel students of the chemistry department have tried to dispel this illusion by explaining that in some manner a quantity of phosphorus had been spilled on the floor in the course of the day.

Phosphorus takes fire on being rubbed.

NEW BANK HOME WILL BE ERECTED

High Building at Hill and Ninth Streets Will Cost $3,000,000

Work on a new home for the Pacific National Bank on the northwest corner of Ninth and Hill streets will start within ninety days, it was announced yesterday by Fred Swenson, vice-president of the banking organization. The structure will be height limit, class A, and of steel reinforced construction, and will represent an approximate investment of $3,000,000.

Preliminary plans for the building have been completed by Architects Morgan, Walls & Clements, designers of the Bank of Italy Building on South Olive street. As announced in The Times several weeks ago, the property was purchased by a local syndicate from Adolph Fleishman for a reported consideration of $900,000.

The corner, which has a frontage of ninety-five feet on Hill street and 224 feet on Ninth street, was purchased through the realty offices of Joe Toplitzky and associates. For the purpose of erecting the building and acquiring the property, the Pacific National Building Corporation was organized recently at a capitalization of $1,500,000, headed by R. M. Smith, who is also president of the Pacific National Bank.

When the structure is completed, some time the latter part of the year, it will be the largest building in the West devoted to offices and bank quarters. The Pacific National Bank Building, as it has been named, will contain space for the local bank on the ground floor and office suites on the upper floors.

SHIP INSPECTION GROWING

Five Boats a Day Reach Quarantine at Port Here; Total for Seven Months, 990

At the rate of five ships a day, foreign vessels requiring quarantine inspection are arriving at Los Angeles Harbor, according to announcement made yesterday by Dr. Robert H. Heterick, surgeon in charge of the United States Public Health Service quarantine station at the port.

Figures compiled for the past six years by Dr. G. T. Van Voorhees, of the harbor station, show that 990 foreign ships were inspected during the past seven months, as compared with 147 ships which arrived during the entire fiscal year ending July 1, 1917. During the fiscal year 1922-23, 1082 foreign ships arrived from all ports of the world and passed Federal customs and quarantine inspection. The following table, compiled by Dr. Van Voorhees, illustrates the increasing foreign trade of Los Angeles Harbor:

1916-17	147
1917-18	128
1918-19	140
1919-20	368
1920-21	615
1921-22	716
1922-23	1,082
First seven months, 1923-24	990

The sea-going tug Sea Parrot, a fifty-four-foot craft of twenty-three tons register, arrived yesterday form Port Arthur, Tex., for the use of the United States Public Health Service at Los Angeles Harbor. The new craft is powered with a 100-horsepower heavy duty oil engine and has galley equipment, berthing accommodations for a crew of six men and fuel and water storage facilities fitting her for an extensive cruising radius. She will be used jointly by the United States Public Health Service and Customs Service.

EARLY ACTION ON TUNNEL

City Attorney Scans Law Books as Contractor is Given Chance to Resume; Association Acts

The city government, it is expected, will act early next week to take over and complete the Second-street tunnel, which was apparently abandoned by Contractor James A. Hill after the refusal of the Board of Public Works to grant him a six months' time extension.

While waiting a few days to give the absent contractor an opportunity to resume work, City Attorney Stephens is examining the law to determine the speediest legal method that can be pursued by the city to complete the tunnel. It will either be done by advertising for bids for the remaining $150,000 worth of work to be done, or by placing City Engineer Griffin on the job with city workmen.

LAW EXAMINED

The law is being carefully examined before the city moves into action so as to prevent the filing of obstructive litigation by Contractor Hill which would halt all work on the tunnel for many months. In either case, unless Contractor Hill orders his men back to work within a few days, the members of the Board of Public Works said yesterday, the contractor's $750,000 bond will be declared forfeited.

The local chapter of the Associated General Contractors of America, composed of more than 100 leading construction men in Los Angeles and Southern California, has adopted a resolution deploring the action of Mr. Hill in relation to his contract for the construction of the Second street tunnel. The resolution was passed by a unanimous vote at the regular semimonthly meeting of the chapter Thursday night at the Canterbury Inn, Tenth and Westlake streets.

The text of the resolution follows:

Whereas it has been announced in the local newspapers and such announcement has come to the attention of the Southern California Chapter, Associated General Contractors of America, that the contractor in charge of construction of the Second street tunnel in this city has abandoned the contract, and

WAS NOT MEMBER

Whereas, the announced present status of said contract and the previous circumstances involved might have the effect of casting a reflection on the contracting fraternity of this locality, to the detriment of their future activities, and

Whereas, the object of this association is to promote and establish high standards of skill, integrity and responsibility in the construction industry,

Therefore, be it resolved: That the Southern California Chapter of the Associated General Contractors of America desires to place themselves on record as being opposed to such dilatory performance of the contract as is alleged to have been involved in this instance and does not approve of the alleged action of the contractor or contractors, in abandoning this important contract.

And furthermore, This association desires to state that the contractor, or contractors, involved in this Second street tunnel contract are not members of this association, nor have they ever been.

Sheriff Denies Failure to Aid in Raisin Case

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, Feb. 1.—Denial of charges made in open court by Mrs. Peter Papazian that he had refused her protection last April, when her home was wrecked during dissension over a raisin contract, was made by Sheriff William F. Jones in a statement today.

The charge was made by Mrs. Papazian and repeated on the stand by her husband during the hearing of a suit of the Sun-Maid Raisin Growers to collect $6000 for alleged undelivered raisins and $1500 in damages. Papazian charged that he was coerced into signing the contract during the raisin drive last April, and asks cancellation of the agreement and dismissal of the action.

On the stand yesterday Papazian revived the charges of neglect by Sheriff Jones when he charged that he sent three messages to Sheriff Jones asking for protection and charging that his family was being harassed by "mobs" of the raisin association, but that no attention was paid to the appeals.

CONFESSION EXAMINED

Visalia Authorities Interested in Report on Suspect

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VISALIA, Feb. 1.—Local authorities are seeking more details concerning the reported admission of two hold-ups near Visalia recently by R. A. Robertson, who is being held in Los Angeles as a robber suspect. It is thought he may be one of the men who held up Leland Rountree and Willis Lambdin on January 20 last.

This information came as officers were seeing to obtain a statement from the four Exeter lads taken above Badger a few days ago and suspected of implication in the hold-ups and recent robberies. These boys, Willie Sawyer, 18 years of age; John McCormick, 18; S. P. Bence, 17, and James Lasseter, 16, deny any connection with the hold-ups. They, however, confessed to robbing the Link bakery at Exeter of groceries and of cashing bad checks in Lindsay and Cutler, police say.

The boys are still in jail. The two older boys, according to officers, will be tried on regular warrants, while the two younger lads will be tried by the Juvenile Court.

RANCHER ACQUITTED IN SHOOTING OF BOY

VISALIA, Feb. 1.—Otto Luhdorff, Hanford rancher, but formerly of Visalia, was acquitted in the second trial for assault with a deadly weapon upon Frank Schlemmer, Visalia High School boy, on the night of Halloween, 1922. The jury deliberated about ten minutes. The jury in the first trial disagreed. Luhdorff was accused of shooting Schlemmer when the latter with his comrades engaged in a seasonal prank, trying to get a wagon which belonged to the defendant from a vacant lot back of the Luhdorff home. Numerous shot were removed from his legs, young Schlemmer declared.

CONDUCTS HEARING ON CAPT. THEW ESTATE

EXETER, Feb. 1.—Ralph W. Smith, attorney from the office of the State Controller, conducted a hearing before U. D. Switzer, inheritance tax appraiser, in the courthouse at Visalia in the estate of Capt. Richard Thew, long-time resident of the Yokhol Valley, who died some months ago. The estate is estimated around $1,000,000, most of which is located in Ohio. About $100,000 was the estimate of the estate in Tulare county, which is divided among personal property, notes, mortgages and stocks.

TRIAL IN SHOOTING NEAR JURY'S HANDS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, Feb. 1.—The State expected to close its case today in the trial of Ed Byers, facing a jury in Department One of the Superior Court in the matter of a shooting affray said to have grown out of a quarrel over a cigarette. J. N. Savage was the chief witness for the prosecution today. Savage testified that he received a gun wound on the right hand and left forearm at the hands of Byers for no other provocation than a disagreement over the merits of a certain tobacco and "hand-rolled cigarettes," or "tailor-made" variety.

YOUTH ALMOST DIES FROM ESCAPING GAS

PORTERVILLE, Feb. 1. — Ed Roberts of this city had a narrow escape from asphyxiation. Roberts lost his sense of smell as a result of injuries sustained in a recent motorcycle accident. While in the bathroom he felt himself becoming very weak and then discovered the gas jet was wide open, but the escaping gas was unlit. He managed to turn off the gas, opened the bathroom door and collapsed. A physician was summoned, and the young man was revived with difficulty.

JURY SOON TO GET RANCH SLAYING CASE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HANFORD, Feb. 1.—The case of Charles A. Stephens, accused of the murder of his wife to secure possession of a large and valuable ranch near this city, probably will go to the jury tonight, as Attorney Russell, assisting Dist.-Atty. McKay, is making the closing argument this afternoon.

MARSHAL LEAVES

DINUBA, Feb. 1.—Resignation of B. P. Robertson, City Marshal of Dinuba for the past year, former deputy sheriff of Tulare county under Court Smith, took effect today. Robertson is leaving Dinuba for Modesto, where he assumes management of a 700-acre ranch. He will be succeeded temporarily by Fred Robertson, who has been serving as night watchman, who in turn will be succeeded by R. G. Cummings.

This total—$144,000,000.00—was much more than our net income. The Committee believed it saw an opportunity to benefit you through selling and reinvesting, without risk, in order to increase the earning power of invested assets. They therefore sold Bonds amounting to (par value) $44,845,000 during the year, of which $33,182,900.00 were United States Government Bonds. By this process, and by transferring certain foreign bonds, in reinsuring foreign business, they increased the annual power of Ledger Assets by over $1,000,000.00 annually for an average of nine years.

We sold Government Bonds—

1st. Because our holdings were proportionately too large in Peace days ($120,000,000 gold

2d. Because we could sell at a profit;

3d. Because thereby earning power could be increased and the cost of your insurance reduced

Experience As Nurse Causes Mrs. Fleming To Endorse Tanlac

"I would never have believed any medicine on earth could help me like Tanlac did," is the precise statement of Mrs. Celia Fleming, 1915 Addison St., Berkeley, Calif., a practical nurse of sixteen years experience.

"In 1904 a serious operation weakened my system so I never saw a real well day until I took Tanlac three years ago. I never seemed to be hungry, my stomach was so disordered I could scarcely retain a thing I ate, and I lost weight till I was almost a shadow. I was very anemic, and shattered nerves and sleepless nights contributed even more to my already miserable state.

"Tanlac built up my appetite and digestion wonderfully, and every single ailment went away. Then, with returning strength came a 32-pound increase in weight, and from that day three years ago my health has been splendid. I recommend Tanlac to many of my patients, for it is indeed a remarkable medicine."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills.

Woman Who Figured in Conviction of Chemist Granted Decree

Eloise Clement Harding, central figure in the sensational Degnan assault case, was granted a divorce yesterday from her husband, Frank E. Harding, on the grounds of desertion.

She charged that her husband advised her to come to Southern California for her health, and she was forced to obtain employment as a lecturer and scenario writer in order to support herself. They were married in Memphis, Tenn., on December 20, 1812, and separated at Portland on March 10, 1921.

After hearing the testimony Judge Summerfield of the Superior Court granted the woman a divorce. She was represented in court by Attorney George Breslin.

Mrs. Harding's last appearance in court was in December, 1923. At that time she appeared as the principal accuser of Michael Degnan, wealthy radium chemist. She charged him with attempting to assault and murder her at her home.

Degnan was convicted after a bitter trial which continued for several weeks and appealed the case. The appeal is now pending.

MISHAPS TO INCE COMPANIES OCCUR AT PLACES FAR APART

Two companies on location at widely separated points for the Thomas H. Ince studios, suffered accidents simultaneously which resulted in one man being taken to a hospital and four other persons narrowly escaping serious injuries.

In the first accident, two doubles, F. D. Hamilton and William Russell, were piloting a heavy lifeboat in the surf at Playa del Rey for a scene in "Love Island," which is being directed by John Griffith Wray. Cross-currents swung the boat broadside to the surf and it capsized, throwing the occupants onto jagged rocks. Hamilton, rushed to a near-by hospital, was found to have a badly sprained leg. Russell was uninjured.

The other mishap occurred as a production company was returning from Balboa, where scenes for "The Marriage Cheat" had been shot. James Kirkwood and Lila Lee are cofeatured. A short distance from the beach in the heavy fog, a big inclosed automobile carrying Margaret Livingston, Ivy Frank, William Beaudine, the director, and Lex Neal, skidded. Plunging into slippery mud, it turned over. Other members of the party extricated the passengers. None was injured.

FRAUD CASE IN TRIAL

Hearing of Joseph Green, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, commenced yesterday in the court of Justice Ballard. It is charged that Green represented himself to be the owner of the Capitol Dye Works at Ocean Park and "sold" it to Isadore Schulman for $5000. Schulman later found that Green owned no interest in the property, it is charged. After hearing several witnesses, Justice Ballard continued the hearing until today.
